STINSON BEACH'S NOISY ROOSTERS

Raid Finds Game Cock Industry

Farmer Is Found Amid Weapons

By ROSS DAVIS

The crowing of his cocks helped do him in.

Only a short distance from the little Stinson Beach farmhouse, his neighbor harkened to the raucous morning cries of the feisty cocks.

The neighbor happened to be a deputy sheriff, and his information, coupled with that of a friend of the district attorney, led to the arrest of the 47-year-old farm tenant, Charles Corwin Frazier. A noon raid yesterday bagged his 11 illegal fighting cocks and six of their hens, and "hundreds" of wicked-looking steel gaffs for cock-fighting.

GAFFS BY MAIL

The raid also broke up what apparently was a booming nation-wide business of selling the gaffs by mail. An advertisement by Frazier in an underground magazine for cock-fighters openly declared a pile-up of orders makes delivery of gaffs not possible until late November.

First light on the activities came in a letter to Dist. Atty Bruce B. Bales from James Powell, district attorney of San Luis Obispo County, who wrote Sept. 8 he was having problems with illegal cock fights in his county and he heard a manufacturer was making gaffs in Stinson Beach.

FREE PAMPHLET

Powell included the ad which Frazier had placed in "Grit and Steel." It promised a free pamphlet, a pair of gaffs for $22.50, and new leather straps for $2.50 to bind the gaffs to the cocks' legs.

The ad also noted the delay in filling orders, and cautioned California residents to add four per cent sales tax. It boldly gave Frazier's address and name.

Bales said it was learned about the same time that Deputy Billy Wallace had heard cocks crowing near his home. His information, plus the ad, were presented yesterday to Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin in Municipal Court. A search warrant was obtained.

Bales, Asst. Dist. Atty. Leonard Shaw, one of their investigators, Sheriff's Inspector Guido Battaglia, two deputies, and Mel Morse of Marin County Humane Society and two society officers went to Frazier's home just north of Stinson Beach on Shoreline Highway.

Shaw said they surprised Frazier, a former carpenter who quit work becuase of a back injury two years ago, in a small machine shop near the little frame house in which he and his wife reside.

In the shop, said Shaw, were hundreds of gaffs in various stages of completion. Officers also found metal lathes, tools, a kiln for heating the metal, and leather straps. Beyond the shop, down toward a small canyon, they found 19 wire and frame coops containing the fighting cocks, hens and small chickens.

Bales, who said breed of the cocks was not determined, said

Isolated Marines Taking A Beating

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese forces attacked the beleaguered U.S. Marine border post at Con Thien with renewed fury today, carrying their virtual siege of the isolated post into a fifth day.

The Communists launched ground probes and heavy rocket, artillery and mortar barrages at the camp, where 600 Americans have been killed or wounded this month, most of them this week.

Details of the new fighting were not immediately available. But UPI photographer Dana Stone reported from Con Thien that the Marines were taking heavy punishment.

The firing was so heavy that helicopters had trouble getting in to evacuate the wounded. Stone reported the Marines were short on medical supplies and food.

The new attacks came on the heels of day-long bombardments and ground probes yesterday that killed 16 Americans and wounded more than 170.

The Americans fought back with tactical fighter-bombers, giant B52 Stratofortresses, Navy gun barrages and artillery fire at the rate of 6,000 rounds a day.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. Navy jets battled their way to Haiphong past Communist MIGs and with blockbuster bombs destroyed the major North Vietnamese port's last bridge to the south and ripped another span repaired after earlier raids, spokesmen said.

Hanoi claimed downing seven jets raiding Haiphong yesterday. American spokesmen said one Navy fighter-bomber was lost, the 680th U.S. plane lost over North Vietnam.

U.S. spokesmen said Marines, fighting in monsoon mud through four days of around the clock mortar and artillery fire, smashed two heavy North Vietnamese ground assaults against Con Thien, just below the border demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

In the air war, A4 Skyhawk pilots from the 7th Fleet Carrier Coral Sea reported dogfighting with four MIG interceptors over Haiphong. Both sides fired. U.S. spokesmen said both sides apparently missed.

In other action: Viet Cong ground fire shot down a U.S. Army CH47 Chinook helicopter on the coast 175 miles northeast of Saigon, killing six Americans aboard, spokesmen said.

Ex-Minister In Red Probe

SAIGON (UPI) —National police handcuffed former South Vietnamese Economics Minister Au Truong Thanh and hustled the former presidential peace candidate to headquarters today for interrogation on suspicions of having "liaison" with the Communists.

Thanh, once praised by American officials for his work in fighting inflation in South Vietnam, protested the action as "illegal and unconstitutional."

Police Director Brig. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan later apologized to Thanh for the handcuffs and said they were a "mistake and a misunderstanding." Thanh, who resigned from the government last year in protest over Loan's "police state tactics," was barred from running for president in the Sept. 3 elections because the police said he had "a tendency toward communism."

Gromyko Hits U.S. Peace Try

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The Soviet Union said today the Vietnam war may spill into new areas and draw other nations into the conflict despite "tranquilizing statements" by Washington.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko also told the United Nations General Assembly that the "first item for peace" must be the withdrawal of Israeli armed forces from land captured from the Arabs in the June Middle East war.

OTHER ITEMS

Gromyko put two other items before the assembly. One called for a treaty outlawing the use or threat of nuclear weapons and the other urged action to define what constitutes aggression, a task which has been before the United Nations since it was born.

Describing the Vietnam war as the world's biggest since 1945, Gromyko said:

"Its danger lies not only in the scale and intensity of hostilities but also in that at any moment the fighting can overrun new areas and draw new states into its orbit.

REJECTS APPEAL

The Soviet minister rejected U. S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg's appeal before the assembly for cooperation in ending the war. He said it was obvious the U. S. statement contains nothing new. Gromyko accused the United States of "gross violation of international agreements, the flouting of elementary standards of international law, disregard for world public opinion" in its "intervention" in Vietnam.

RISKY ROCK

Scientists Fear Harm From Beat

BREMEN, Germany (GF) — Is beat music dangerous to health?

A study by the Max Planck Institute for Brain Research in Goettingen, Germany, suggests the answer is "yes." In the study, it was found that the pounding rhythms of the music produce a mental stress on listeners, unnaturally influencing heartbeat.

In addition, it reportedly precipitates increased secretion of adrenalin and can lead to collapse of the circulatory system in extreme cases. This is a possible explanation of the none-to-seldom cases in which beat-crazed teen-aged girls fall unconscious during performances of the music.

The study was conducted after the hostess of a children's radio show in Bremen contended beat music might have serious effects on youngsters, who continually listen to it.

At present, there are about 500 composers, 120 lyricists and 200 music publishers in West Germany supplying the market with beat. Working together, they produce 360 new beat tunes each month.

Romney Hints At Hat Tossing Soon; Californians Busy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Michigan's Gov. George Romney has hinted strongly that he may make an early start in the Republican presidential derby with an announcement of his candidacy perhaps next month.

Presumably the aim would be to rally Republican liberals and moderates around one candidate—Romney—to face any challenge from Richard M. Nixon or perhaps California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Before winging into Reagan country here late yesterday, Romney acknowledged his supporters had been seeking prime television time for a "report to the people," soon after Oct. 1.

Romney observed that the report would not necessarily be limited to his findings on the current tour of American cities—thus raising the likelihood that he would announce hs candidacy.

However, Romney said he had not made up his mind on any "special announcement."

Romney began the extended 17-city trip Sept. 19. Its aim, he said, was "nonpolitical"—to find solutions to the violent troubles of the cities.

But the trip's itinerary also gave him exposure in the big-vote cities and a chance to show concern over city and Negro problems.

REAGAN TACTICS

Meanwhile, plans for a Reagan-for-president favorite son delegation began to take shape today with the Republican state chairman predicting California would sweep into the GOP national convention solidly behind Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Reagan's political aides were certain to be on hand as the first of 1,500 California Republicans today began checking into the new Anaheim convention center across the road from Disneyland for the Republican State Central Committee's annual three-day meeting.

Their object: come away Sunday with solid convention backing for Reagan's plan to lead a California delegation of at least 86 to the GOP convention in Miami Beach next year as a favorite son.

BAGLEY ASSURED

State GOP chairman James V. Halley said he believed Reagan was sincere in disclaiming presidential ambitions. He said the governor wanted to be a favorite son only to prevent a repeat of the bitter 1964 GOP California presidential primary between New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Barry Goldwater.

Halley moved to quiet fears of Republican moderates that some of the governor's conservative advisers will try to keep them off the delegation.

"I am confident that the governor of the state of California, in looking at the matter, will have a delegation that is fairly representative of the Republican party," said Halley.

This week Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Rafael, called for "inclusion of people from the so-called moderate segment." Reagan said the delegation would be "representative of all segments" of the GOP.

POLITICS NOW TABOO TOPIC FOR SUNDAYS

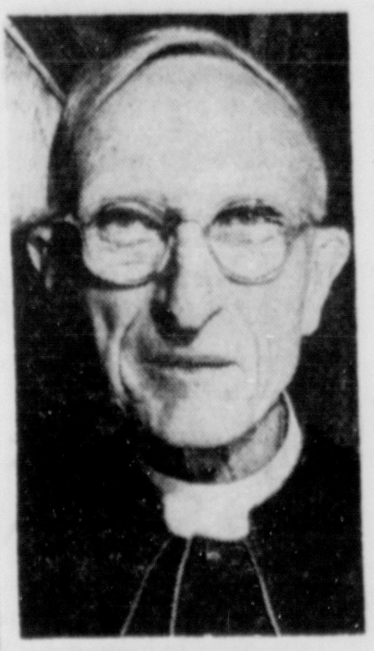
SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Somehting new has been added to the conduct of governor's luncheons in California.

Namely, you don't discuss politics on Sunday.

Paul Beck, press secretary to Gov. Ronald Reagan, issued a notice to the effect that Reagan would entertain Gov. George Romney of Michigan at the Pacific Palisades home of the governor next Sunday.

He said members of the press will be welcomed briefly before the luncheon. The notice ended:

"However, because it is on Sunday, no politics will be discussed. It is strictly a social meeting."



MSGR. JOHN McGARR

AT ST. ANSELM'S

McGarr Resigns; Bishop Selected

Msgr. John McGarr, pastor of St. Anselm's Catholic Church in San Anselmo for 37 years, this week submitted his resignation to Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken.

According to a spokesman at the archdiocese office in San Francisco, Bishop William J. McDonald, recently appointed auxiliary to Bishop McGucken, will succeed the 82-year-old Msgr. McGarr as chief pastor of the church, Shady Lane and Bolinas Avenue.

Msgr. McGarr, dean of Marin County Catholic clergy since 1938, observed his 55th year as a priest last July. He was elevated to the monsignorate in 1947 by Pope Pius XII.

The retiring priest was ordained at St. Mary's Cathedral in San Francisco in June 1912.

Prior to assuming his duties at St. Anselm's in 1934, Father McGarr served parishes in Stockton, San Francisco and San Jose.

Father McGarr has also been a member of the Council of Vigilance since 1935 and was a member of the Archdiocesan Consultors from 1942 to 1955.

In 1962 St. Anselm's honored Msgr. McGarr on his 50th anniversary as an ordained priest.

Bishop McDonald was appointed to the auxiliary post in July. At that time he resigned as rector of the Catholic University of America in Washington D.C. He was elevated to a bishop in 1964.

Arrival time of Bishop McDonald from the East has not been announced as yet, according to Bishop McGucken's press office.

Hemisphere Ministers Told Guevarra Bolivia Guerrilla

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western Hemisphere ministers opened a conference on the Castro-Communist threat today with a report that Ernesto (Che) Guevarra, long missing from Cuba, is with guerrillas in the Bolivian jungles.

Bolivian Foreign Minister Walter Guevara Arze said he would produce for the foreign affairs chiefs photos and other captured documents indicating that Guevara, one-time top aide to Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, is helping the insurrection in mountaintus Boliva.

The three-day high-level meeting of the 21 Organization of American States members was called by Venezuela, a long-time prime target of Castro's revolutionary exports. Venezuela had a nine-point proposal for tightening the OAS quarentine again Cuba.

Che Guevara was last seen publicly in Cuba about two and one half years ago. And for a time was thought to have been killed. But Castro has mentioned him occasionally, indicated he still is active.

U.S. strategists hope the session will demonstrate hemispheric solidarity against Castro's exports of subversion and boost already adopted OAS policies.

They doubt the OAS will vote for any dramatic new action such as an economic blockade or a hemisphere-wide boycott of non-Communist countries trading with Cuba.

Venezuela's proposals include OAS denunciation of Cuban "persistent acts of aggression," a renewed appeal to Western countries to curb their trade with Cuba, a call on Moscow and Peking to quit encouraging Havana's subversion, and tighter policing measures among the OAS states to prevent entry of persons, arms, funds and propaganda from Cuba.

Juvenile Aides Suspended For Talking

By DAVID DIETZ

Two employees, who publicly opposed closing of the controversial Family Rehabilitation Center in Lucas Valley, were suspended for three days yesterday.

Chief County Probation Officer Walter H. Busher, whose department runs the facility, said he suspended residential workers Robert Ralls and John M. Hitchcock, both 27, for failure to obtain permission to speak out against the closing.

Busher recommended to the board of supervisors at a hearing Tuesday that the center be shut smidst growing criticism over its operations. Ralls and Hitchcock told the board a shutdown would be premature.

Busher yesterday read a statement on the suspensions:

"Both employees appeared before and spoke to the board of supervisors without requesting or receiving authorization to do so, and presented their views in the context of direct opposition to the position of their superior, the chief probation officer.

"I regard their action in the least as an exercise of poor judgment and, at the most, as insubordination. I feel their conduct calls for action which reminds them and other staff that the department has but one spokesman when presenting crucial matters to the board of supervisors.

"The three-day suspension is intended to serve as that reminder."

Ralls and Hitchcock said yesterday they considered the suspensions unfair, asserting their belief Busher had encouraged FRC staff members to present their views to the superviosrs.

Busher countered he gave expressed permission only to Dr. Philip S. Hicks, FRC medical director, and Eve Citrin, clinical director, to sepak. Both presented views against a shutdown.

"There is such a thing as freedom of speech," objected Ralls, of Larkspur, who has been employed at the center since August 1965. He said he was "under the impression" any staff mambers could speak at the hearing and that "no harm would come to them" if they opposed the closing.

Hitchcock, a SanRafael resident, agreed, adding he did not believe Busher "expected us to speak out." Hitchcock became an FRC employee a month after Ralls.

Both are receiving salaries of $790 monthly. Ralls formerly worked with emotionally disturbed youths at a San Francisco child care center, and

Kerr Replacement Reported Chosen

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —The money-conscious University of California regents have informally selected a one-time Defense Department efficiency expert to succeed fired president Clark Kerr, United Press International learned last night.

A source close to the board said university vice president Charles J. Hitch had been generally agreed upon by the regents, including Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Hitch, 57, a former assistant to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara who brought "systems analysis" techniques to the Pentagon, would fill a post vacant since Kerr was ousted last Jan. 20.

VOTE DUE TODAY?

Formal action by the regents could come behind closed doors during their meeting in Los Angeles late today, the source said. He indicated informal agreement was reached yesterday during private conversations.

Hitch's most important qualifications were his record in bringing economies to a vast bureaucracy and the fact he is relatively unknown and therefore uncontroversial.

CREATIVITY ISSUE

Hitch impressed the regents with his expertise and quest for greater efficiency in financial matters, the source said, adding that some members felt he lacks the creativity of such national educational figures as the presidents of Harvard and Yale.

The emergence of Hitch, number two man in the university hierarchy, as the regents' choice came as a surprise even to board members, the source said.

Only two weeks ago, members of a six-man regents committee appointed to conduct a nationwide search for a successor let it be known that they were far from their goal.

But committee members circulated word of their recommendation privately among regents at the meeting yesterday, the source said.

He added that regents felt the troubled university badly needs a president and cannot afford a fight over Kerr's successor. Such a mess would result from a conflict that "they would never get a president," he said.

Regents Seek $65 Million More State Aid For 1968

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of California officials still struggling to balance a severely cut current budget, asked today for an increase of $65 million in state support for 1968-69.

The university's budget for next year, presented to the Board of Regents here for review, totals $474 million. Of this, the state share would total $308 million.

State support in the current year is $243 million.

University officials said the additional funds are needed to "match the expanded workload and restore austerity reductions made in the current fiscal year."

The budget report listed current enrollment at the university at 96,000 and said 103,000 students are expected in the 1968-69 academic year.

The requested increase in state funds includes $12.2 million for partial restoration of what was eliminated by cuts in 1967-68.

Included in this would be increases in funds for research, particularly agricultural research. The report said current budget reductions in this area "have seriously affected the progress of research areas such as plant pest control, crop yield study, nutrition and mechanization of harvests." It said, "Failure to provide for these programs in 1968-69 will result in further curtailment."

The new budget also seeks to plug holes left in the current appropriations to organized research, agricultural extension and campus maintenance. In the latter area, administrators report a backlog of deferred repairs and equipment replaceplacement which now exceeds $4.2 million.

Senate Ethics Probe Has Tough Sledding

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee, grappling with its second case of the year, is reported finding it difficult to obtain evidence sufficient to clear or to condemn the conduct of Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo.

There were indications the committee would like to reach some decision soon, perhaps next week. Sources close to the panel said its members are mindful that Long is up for reelection in 1968 and already faces the challenge of Lt. Gov. Thomas Eagleton in the Missouri Democratic primary 11 months from now.

The inquiry stems from a charge published May 26 by Life magazine, which accused Long of misusing his power as a Senate subcommittee chairman to help attorneys defending Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa.

Long denied in a Senate speech that he misused a Senate inquiry into wiretapping and invasions of privacy to help the Hoffa defense.

Life said Long received $48,000 in 1963 and 1964 from Morris A. Shenker, St. Louis attorney who represented Hoffa in an appeal from a jury-tampering conviction.

Long acknowledged the payments from Shenker, but said they were legal fees which did not involve the Teamsters directly or indirectly. He said they were for client referrals and legal work done jointly with the St. Louis lawyer.

One man involved in the inquiry said it is proving more difficult than the investigation which led the committee to recommend, and the Senate to adopt, a resolution censuring Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., for financial misconduct.

In that case, the source said, the committee had a ready-made starting point in some 70 columns by Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson leveling misconduct charges against Dodd.

New Abortion Law Backing

SEATTLE (AP) — The drive to liberalize laws against abortion had the backing today of the bishops of the Episcopal Church. However, they said such operations should be made legal only in specifically limited circumstances.

It was the first time they had taken a stand on the question, which has become an issue in many states.

The action came at the church's general convention, where a newly arrived special guest, the 100th archbishop of Canterbury, Arthur Michael Ramsey, joined in some of the proceedings.

Pressing efforts for Christian unity, he said yesterday that the goal is one united church.

He said he doubted "Christendom as a whole would accept the Pope's infallibility" to define faith and morals "but I think Christendom as a whole might accept the Pope as presiding bishop among bishops of the world."

AN IMPORTANT SAFETY ANNOUNCEMENT FROM THE NWP:

NEXT WEEK THE PUERTO SUELLO TUNNEL WILL BE OPEN AGAIN

On Wednesday, September 27th, the Puerto Suello Tunnel will be open to rail traffic for the first time in more than six years.

This tunnel, which runs under Puerto Suello Hill about a mile north of San Rafael, has been closed since July 20, 1961, when it was destroyed by a fire and cave-in.

The tunnel has now been completely rebuilt.

A WORD OF CAUTION

With the restoration of rail service through the tunnel, trains may be expected at any time on NWP tracks between San Rafael and points north.

Persons living in the vicinity are requested to warn their children of the danger of playing on or near the tracks or tunnel. In particular, they should caution young children who may never have seen trains operating over these tracks.

Also, all persons are requested to exercise extreme caution in approaching the tracks at crossings or other accessible points. The use of space on NWP property on or near the tracks by cars, boats or trailers is prohibited.

Damage Soars In Texas From Killer Storm

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI)—Rivers and streams glutted from the thunderous rains of hurricane Beulah flooded much of the flat coastal plain of Texas today, isolating cities and towns and shoving Beulah's damage total toward a half billion dollars.

Not since hurricane Carla roared in with 175 mile-an-hour winds causing $400 million damage and killing 34 persons Sept. 8-14, 1961, had Texas had such a storm.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at New Orleans, which tracked Beulah's footsteps, said early today it had diminished to maximum winds of less than 40 miles an hour and had moved into northern Mexico, south of Laredo.

Rains totaling more than 22 inches in some areas sent rivers over the flat, mesquite-studded ranchlands.

Some 30,000 square miles of Texas felt the storm's fury — about 200 miles from Houston to San Antonio and south some 200 miles to Laredo, east approximately 100 miles to Brownsville, and then north on the diagonal of the Texas Coast.

About 100,000 persons were in shelters in Texas and at least an additional 35,000 were refugees in northern Mexico.

At least 56 tornadoes were spawned by Beulah Wednesday and yesterday — dozens more than any hurricane in history.

Gov. John Connally also formed a survey team of state officials to tour damaged areas. He described much of south Texas and the lower Texas Coast as a disaster area.

Escobedo Faces Drug Violations

CHICAGO (AP)—Danny Escobedo, whose conviction for murder was reversed in a historic U.S. Supreme Court decision, was arrested today and accused of violating federal narcotics laws.

Escobedo was charged with violations of the narcotic and marijuana laws. Authorities declined to be more specific about the charges. He was arrested while driving his car on a city street, police said.

Escobedo, 29, has been arrested on various charges since the U.S. Supreme Court reversed his 1960 conviction of murdering his brother-in-law.

The 1964 decision, considered a legal landmark, held that an accused person must be advised of his constitutional rights to legal counsel before he can be questioned by police.

Redevelopment Board Asks Budget Increase

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency Wednesday agreed to seek federal approval of a $180,000 increase in the redevelopment budget. The total budget would rise to $3,230,000 with the increase.

Major items in the cost increases are $72,000 in interest on the agency's $1.3 million debt, $21,000 in salaries, $26,000 in administrative costs, $15,000 in land acquisition and disposition, $4,500 in federal inspection fees and $2,400 for decreased income from investments and other revenue sources.

Federal grant of $120,000 would pick up two-thirds of the inrease, while the local third would be $2,000 cash and $58,000 in non-cash credit for the county's support of Manzanita Neighborhood Center and the expenditures of the Southern Marin Boys' Club for improvements of its clubhouse.

The agency also authorized listing with a real estate broker 12 Marin City lots on Guy Circle and Keys Court for sale to the public.

The agency approved spending $1,300 for engineering, surveying and staking the lots, but turned down a proposal to spend $5,000 to advertise the sale.

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency also:

ATTORNEY — Approved higher fees for agency attorney Leland H. Jordan. Jordan's hourly fees, now $20 anl $25 depending on the type of work, would be raised to $30 and $35. For court appearances, Jordan will receive $200 a day in superior court instead of $175 and $175 in municipal court instead of $150. Maximum payment is $8,000 a year.

LITIGATION — Authorized a special contract with Jordan, as required by federal regulations, for his services in litigating the agency's suit with Ceccotti and Son of Sausalito. Maximum fee for the suit was set at $1,750.

$250,000 Federal Grant Asked For Low-Rent Units

The Marin County Housing Authority Wednesday authorized applying to the Federal Housing Assistance office for $290,000 a year to help finance a low-income rental program in Marin.

The housing authority would lease up to 300 homes and apartments from private owners, with rentals ranging from $80 to $175 a month. Federal assistance under the contract sought would range from $63 to $121 a month and average charges to tenants would be from $45 to $106.

The authority also changed, for the first time since 1960, the income limits for applicants for public housing or the leased housing.

Maximum income for one person would remain at $3,700. The limit for a two-person family would rise from $3,700 to $4,000, and maximum for a family of five would rise from $4,500 to $5,300. For persons already in the housing, income limit for a five-member family would rise from $5,250 to $6,900.

Executive Director Donald O. Stutsman told the authority that the Novato senior citizens housing project should be under construction in January. Working drawings are due Oct. 1 and bids may be advertised by Nov. 15, Stutsman said.

Marin County Housing Authority Also:

STUDY — Authorized Stutsman to negotiate with Tiburon architect Warren Callister for a $1,000 site study of the Hilarita housing project. Callister is to provide a site unit plan so the authority can determine economic feasibility of a non-profit group developing some 10 acres of the 15-acre site in moderate income housing. The study would also provide information to help the Tiburon City Council in deciding whether to authorize such a development.

INSURANCE — Authorized fire insurance for the Hilarita project for a $780 annual premium with the Booth Insurance Co., low among three offers.

RENTS — Authorized writeoff of three vacated Marin City tenant accounts totaling $1,364. Writeoffs for 1967 equal six-tenths of one per cent, Stutsman said.

STREETS — Authorized a street agreement with the county for dedicating a right of way on Schmidt Lane and for widening North San Pedro Road in Santa Venetia.

Pair Offers Marin City Bigger Voice

Two county board members Wednesday offered to give up one of the two positions each holds in an effort to give Marin City a greater voice in redevelopment and housing affairs.

Philip S. Ehrlich Jr., chairman of the housing authority, offered to step down from the redevelopment agency board, and George C. Goheen, redevelopment chairman, offered to resign from the housing authority.

Their resignations from the twin boards would make way for two Marin City residents to be named by the board of supervisors.

The housing authority directed commissioners James O. Quiett and executive director Donald O. Stutsman to discuss the proposition with the Marin City Community Services District. If the proposal is accepted, the services district would name five Marin City residents and the supervisors would select two of them for the boards.

It was proposed that the resigning members remain as non-voting members, while the new agency member would be a non-voting member of the housing authority and vice versa.

POLITICS

mer Los Angeles County Republican chairman now beginning to round up Romney support in California, warned Reagan must make a place for Romney men on his delegation.

If not, said Leetham, "we would have to decide whether to challenge him" in the primary or "expose the fact that he is goin gback on his word" to remain a non-candidate.

Sen. Charles H. Percy charged the Johnson Administration has "constantly been wrong, ever since we started," in its public assessments of the war in Vietnam.

Percy, rated a potential contender for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, said his complaint will stand after people forget the assertion of Michigan Gov. George Romney that Romney was once brainwashed about the war.

Percy said nothing directly about the talk of his standing as a possible presidential contender less than two years after his first election victory. He has said repeatedly he is not a candidate for the nomination, but has also declared he will seek to go to the 1968 GOP national convention as Illinois' favorite son.

Percy, who previously advocated steps that could lead to de-escalation, called yesterday in Chicago for an end to the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam near the Communist China border.

Percy said the strikes involve too much risk of Chinese intervention and added: "The American people do not want such a war and they do not want to take the risk of such a war."

Eighteen helicopters whirled overhead and a fleet of tugs, yachts and other small craft clustered around the liner as she steamed past the Statue of Liberty.

BERNARD GOLDFINE

Gift-Giving Goldfine Is Dead At 76

BOSTON (AP) —Industrialist Bernard Goldfine, gift-giving friend of former presidential aide Sherman Adams, died at his home today at age 76. His White House presents drew nationwide attention in 1958.

The one-time millionaire textile tycoon had sent expensive gifts to President Dwight D. Eisenhower and to Adams, the former New Hampshire governor who was Eisenhower's top aide.

Goldfine's life was marked by congressional investigation, conviction of nearly $800,000 in tax evasion and a jail term.

The cause of his death was not immediately revealed.

Goldfine's downfall began when Adams, then the assistant to the president, testified before the House special subcommittee on legislative oversight in June 1958.

Testimony showed that Goldfine had given Adams such things as a vicuna coat and once paid hotel bills totaling $2,171.62 for Adams.

In 1960, Goldfine was indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of wilfully evading $790,000 in federal income taxes. In June the following year he was sentenced to a year and a day in prison after being convicted on the charge. He also was fined $110,000.

He served six months of the sentence at Danbury, Conn., Federal Correctional Institution and was transferred to the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital on Staten Island, N.Y., when he suffered a stroke.

A sick man, he was paroled on Feb. 23, 1962.

He was declared insolvent 45 days later. At the time, he still owned properties in Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Ex-Marine Sniper Gets Probation

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A retired Marine Corps major who claims he always hits what he shoots at was placed on five years' probation yesterday for shooting at military police.

George Fraser, 51, now a Pacific Grove dry cleaner, testified he didn't remember the incident but the fact he missed the soldiers showed that he did not intend to kill them.

Fraser had pleaded guilty to assault. He was fined $300 in addition to probation. He also was ordered not to drink liquor for five years.

Orr Pleads Innocent To Dance Hall Fracas

An innocent plea for Fairfax Police Chief James R. Orr, charged with disturbing the peace, was entered in Marin Municipal Court yesterday. Jury trial was scheduled for Oct. 16.

Roger P. Garety, attorney who appeared for Orr, declined to waive Orr's right to have trial within a 30-day period, commenting earlier that he felt an early trial was in Orr's best interest.

"Chief Orr, unlike the complainant, will do his talking from the witness stand in court — the forum where a case should be tried," he told newsmen. "He is a good officer and a good man. I've had many calls in this regard and I'm confident he'll be vindicated."

Orr, 39, is accused of disturbing the peace of Richard D. Conn, 27, dance hall operator of San Anselmo. Conn made a citizen's arrest of Orr and signed the formal complaint. He alleges Orr conducted himself in an offensive manner at Irwin Street Warehouse in San Rafael Saturday.

STANFORD'S YOUNGEST—Due to turn 19 tomorrow, Harvey M. Friedman is the youngest assistant professor ever appointed at Stanford University. Cutting short his high school career three years ago, he just earned his PhD degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. (UPI Telephoto)

A DOCTORATE AT 19

Teen-Age Prof Calls For Shakeup In U. S. Schools

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University has made the youngest professorial appointment in its history, an 18-year-old youth with a liking for Beethoven and tennis — and a strong conviction that American education needs changes.

Prof. Harvey M. Friedman has been appointed to teach mathematical logic at a salary of $10,000 a year. He has the rank of assistant professor.

Friedman, who went to Highland Park, Ill., high school entered Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the fall of 1964 and earned his doctorate Aug. 31, has some definite ideas of today's education.

At a news conference, Friedman expressed the belief that America's education is too regimented.

"Students should have more control of their social relations," said Friedman who had the "usual dates and dances" in school. "They should be allowed to do whatever they want under the law," he continued.

"The university's concern should be whether they can meet the academic standards and pass the required examinations."

"And the curriculum itself, in a general way, should be a concern of the students. The university's right to expel should be on academic standards alone," he said.

Friedman, who will be 19 tomorrow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Friedman of Highland Park. His father is a businessman.

He says it doesn't bother him that some of the students in his course of recursion theory in mathematical logic will be six to seven years older than he is.

Write-In Plans For Board Job

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — John Ross, a Progressive Labor Party member, says he will run as a write-in candidate for the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

His written application for a place on the ballot was rejected yesterday because he had scratched out a statement asserting he lived in the city at least five years. Registrar of Voters Frank Quinn ruled the application defective because it had been altered.

Ross admits he did not come to San Francisco until 1964, but says he will appeal that election provision to federal court.

Muir Beach Water Rates To Be Cut

Water rates in the Muir Beach Community Services District will be cut in half starting Oct. 1, the district board decided Wednesday.

Board president Jack F. Harris said the new rate will be 1,000 cubic feet of water for $5 compared to the present rate of 500 feet for $5. The cut is possible because district expenses are dropping since lines and tanks are mostly installed now, Harris said.

31 Applicants

The San Anselmo police department received 31 applications for an opening for a police officer by Wednesday's deadline. The applicants will take agility and written tests Sept. 30 at Sir Francis Drake High School, the agility test at 9 a.m. and the written test from 1 to 4 p.m. in room 104.

Crime Cost Outlined By Lynch

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Property crimes outnumber crimes of violence by far Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch said yesterday, stressing that property crimes "strike at the economic heart of our nation."

Lynch told members of the Los Angeles chapter of the Financial Executives Institute that America must devote as much money and effort to the crime problem as it does to such problems as transportation, air pollution, welfare and other government problems.

Lynch cited both affluence and poverty as causes of crime as well as the increased urbanization of society and a larger youthful population.

"There is certainly a price exacted from our society," Lynch said, "when people are afraid to walk the streets, when consumers fear being cheated, when employers distrust employees, when armed protection and electronic subterfuge are considered necessary by too many Americans."

Ferry Feasibility Decision Sought

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

BERKELEY — A two-week study of the feasibility of ferries between Marin and San Francisco was ordered yesterday by Bay Area Transportation Study Commission.

The study was proposed by Commissioner Stanley M. McCaffrey "to decide once and for all about ferries." He said that three years ago he had compiled information on existing ferry systems, "and found absolutely no evidence anywhere in the world that they would do anything other than be a slight auxiliary to a transportation system."

McCaffrey is president of the Bay Area Council in San Francisco, a regional civic and development group.

He also suggested to commissioners, meeting at the Hotel Claremont, that federal funds be sought for the study of ferries.

Commission staff will make the study without additional funds, promised Richard M. Zettel, study director.

Marin Supervisor Thomas T. Storer told commissioners that 300 residents of Belvedere and Tiburon, and 1,000 in Sausalito, had given him petitions urging establishment of a water transit system.

Findings of the ferry study are to be presented to commissioners Oct. 6 when they meet at 10 a.m. in the San Mateo County Board fo Supervisors' chambers in Redwood City. San Francisco supervisors are to present their views on a proposed second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge at that meeting.

Commissioners then are supposed to vote on a resolution urging immediate construction of a second deck, establishment of a modern bus rapid transit system between Marin and San Francisco, and improvement of approaches on both sides of the bridge.

Commissioner John C. Beckett of Santa Clara County was among commissioners questioning the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings' recommendation for a second deck. He drew a concession from John J. Kozak, chief deputy engineer of the division, that the recommendation did not consider limits on space for additional parking needs a second deck would generate downtown. "It was not within the scope of our study," Kozak said.

TUNNEL OPPOSED

A train tunnel under the bay to Sausalito, where passengers would transfer to and from buses, "would not be a good system," said Kozak in response to a question by Beckett. "To be efficient, a system would have to extend far enough into the county to pick up passengers," Kozak added, "otherwise you might find a lot less patronage."

A second deck and bus transit system, said Zettel ,"might buy 15 years of time to decide whether we want to continue the emphasis, or to impose real restraints, on the use of the private automobile." The years also would give "time for innovations to come along that would change the picture," he said.

'TO BUY TIME'

Marin County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker agreed partially, urging a bus transit system — but not a second deck — "to buy time to see BART's (Bay Area Rapid Transit District) experience."

At present, he declared, "there is no transit system in Marin, and I would defy anyone to say that Greyhound is one."

A modern bus transit system could buy five to 10 years of delay, Zucker said, "on whether to put on a second deck." Such a bus system would add only 300 buses to commute traffic, he said.

ABAG Favors Federal Funds For Tam Park

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The Association of Bay Area Governments' executive committee last night recommended federal approval of a $1.7 million grant to expand Mount Tamalpais State Park. and $15,000 to complete a Sausalito planning study.

The federal government requires that such applications go through ABAG for comment and recommendation.

The state Department of Parks and Recreation expects to buy 2,142 acres for $3,434,000. The federal open space grant is included in this figure.

The proposed acquisition would expand the park south and east of the existing park to Frank Valley Road and Highway 1.

The planning grant to Sausalito would be to complete revisions to city ordinances and prepare a detailed general plan for the central waterfront.

The executive committee also confirmed nomination of Robert G. Miller, mayor of San Jose, as ABAG's representative on the citizens advisory committee of the new Joint Legislative Committee on Bay Area Organization. The new committee is to study the feasability of regional government in the Bay Area.

Both of Marin's representatives on the executive committee were absent last night: Supervisor John F. McInnis and Earl J. O'Grady, mayor of Larkspur.

701 Session Slated Monday

The Mill Valley Planning Commission will hold a "workshop session" and public hearing Monday on two parts of its 701 study plan.

Areas to be studied are Miller Avenue from Willow Street to Camino Alto and plans for the creek, Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio. The commission meets at 8 p.m. at the city council chamber.

The commission will also consider official plan lines for Sycamore Avenue between Highway 101 and Camino Alto.

Bicycle Stolen

A bike belonging to Mary Johnstone of 32 Lagoon Road, Belvedere, a student at Reed School, was reported missing yesterday afternoon from the school where it had been parked. Tiburon police said the value of the bike was unreported.

Plowshare Atom Test Conducted

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI)— An underground nuclear device was exploded at the bottom of a 577 foot shaft yesterday as part of the Atomic Energy Commission's Plowshare program to develop peaceful uses for atomic energy.

The AEC said the test was part of an effort "to develop special techniques designed to reduce the amount of radioactivity released in the atmosphere by possible later excavation experiments."

A small amount of radioactivity has leaked into the air during several other tests at the Nevada test site this year. The AEC said no radioactivity escaped following yesterday's test.

Non-Commercial Broadcast Aid Bill Passed By House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some details remain to be worked out, but House passage virtually assures enactment later this year of landmark legislation to give a federal shot in the arm to noncommercial radio and television.

The bill passed 265 to 91 last night. Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., of the House Commerce Committee called it "possibly the most important bill that comes out of the 90th Congress."

It would create a public corporation supported by federal and private funds to subsidize programming and provide facilities for individual educational stations to form a noncommercial network.

The bill carries an initial $9-million authorization to set up the corporation, but decisions on long-term financing are being deferred until next year.

A move by Rep. Samuel L. Devine, R-Ohio, to eliminate the corporation and provide an extra $5 million in federal aid for educational stations was rejected 194 to 167. Devine was supported by 124 Republicans and 43 Democrats and opposed by 33 Republicans and 161 Democrats.

Earlier, a similar move by Rep. Albert W. Watson, R-S.C., who called the proposed corporation a possible "monster" or "Frankenstein," was narrowly defeated 120 to 111.

The House bill differs from the Senate measure—passed in May with one dissent—in limiting the corporation to one year and in providing that no more than eight of the 15 members of its board of directors be members of the same political party.

The president would nominate and the Senate confirm nine of the board members, and these nine would name the other six.

GM
Be smart! Be sure! Buy now! '68 Chevrolets.

What you're seeing are the most dramatic changes in Chevrolet's history. They're designed modern, with every flowing line in close harmony. They have a new silent ride, new engines, new features. Even brand-new models like the formal-rooflined Impala Custom Coupe debut in '68.

Silent computer-tuned ride
To help eliminate noise, computers were used to position engine and body mounts. Shock absorbers, suspension and the exhaust system have been improved. Even the clocks are muffled. A sound car is a silent car. And the '68 Chevrolets are the most silent, smoothest, highest quality cars we've ever built.

Improved performance
There's a bigger standard six and V8 engine, both with many new components to keep your new Chevrolet running stronger. You can order a 250-hp V8 that runs on regular fuel. On most models with automatic transmission, there's a heater for the carburetor that gives you better performance in cold weather. And every Chevrolet has the new GM exhaust emission control.

Unique Astro Ventilation
An entirely new concept in ventilation, called Astro Ventilation, comes on Corvette, Camaro and the Caprice Coupe. It's also available on many other models. By controlling two vent-ports on the instrument panel, you can bring in and direct outside air right where you want it. This way, you get still more peace and quiet, because the windows stay up.

Proved safety features
Of course, proved Chevrolet safety features like the GM-developed energy absorbing steering column and four-way hazard warning flasher are back on all models. Among the many new features for '68 are energy absorbing front seat backs, side marker lights, and safety armrests that shield the door handles.

New features everywhere
Inside, there are rich new interiors with new vinyls, new fabrics, new colors. Instrument panels have been re-designed with all controls in easy reach. Some Chevrolets have Hide-A-Way windshield wipers that come out when it rains, and concealed headlights that hide when the sun shines. Buy a new Chevrolet now and you'll be one of the smart ones. Ask your Chevrolet dealer to demonstrate the smooth new handling, library-quiet ride and greater quality built into every new '68 Chevrolet.

Bridgeway View Plans Win Backing

By a 4-3 vote the Sausalito Planning Commission Wednesday night endorsed a recommendation by planning consultants that views along Bridgeway be preserved by limiting building heights of new construction on the bayward side of Bridgeway.

New buildings could rise no higher than the level of Bridgeway under the proposal by consultants William Spangle and Associates. The area under discussion is between Napa and Nevada streets. Under present zoning, some buildings could rise 25 feet above Bridgeway.

Supporting the recommendation, which will go to the city council Oct. 3, were cahirman Alan D. Bonapart, George C. Hoffman, Theodore T. Boutmy and Murray Smith. Voting against it were Robert L. Nissen, Hendrik J. Keizer and Walter Thomson. Roy Starbird and Norman Murdoch were absent.

The commission discussed, but took no action on, proposed prezoning of an area north of the city limits, primarily the American Distilling Co. property.

Meeting Slated

The Homestead Valley Sanitary District board will meet at 8:30 p.m. Monday at the Homestead School.

Tam Construction Needs On Agenda

The Tamalpais High School District board will consider building needs at Redwood High School Monday at 8 p.m. at the district office.

The board will also consider the San Anselmo City Council's request for a meeting with the board Tuesday at 8 p.m. at San Anselmo City Hall to discuss problems relating to Sir Francis Drake High School, particularly traffic problems and the new portable classrooms on Saunders Avenue.

A report will be made on progress of a study of transportation to the planned San Geronimo high school.

Driver Fined

William Thomas Manaugh Jr., 31, of 420 Canal Street, San Rafael, was fined $230 and placed on a year's probation Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. California Highway Patrol arrested him Monday on Highway 101.

House Hit-Run Guilty Verdict

James B. Nichols of Olema was fined $59 and ordered to pay $150 restitution when found guilty Wednesday in Northwest Marin Justice Court of damage to a house in a hit and run car smashup.

Nichols pleaded innocent to the hit-run charge but was found guilty in trial by Judge David R. Baty, holding court in Point Reyes Station. Nichols' car on Jan. 16 struck the house of Mrs. Marjorie Roberts of San Francisco, on the Point Reyes-Bear Valley Road.

Nichols also was ordered to pay $150 restitution for repairs to the house.

Materials Stolen

Joe J. Pedroli, San Rafael masonry contractor, complained to sheriff's deputies Wednesday that $211 worth of construction materials were taken from a construction site where he has been working, at 394 Hilary Drive, Tiburon, sometime last weekend.

Labor Council Tells Human Rights Views

The duties of executive director of the county human rights commission should not be combined with that of the county administrator, and a new director should be intimate with persons in Marin City, the Marin Labor Council decided unanimously Wednesday night.

The policy statement stems from the abrupt resignation last week of Gene T. Orro as the county's chief human rights officer. Administrator Alan Bruce has proposed the duties be transferred to his office until the commission decides whether it wishes to replace Orro.

The council approved a resolution submitted by president Charles B. Weers opposing merger of the duties. Weers is a human rights commissioner.

Echoing Weers' position, the council said, "We feel it (combination of duties) is merely an attempt to undermine and render ineffective the human rights commission." More staff for the commission was asked.

Two directors have resigned within the past year, the council said, because they were "experts from outside the county who could not establish a rapport with people in Marin City."

Escape Artist Thwarted Again

OAKLAND (UPI) — Escape artist James Reece, 22, on trial on 11 felony charges, yesterday leaped to his feet, flipped the counsel table over and hurtled himself against a group of bailiffs who wrestled him to the floor.

Shouting "God, God, no, no let me go," he was carried back to jail and the proceedings were recessed by Superior Judge Redmond Staats.

Among charges against Reece are counts of kidnap-robbery and two of escape, all occurring within a year.

The last time he was taken into custody was when his car crashed after he chased a topless dancer, Yvonne D'Anger, in an auto over curving roads of Marin County.

Parents Told Of Sausalito Bond Needs

Top Sausalito school administrators Wednesday night spoke to some 200 Sausalito and Marin City parents about taxes, race problems and school bonds in the first of a series of meetings to be held by the school district before the Oct. 10 schocol bond election.

School board President David E. Greedheim outlined the costs and savings expected in the new school plant to be built with the $1.4 million bond issue and other income.

SAVINGS CITED

He said savings in maintenance costs will be $62,000 a year from present costs, enough to pay nearly all the bond service costs of $65,000 a year for the first five years.

Present maintenance costs in Sausalito are $59.33 per student per year, he said, compared to $19.35 in Mill Valley and $9.73 in Reed School District, which has new buildings.

If Sausalito does not use its bonding capacity now for its own schools, Freedheim said, the capacity may be used up a few years from now to build schools in Marincello, or by a larger unified district which might be ordered "by legislative decree."

Supt. Phillip W. Schneider, talking about racial frictions in school and community, said Americans "generally lack ability to face and talk about discrimination."

'SUBTLE ATTITUDES'

"My observations tell me," Schneider said, "that white children's homes transmit subtle attitudes, through avoidance, name calling and ostracism. They are not conscious, but they are there.

"And the black homes are justifiably hostile, and this is transmitted to their kids. They have a high sensitivity, their feelings are out all the time."

Mrs. Amity Buxton of Sausalito, curriculum director of the Sausalito teacher education project, explained the project, which gives the district the aid of San Francisco State College teachers and graduate students working in the field of desegregation education.

Girl Comes Home

Marilyn Thomsett, 17, of 337 East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, has returned home, police reported yesterday. The girl was reported missing early yesterday.

Traffic Halt For A Repair

Southbound traffic on Highway 101 at the Route 17 overcrossing in San Rafael will be closed for a "very short period" between 6 and 9 a.m. Sunday to repair the overhead guard rail.

The rail was damaged by a careening lumber truck Aug. 20.

Northbound lanes on 101 will be closed alternately during the same period Oct. 1 to continue repair work along the Route 17 overpass, the state Division of Highways announced.

Boy, 9, Cited

A 9-year-old San Anselmo boy was cited to juvenile court on a charge of burglary Wednesday by San Anselmo police, in connection with the Sept. 7 theft of $50 in cash plus fire crackers and cherry bombs from the home of John Y. Murray, 34 Woodside Court, San Anselmo.

POET — Madeline Gleason of San Francisco, director of the "Celebration of the Poet" Sunday on Mount Tamalpais, will have her prose poem "You Have to Tell Everybody" read as part of the program. The Atheneum Arts Foundation is sponsoring the afternoon of poetry beginning at 3:30 p.m. at the amphitheater.

Tomales Re-Map Study Area Set

A study area for evolving a new Tomales High School District unification plan was unanimously adopted Wednesday night by the Marin County School District Organization Committee, according to Deputy Supt. Charles E. McCully of the county schools office.

The study area includes all of Marin plus Analy and Petaluma high school districts.

Under the state education code, if a plan is approved by the State Board of Education, a unification election for the district must be held in the June primary of next year, McCully said.

Three previous Tomales unification proposals by the county committee have been turned down by the State Board of Education.

Guilty Plea Entered By Forgery Suspect

Robert Duane Patterson, 23, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to one felony counut of forgery. He was certified to Marin Superior Court for judgment proceedings at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

Patterson, of Stinson Beach, forged a $100 check March 18 with intent to defraud Landon Morrison of Stinson Beach. A second count, forging a $75 check to defraud Bill's Superette in Stinson Beach, was dismissed on recommendation of Asst. Dist. Atty. Leonard Shaw following the other plea.

Terra Linda Rec Directors Back A Regional Park

Directors of Terra Linda Parks and Recreation District went on record Wednesday night favoring the idea of a hub regional park on 385 acres bordered by the communities of Terra Linda, San Anselmo, Sleepy Hollow and San Rafael.

William L. Kapranos, San Anselmo landscape architect is sounding out various organizations on the regional park idea. The Terra Linda directors voted on the concept after hearing Kapranos this week.

Resignation of Austin Gibbon as a director of the parks and recreation district was accepted. An intermin replacement is sought until new directors are elected in November.

Norman Gurin, chairman, announced future meetings of the directors will be held once a month, first Wednesdays at 8 p.m. in the community building at Del Ganado Park.

YOUNG CALF COMES TO TOWN

Pink-nosed and but six weeks old, a brown and white Guernsey calf owned by Santa Rosa dairy rancher George Orr, a former Novato 4-H leader, peers from the rear of Orr's truck outside the Bank of Marin in San Rafael. Orr had stopped at the bank while en route with the calf to a children's zoo in Oakland, where the animal will be on temporary display. Judging from pedestrian's reactions yesterday, the appearance in Oakland will be successful.

Priest Urges Funds Cutoff To Aid Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The white priest leading open housing demonstrations in Milwaukee, Wis., says the federal government should cut off all aid to cities which practice discrimination "such as Milwaukee."

The Rev. James E. Groppi said he told the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders yesterday: "The federal government has to use its muscle and cut off funds. We're not interested in urban development if it means the black man has to give up his God-given right of freedom of movement."

He has led demonstrations in Milwaukee since Aug. 28. He told newsmen "unless the nonviolent-type demonstrations work, I can no longer say to the black man that this is the type of maneuver and tactic you must use."

Father Groppi said he'd "have to wait and see" before deciding if he will advocate violence as a last resort. "I don't like to see blood shed, but I don't know," he said. "Morally, I have no argument against the black man's right to use violence. Tactically, I'll have to wait and see."

Businessmen Ask LBJ To Re-Evaluate Risk

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A newly formed group of U.S. businessmen has urged President Johnson to forget about embarrassment and alter the American policy in Vietnam to "something less risky."

Henry E. Niles, board chairman of an insurance company and cochairman of the "Business Executives Move for Vietnam Peace," called on the President yesterday to re-examine his strategy.

"We business executives often run into situations in which what we thought would work doesn't work out the way we thought it would. We have to change our strategy.

"We feel this country is in a situation when its strategy is not working out. We feel it ought to be changed.

"In particular," said Niles, "we urge the President to stop bombing North Vietnam, de-escalate the war, negotiate with all parties which are now fighting and bring an end to American participation."

Niles said his young organization has grown out of an open letter to President Johnson that was published in the New York Times last May 28. Niles said the membership has grown from 300 to 650 executives, 22 sponsors, and a standing six-member executive committee.

Membership is limited to top executives, either working or retired, or owners of businesses, and U.S. citizenship is a requisite. The organization is financed through contributions.

Conservation Festival Set

Marin Conservation Council will sponsor a "Conservation Festival" Oct. 28 at the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum, San Rafael.

The festival is aimed at informing residents about the five major conservation issues, earthquakes, regional government, recreation, conservation education and urban development.

Scheduled for 6 to 10 p.m., the event will feature exhibits and conservation films.

THE HAPPY COUPLE DUCKS SHOWER OF RICE

Secretary of State Dean Rusk's 18-year-old daughter, Margaret, and her new husband, Guy Smith, a 22-year-old Negro, duck a hail of rice outside Stanford Memorial Chapel. The couple was married yesterday in rites that were kept secret until wedding time because the family did not want the ceremony marred by pickets protesting Rusk's stand on the Vietnam war. A family spokesman described Smith, who will soon start Army helicopter training "a real gung-ho type" who wants "eventual duty in Vienam." The newlyweds met several years ago in Washington.

Plane Crash Kills German Industrialist

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Harald Quandt, automobile industrialist and one of the richest men in postwar Germany, was killed today when a private plane carrying him and five other passengers crashed in the Italian Alps. The others died with him.

The plane was en route from Frankfurt to Nice where Quandt had a villa.

Italian police said a shepherd saw the two-engine plane smash into the mountains outside Saluzzo 25 miles east of the Italian-French border.

Quandt, 45, ranked as one of the wealthiest of the industrialist class that sprang up in Germany after the Nazi defeat.

The so-called Quandt group controls the BMW automobile company, owns a sizable minority interest in the Daimler-Benz auto firm and controlling interest in a range of other companies.

The plane was owned by the Quandt company, which announced in Bad Homburg, Germany, that Quandt was among those killed.

The others were not immediately identified.

Harald Quandt is the son of Guenther Quandt and his second wife, Magda. Magda later divorced Quandt and married Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi propaganda chief. A half-sister of Magda is Ariane Sheppard, wife of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard of Cleveland, Ohio, key figure in a famous American murder case.

Egypt Fires Mortars At Israeli On Suez

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

An Israeli spokesman said Egyptian forces fired mortar shells across the Suez Canal near Ismailia today at Israeli forces on the east bank.

The spokesman said there were no casualties.

Egypt earlier said 28 persons were killed in an artillery and tank battle across the canal Thursday.

U.N. chief truce supervisor Gen. Odd Bull of Norway cut short a vacation at home today and flew back to Cairo in light of the renewed hostilities, Egyptian sources said.

The message was delivered by Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad, who met with de Gaulle for 55 minutes today during a Paris stopover. Riad was flying to the United Nations.

Riad told newsmen after the meeting that Egypt was considering a peace plan proposed by Yugoslav President Tito but looked to the United Nations for a peaceful solution to the conflict.

Tito's five-point plan calls for recognitoin of Israel by the Arabs in exchange for Israeli's evacuation of the Arab territories it seized in the June war.

Improvement Club Plans Open House

Almonte Improvement Club members Wednesday made preliminary plans for an open house for new residents of the area, to be held sometime in October.

The club also discussed an area anti-litter campaign and urged residents to avoid littering, president Herbert E. Davis said.

Road Work Bid To Sonoma Firm

SACRAMENTO —Bay Area Construction Co. of Santa Rosa, at $21,123, was low bidder Wednesday on a state Division of Highways project to construct drainage improvements at 13 locations on Highway 1 between 2.6 mile north of Stinson Beach and 2.3 miles south of the Sonoma County line. Four bids were received, the division reported.

In separate action yesterday, the state Highway Commission allocated $910,000 for improvements to 3.6 miles of Highway 101 between Manuel Freitas Parkway and Hamilton Air Force Base.

The allocation was among $150 million for statewide 1967-68 construction projects.

Cycle Rider Critical After Skid

Daniel George Burns, 26, of 570 Panoramic Highway, Mill Valley, was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital with head injuries received early today when his motorcycle skidded into a ditch.

The accident occurred at 1:55 a.m., police said, when Burns's motorcycle rounded a curve from Molino Avenue onto Edgewood Avenue and a crash bar (stirrup) dug into the paving.

The cycle skidded into a ditch, slid 29 feet along the ditch where Burns was thrown off, then slid another 29 feet across the road.

A Sonic Boom

The sonic boom which hit Marin County at 3:11 p.m. yesterday, was caused by an SR71 supersonic reconnaisance plane out of Edwards Air Force Base, according to officials at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Tiburon Trails Given Rec Board's Priority

Development of parks and trails in Tiburon was given top priority in a listing of five future projects by the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission last night.

The commission hopes that a trail system on Tiburon's ridges might connect wuth future trail plans by the county on unincorporated lands, said Russell L. Melquist, assistant to the Tiburon city manager.

Next in line of priorities set by the commission were landscaping of Tiburon Boulevard and improvement of Richardson Bay Park, development of recreation programs, consideration of the proposed Hilarita Park, recommendations for the future of the downtown area.

Commissioners recommended that the city accept land offered by developers of El Marinero subdivision adjacent to Mount Tiburon.

The commission agreed to seek volunteers for formation of an open waterfront committee. Prospective members may contact commission chairman Mrs. Polly Smith.

Cog Railway's Deaths Blamed On A Mistake

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Human error toady was blamed by the State Public Utilities Commission as the primary cause of the Mount Washington Cog Railway derailment which took the lives of eight persons Sunday.

A preliminary report prepared and released by PUC transportation director Winslow Melvin said:

"It is our conclusion that the primary cause of the accident was human error and not due to any structural or mechanical deficiency of the railroad.

"It has been established beyond doubt that the switch at the Skyline Station was not in the proper position at the time of the mishap.

"It is our conclusion that it was the duty of the crew. . .to notice this fact and to stop the train prior to its entering the switch."

Complaint On Theft Halted

Complaint of grand theft against one of two San Rafael men was dismissed in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on recommendation of Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony.

Anthony told Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. that further investigation disclosed that Thomas Arthur Goldburg, 19, of 55 Fairfax Street, was not involved in theft of about $4,007 from Regal service station at 1011 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, June 12.

Complaint against the other man, Stephen William Scanlon, of 1563 Lincoln Avenue, is still effective. Scanlon is a fugitive with $5,500 bail set. The two disappeared while working for the station, but Goldberg surrendered himself to San Rafael police in July.

SIGN OF A FIGHTER—The clipped comb of a gamecock raised near Stinson Beach is inspected by Bernie Weller (left) State Humane Officer and deputy pound keeper in San Rafael, and Mel Morse of Marin County Humane Society.

Ad Leads To Fighting Birds Raid

they included some speckled and some red cocks. He described them as "good-sized," and said one had a slashed chest which was healing.

There was no indication, however, of cockfights having been held at Frazier's, he added.

He said the 11 cocks apparently had their natural spurs cut off, making possible the attaching of the 3-inch long steel gaffs, and the combs of the cocks were trimmed. This he said, is reportedly done so opponent cocks cannot grasp each other by the comb.

The cocks and six hens, plus alleged sales records and other books -- even a card index — found in the home's kitchen, were confiscated as evidence. The fowls were taken to the humane society in San Rafael.

Frazier, who immediately called attorney A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr. of Sausalito, was booked in county jail about 4:30 p.m. for investigation of illegal manufacture or possession of gaffs for fighting birds, and for possession of gamecocks with intent to have them fight.

Both are misdemeanor offenses. Frazier was released without bail by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court, and scheduled to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court for possible filing of formal charges.

Arraignment In Stolen Property

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth, Steven Wayne Mitchell, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a felony complaint of receiving stolen property.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. scheduled plea entry for 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Mitchell, of 127 Ross Street, is accused of having in his possession stolen keys to 700 Coca Cola vending machines in the county. San Rafael police said he used keys taken in a burglary of the soft drink's plant at 278 Irwin Street, on Aug. 28 to take cash from 15 to 20 machines in San Rafael, Fairfax, San Anselmo, and Ross.

Arraignment Held On Felony Counts

Willie Walter Bradley, 27, of Richmond, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a felony charge of grand theft and burglary of Ray's Office Machine Service, Inc., in San Rafael. Plea entry was scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Bradley, arrested by San Rafael police yesterday, allegedly stole over $200 in merchandise and broke into the firm, 1209 Third Street, yesterday.

Agnes Moorehead To Attend Concours d' Elegance Sunday

By MOLLY MARIN

The committee has just learned that Agnes Moorehead, stage and movie actress, will attend the fifth annual Concours d' Elegance this Sunday at the Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael. The actress will also be among the honored guests attending the luncheon at the country club. Rumors that she would be accompanied by actor Cesar Romero have not been confirmed.

AFTER COMPLETING a year of study at the Sorbonne in Paris in June, Mary Jill Blethen was joined by her sister, Donna, a June graduate of San Domenico Upper School, for a summer of travel in Europe. The two girls, daughters of the Howard Blethens of Tiburon, went to Berlin, Munich, Vienna, Greece, Rome, Tunisia, Spain, and arrived in England in time for a big yachting regatta. They sailed to New York on the S.S. Aurelia, and arrived home last week. Donna will enter the University of Santa Clara as a freshman. Mary Jill is a student at the University of Portland.

COL. (RET.) and Mrs. R. C. Cannon of Novato have received word that their son and wife, Capt. and Mrs. Kirby Cannon of Sherman, Tex., are the proud parents of a daughter born Tuesday. The girl, as yet unnamed, has a brother Jeffrey, two years old. Captain Kirby returned this summer from a tour in Vietnam.

SEEING HER first granddaughter was the highlight of Mrs. Alan M. Shearer's trip to Europe from which she returned to Mill Valley this week. On Aug. 6 she flew to London for four days visit before going to Zurich, Switzerland. Her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Willax live just outside that city. The new granddaughter has been named Christa. En route home Mrs. Shearer was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Torvald Ueland, owners of a colonial farm in Redbank, N. J. The original deed was signed by King George III of England. Mrs. Shearer then went to Minneapolis, Minn., her former home, where she was feted at many parties.

OCCUPYING THE home of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Wiper in Sausalito while they are touring Spain and Portugal with the Symphony Association Charter will be Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wagner of Franklin, Mich. Mr. Wagner is a retired executive with Ford Motor Company.

HIGH POINT of their trip to England was sailing in the Crystal Trophy Race for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Piver of Mill Valley. Their Trimaran, designed and sailed by Art, attracted the attention of two famous yachtsmen — Prince Phillip of England, and Sir Francis Chichester, who had just returned from his single-handed voyage on the "Gipsy Moth." Piver will show sailing films of his voyages in Trimarans in England, the South Pacific, through the Panama Canal and in the Bermuda Race for members of the San Francisco Yacht Club at the Belvedere clubhouse on Oct. 18. A 26-foot-long three hull model, designed by Piver, the originator and developer of the modern cruising Trimaran, will be at the club's dock for the inspection of club members before the 7 p.m. dinner.

A SWIM PARTY and luau are being planned by Mesdames Robert Rankin, Donald Rose and Lloyd Lightel of Novato at the Lightel home on Sunday. This is the second year the women have had a number of friends join them for an afternoon of relaxing around the pool.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Husband Of 'Wife Who Can't Take Kidding' Told To Tame The Shrew

DEAR HELEN:

My wife can't take kidding. She takes everything I say wrong and has, for the 20 years we've been married.

For instance we went out to buy some gifts the other day. I complained of my feet hurting and said the spirit of giving was putting holes in my shoes.

She got real mad and stormed out of the store. Which got me stared at like I was a wife-beater. Later I told her I was sorry, but she just said, "Get out of here and leave me alone."

I've always tried to do what she wants, and get her what will make her happy. God knows I love her with all my heart.

Please tell me how to help her be less sensitive, before I wind up in the booby hatch. —W.A.

DEAR W:

Your wife sounds more spoiled than sensitive, and she'll never change as long as you kow-tow. Don't apologize for her tantrums. When she says, "Get out of here . . . " do just that, and let her worry. If she yaps about nothing, snap back. In other words, tame the shrew . . . though you're 20 years too late.

Good luck — you'll need it!—H.

DEAR HELEN:

What is your opinion of a man who brutalizes animals? When our neighbor comes home from work, his dog crawls to him on his belly, like a snake. Is he sick, or has he got a yellow streak down his back?—D.G.

DEAR D:

Dog or man? I've noticed that some dogs crawl on their bellies naturally even though they're treated well. Moreover, an animal usually doesn't come out and greet the person who beats him.

Cruelty should be reported to the ASPCA, but hasty judgments can get you into a peck of trouble.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

My daughter is to be married soon to a young man from out of state. His mother, a widow, and his sister will attend the wedding.

Our neighbors (long-time friends) have offered their homes for these out-of-town guests. My question: Who pays for lodging?—MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR MOTHER:

If your neighbors have offered their homes, they won't expect payment for lodgings. I'm sure guests will be thoughtful enough to bring thank-you gifts — and you, too, might do something special for these good friends, after the wedding.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Do they really know what they say when they glibly mention "Going all the way?" In marriage there are so many intangibles, so much that is mystic, that can't be explained. "All the way" means a union of mind and heart and body, and anything less isn't worth losing your self-respect over.

I read columns by proponents of the single standard; I hear them spout off on TV that "virgins are square." If the single standard is a reality, chastity outdated, why do these people feel they must continually, and at every opportunity, defend their views? Shakespeare said, "Methinks she doth protest too much," and believe me, I think the "moderns" do! With them, sex is just a gimmick to get publicity. The pity is, our young people too often listen, for the protesters are very loud.

It's just as you said, Helen, the headline hunters get quoted. The good, honest, backbone-of-our-nation types — the big majority — are seldom heard. . . . And good girls don't advertise it.—M.

Miss Mahon Is Bride Of Dr. Wilhelm

Judith Mahon, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Mahon of Mill Valley, became the bride of Dr. Paul Wilhelm of Oakland Saturday in a ceremony performed at 1:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in Sausalito.

She recited her vows wearing a full length white satin gown with long train. Her maid of honor, Marjorie Wood of Alameda, and bridesmaid, her cousin Ann Schindler of Oakland, wore long gowns of pink organza.

Best man was Dr. Frank Hill of Oakland, and ushers were Dr. Lyle Frost, Dr. Paul Yates and Dr. Carl Newkirk, all of Oakland.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Meadow Club. On their return from a honeymoon in Carmel and Honolulu, where the bridegroom has a summer home, the couple will live in Oakland.

The new Mrs. Wilhelm was graduated from Lowell High School in San Francisco, attended the University of California and was graduated from Samuel Merritt Hospital School of Nursing. She was employed at the hospital as a surgical nurse.

Dr. Wilhelm attended Kansas University and Texas Agricultural and Texas A and M University and received his M.D. degree from St. Louis University. He is a vascular surgeon at Samuel Merritt Hospital.

Robin Beare Weds At St. Raphael's

Robin Elizabeth Beare, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Beare of San Rafael became the bride of Andrew Joseph Capestro of Alhambra at noon Saturday at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael.

She walked down the aisle wearing a gown of white silk organza decorated with seed pearls designed by her mother. Her sister, Mrs. David Gantz of Costa Rica, wore a gown of mint green silk and wool as matron of honor. Similarly dressed were bridesmaids Jean Ackerman of Kentfield, Karly Horton, Elizabeth Denison and Diana Ostlind, all of San Rafael, and Lynn Renalde of San Francisco.

John Capestro of West Covina acted as best man for his brother and ushers were Allen Cox and Jack Barrett, both of Berkeley, David Capestro of West Covina, Rudolph Montejano of Los Angeles and the bride's brother, Robert Beare of San Rafael.

Following a luncheon reception at Peacock Gap Country Club, the couple left for a wedding trip to Los Angeles.

Robin, a graduate of San Rafael High School, is a junior at University of California and her husband was graduated from Hastings Law School. He is the son of Mr and Mrs. Andrew F. Capestro of Los Angeles and the brother of Phyllis Capestro and Mrs. Ann Hersey, both of West Covina. The newlyweds will live in Oakland.

Watts-Silva Vows Exchanged In Stewart Memorial Chapel

John C. Watts of San Anselmo claimed as his bride Irene F. Silva of Fairfax, in a ceremony performed on Sept. 2 at Stewart Memorial Chapel at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Dr. Gurdon C. Oxtoby of United Presbyterian Church officiated at the 8:30 p.m. rite for which Irene wore an orchid crepe sheath dress. Susan Amato of Fairfax, her maid of honor, wore a gown of yellow crepe.

James White of Daly City acted as best man and ushering for the ceremony was Gerald Price of San Rafael.

A reception followed for guests at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax after which the couple left for Sacramento. They will make their home in Fairfax until November when the couple will move to Los Angeles.

The bride, who was graduated from Sir Francis High School, is a warrant clerk with the San Rafael Police Dept. Her husband, who attended San Rafael High School and College of Marin, is with the California Highway Patrol in Sacramento. He is the brother of Nancy Watts of San Anselmo and Margaret Watts of San Francisco. They are the children of Mrs. Margaret Coleman of San Anselmo.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Many a Marinite has fond memories of an old Model T Ford. For them, tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine special feature is certain to bring back nostalgic recollections. It is about D. Hugh Gregory Coleman of Bolinas and his 1912 Model T Ford Speedster. It's the story of an unusual antique automobile, designed to whet your appetite for the big Peacock Gap Concours d' Elegance to be held the following day.

The Tiburon Marine Laboratory is playing a major role in a project of vital importance to sportsmen. The goal: To save two major game fish, the marlin and the sailfish, from extinction. The big fish are dwindling rapidly in numbers in southern waters. M. Elizabeth Johnston tells what science is doing in an attempt to reverse this unhappy trend in tomorrow's issue of your Independent-Journal weekend supplement.

FILM FARE

Bigotry And Law Tangle

By LES DARD

Let's look at what's offered on Marin's big screens:

RAFAEL THEATER

A powerful drama with racial prejudice at its core is "In the Heat of the Night," with effective performances by Rod Steiger and Sidney Poitier.

Both men play policemen — but there the sameness ends. Steiger is a rednecked police chief of a southern town, an ignorant bigot. Poitier is a brilliant homicide expert from the north.

Passing through the southern town, Poitier is picked up in the railroad Station for questioning in the back-alley murder of a Northern industrialist. He is humiliated and brutally handled.

Finally, he is able to identify himself as a top-ranking officer in his field. Further, his superior — by telephone — suggests he stay and help solve the murder.

Steiger, still spewing hate, grudgingly cooperates — soon realizing he needs Poitier's training and experience. In turn, Poitier needs the chief's protection from a town where feeling runs high against him.

Finally comes a mutual respect. How it comes about makes fascinating watching.

101 DRIVE-IN

Those seeking action and escape will find a double bill on screen.

"The Hills Run Red," a Western making its Bay Area debut this week, stars Dan Duryea and Henry Silva in plenty of shoot-'em-up action.

LARK THEATER

And those seeking more amusing escapism will find ample amounts in the new British comedy, "The Jokers."

MOTOR MOVIES

"Hombre" is a Western which stars Paul Neyman as a white man brought up by the Apache Indians, who winds up on a stagecoach where he saves the lives of his fellow aassengers when they are ambushed by bandits.

Top performers include Frederic March, Martin Balsam, Diane Cilento and Barbara Rush.

NORTHGATE THEATER

"Gigi," is back. It was the best film of 1959, and is wearing exceedingly well.

Maurice Chevalier presides over a carefree Paris of years ago, Leslie Caron is seen in the scintillating title role and Louis Jourdan is his suave best.

FAIRFAX THEATER

SEQUOIA THEATER

Holding over again is "Barefoot in the Park," with Jane Fonda and Robert Redford doing the romping.

NOVATO THEATER

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

TAMALPAI STHEATER

Held over again is "The Dirty Dozen," which stars Lee Marvin in a war tale offering both humor and terror.

Ernest Borgnine, Telly Savalas, Clint Walker and Charle Bronson co-star.

Workshop Set

A creative workshop for young people is currently being held at the Alpha-bet School, 1509 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo. Held Thursdays from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m., the sessions are for children in kindergarten through sixth grade.

Gable's Widow Sues Boat Driver

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The widow of actor Clark Gable is suing a Long Beach engineer for $100,000 over a boat collision last month.

Kathleen Gable charged in a superior court suit that she was injured when a 14-foot outboard motor boat collided with a pedal boat in which she was riding.

The suit, filed yesterday, lists Edward Olson as defendant. He allegedly was driving the motor boat.

Imperial Rome had 28 public libraries and many private ones.

Three Artists Due Display In Tiburon

Works by three Marin artists will be on display at the Tiburon Gallery, 9 Main Street, through October.

They will include sculptural forms by Harry Crotty and Farhad Moezzi and drawings in various media by Russell Chatham. The gallery is open daily 1 to 9 p.m. except Monday.

Large Estate

TV REVIEW

'Bell Hour' To Continue High Quality

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—NBC-tv's "Telephone Hour"—which dared to be different last season by deciding against interrupting its shows with commercials—returns to the air tonight, and its advertising policy will continue.

The "Telephone Hour" commercials policy has had a great effect in influencing other networks and programs to treat certain of their special outings similarly. For its own part, the "Telephone Hour" not only won acclaim last season for its wise approach to advertising, but for the excellence of its altered manner in presenting musical program.

This new format—offbeat offerings of classical and popular music, sometimes in documentary form but definitely with an emphasis on the human element—will resume in tonight's seasonal premiere.

The opening program is "The Many Faces of Romeo and Juliet," and it presents four classic versions of the Shakespearean tale. Four sets of performers from the theater, opera, ballet and the American musical stage will offer these interpretations.

Jason Robards and Claire Bloom will do a concert reading of excerpts from the balcony scene, and they will use portions of the play to introduce the musical and dance sequences of the broadcast.

For example, ballet stars Erik Bruhn and Carla Fracci perform a pas de deux to bring the scene alive in their own way.

And Carol Lawrence and Larry Kert will repeat their roles from the great Broadway musical "West Side Story," which is a contemporary version of Shakespeare's play.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Tonight's best bets on television:

KRON (4), 7 p.m.—"Wide Wonderful World" takes its viewers on a color tour of London and Paris.

KQED (9), 9 p.m.—"NET Playhouse" offers the third episode in "The Tale of Genji."

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 10 p.m.—"The Bell Telephone Hour" features four classic versions of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" under the title "The Many Faces of Romeo and Juliet."

College Refuses Low Bidder On Equipment

The Marin Junior College District board last night awarded contracts totaling $38,648 and called for bids on four projects estimated to cost $143,527.

The board awarded five contracts for duplicating equipment, four of them to Addressograph Multigraph Co. of San Francisco, two of them not the low bid. A $15,925 contract for two offset presses was awarded to Addressograph Multigraph, although the A. B. Dick Co. of San Francisco bid $12,564. Business Mgr. Norman Bird said the Dick presses were not automated.

A $5,092 contract for a sorter went to Addressograph Multigraph, although the Dick Co. bid $4,938. Bird said the low bid sorter had "a complex feeding mechanism that may give problems."

Addressograph Multigraph also got a $4,915 contract for a copier and a $6,309 contract for a book copier, and Itek Business Products of San Francisco got a $6,405 contract for a camera unit.

The board rejected three bids for paving four parking lots, because the low bid, $107,545, by William K McLellan Co. of San Rafael was far above the estimated cost of $70,000. High bidder was E. A. Forde Co. of Corte Madera at $135,205. The board asked for a redesign of the paving plans and another call for bids.

The board also authorized a call for bids for a portable stage for the gymnasium, estimated to cost $7,200; for vocational-technical equipment estimated to cost $59,527 and for refinishing the exterior of the fine arts building, estimated to cost $6,800.

The Marin Junior College District board also:

ENROLLMENT — Learned that enrollment is up 11 per cent from last fall. Full-time students have dropped from 2-604 last fall to 2,280 this fall, but part-time students have increased from 426 to 854, special students have increased from 1,939 to 2,428, and the total has increased from 4,969 to 5,562. Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond said he felt there might be some changes in the final enrollment figures by next week.

PARKING — Approved revised parking lot regulations, the revisions pertaining to physical changes in the parking lots since last year.

MEETINGS — Set board meetings for the first and third Thursday in October and November and for Dec. 14.

REGULATIONS — Reviewed a preliminary draft of an administrative regulations handbook, and set a special meeting for Oct. 12 to continue the review.

Rehabilitation Unit Closing Voiced Again

Marin Property Owners Association yesterday called on the board of supervisors to close the Marin Family Rehabilitation Center to save tax money.

A resolution passed by the association declared: "County officials and other groups have shown the center was a failure in its handling of juveniles and was operated at excessive cost," reported Melvin J. Rupp, manager of the group.

What Rupp termed "frill activities" such as the center, should be eliminated "in this period of high taxes and greatly increased government expenditures."

The Bay Area Social Planning Council and Marin County Grand Jury have criticized operation of the center and the council has recommended closing of the family center.

The property owners association, meeting at Nero's Restaurant, Ignacio, also urged that the Marin County Planning Commission set a permanent density of 1.15 residential units per acre within the area of the West Marin Master Plan. The planning commission on Monday is to consider a one-year interim ordinance governing land use, a move which the property owners consider a "delay," Rupp said.

Thirty businessmen and ranchers attended yesterday's meeting of property owners, Rupp said.

Vina Del Mar Closing To Allow Remodeling

Vina del Mar Plaza in Sausalito will be closed approximately six weeks longer while a new sprinkler system is installed and new turf sodded in, City Engineer Donald Wohlshlaeger told the Sausalito Recreation Commission last night.

The commission also learned that bids will be sought next week for construction of rest rooms and walkways in Cloudview Park.

Fraternities On Probation Over Discrimination

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) —All 27 fraternities and sororities at troubled San Jose State College were placed on probation indefinitely yesterday for breeding "discrimination and prejudice and sometimes bigotry."

Dr. Robert D. Clark, the college president who earlier had canceled the school's home football opener because of threatened racial trouble, told a meeting of 1,000 students the organizations will remain on probation until they have proven they are free of discrimination.

Earlier in the week, the president canceled tomorrow night's football game against the University of Texas at El Paso, saying the dispute over racial discrimination charges might lead to mass violence.

Redistricting Arguments Set

Oral arguments on two suits asking the state Supreme Court to order reapportionment of congressinal districts, which could lump southern and central Marin voters with a San Francisco district, have been set for presentation Oct. 4 at 9:30 a.m. in the court chambers at the State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco.

The suits were filed last month by Abe Vickter and Phill Silvers of Los Angeles. Further delay of reapportionment would disenfranchise many voters in next year's congressinal elections, they charged.

The court could take one of four steps: dismiss the suits, order a special session of the legislature to reapportion the districts, order the legislature to reapportion when it meets in January, or the court could set up its own reapportionment plan.

PAINFUL REVISIT—Marine Lt. Michael Mahoney, leaning on a cane, returns to the traffic court where he once appeared as a juvenile speeder, to lecture the court's youth panel and traffic offenders on the hazards of speeding. Present yesterday were Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., clerk Aldina Sutton, California Highway Patrolman Paul Zensius and members of the panel. (Independent-Journal photo)

PLEA TO TEENS

Speeding Lesson Is Costly One

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

Edward J. (Mike) Mahoney, 24, of Greenbrae was back in traffic court again yesterday.

The first time was eight years ago when he appeared as a 16-year-old speeding violator. His second appearance in Marin County Municipal Juvenile Court was so very different.

Leaning heavily on a cane, Mahoney, now a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps, told a packed courtroom what it had cost him to learn his lesson.

"I will be permanently disabled," he said, slowly and distinctly so that no one missed the point. "There is a chance I shall be medically retired from the Marines before I am 25" . . . all because a car traveled on the highway a little too fast.

Mahoney, young and intelligent, still winces when he remembers that day in July when he was seriously injured in an auto crash in San Andreas County.

As a prospective best man at a wedding, he was being driven to the groom's bachelor party by a friend who, he said, fell asleep at the wheel. The sports car was traveling very fast.

The young officer never made the wedding but spent the next six weeks on his back in hostpital. His injuries included a smashed right elbow and a collapsed lung.

"Back when I was in this building at 16, they told me this speeding thing would catch up with me. I didn't think about it until it happened," he said.

The accident happened on the eve of his departure for Vietnam. He said yesterday he had wanted desperately to be there.

Instead, he was trying to get over the message to more than 100 comparatively healthy juvenile traffic offenders and their parents — before it was too late.

"Use a bit of common sense when you drive," said Mahoney. "You speed along the freeway and it gets you there a minute faster. What is a minute in a lifetime?

"I was in a car speeding and I landed on my back for six weeks. If it hadn't been for the safety belt I would have been killed.

"Just have respect for your parents," he told the youngsters. "Think of them visiting you and not knowing whether you are going to live or die."

The University of Arizona graduate spoke briefly to a hushed room and was applauded when he finished and walked stiffly back to his seat beside Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr.

He had been invited to speak by the judge who had considered his first hand account would have greater impact than all the films and lectures.

Mahoney said afterward: "I welcomed the opportunity. My gosh, I would never want anyone anywhere to go through what I've been through."

After their sentencing yesterday, each of the juvenile offenders walked out to a fresh chance. Mahoney's immediate future calls for eight more months hospital treatment at Oak Knoll Naval Hospital.

Marinite's Auto Hits Cable Car, Injuring Two

A car, driven by a Greenbrae man, hit a crowded San Francisco cable car yesterday, injuring two people.

Police said motorist Francis Fraetis, 58 of 80 Corte Placida, pulled into a driveway in Hyde Street to allow the cable car to pass at about 1:45 p.m.

In the driveway the engine stopped, and Fraetis said that when he started it again, the car moved backwards to hit the passing cable car broadside.

Injured were Carol Johnson, 26, of San Francisco who was treated in hospital for fractures of both legs, and Robert Spence, 20, a tourist from Baltimore, treated for a possible fracture of the left ankle and bruises.

MARIN FIREMEN BOOK SPECTACULAR DISPLAY

A Coast Guard helicopter rescue, jumps by three skydivers and a fire involving 50 gallons of gasoline are a few of the events planned for the Marin County Association of Fire Chiefs kickoff to Fire Prevention Week Oct. 8 from 1 to 4 p.m. at Redwood High School.

All of the fire departments in Marin County, as well as Hamilton Air Force Base, the Coast Guard and the State Division of Forestry will take part.

A "crash unit" from Hamilton will set the gasoline fire in a container to demonstrate how a fire of that size is extinguished. The Air Force will also contribute three para-rescue skydivers and the 573rd Air Force Band.

The State Division of Forestry hopes to demonstrate borate bomb drops from planes, using water in place of borate, if real fires do not tie up the division's planes.

Other Marin fire departments will offer displays of fire fighting and rescure equipment and demonstrations of firefighting techniques.

Sausalitan Prepares To Return City Lease

Sausalitan J. Herbert Madden will follow through "very soon" on his promise to return to the city a long-term lease he holds on a city-owned waterfront site.

Madden today said legal descriptions of the area must be drawn up before the lease can be returned.

Shortly before last week's library election, he promised to return the lease free to the city if the proposed library lost at the polls — which it did — and if the area would be designated perpetually for park use.

The city earlier had agreed to pay $20,000 for the long-term lease for use in the library site.

Sanitary Board Awards Contract For Addition

Directors of the San Rafael Sanitation District last night awarded a $243,400 contract for an addition to the main sewage plant to update it and increase plant capacity.

Albay Construction Co., Concord, was awarded the contract as lowest of seven bidders for work at the Irene Street plant. Work will include installation of aeration and centrifuge equipment and a unit to eliminate debris such as rocks and bottles, the public works department explained.

Directors agreed to check on costs of installing concrete block fencing around pumping stations at Glenwood on Sims, West Railroad, and San Pedro streets, instead of wire fencing.

John James of San Rafael was hired at $721 a month as temporary construction inspector to check building projects.

Two Runaways Found In Seattle

Two San Rafael runaways, a 17-year-old girl and her 18-year-old boy friend, were found yesterday by a private investigator in Seattle, Wash., police reported.

Linda Gudmundson, 36 Inverness Drive, and Paul S. Leete, 23 Rosewood Court, were returned home late yesterday, the girl's father, Westerdahl G. Gudmundson, told police.

They had been missing since the morning of Sept. 6, when Linda left home for school. She later mailed her parents a note, saying she was running away.

Linda tried to enter Canada, police said, but was refused entry because she did not have enough money.

Typewriter Case Suspect Nabbed

A 26-year-old Richmond man was booked yesterday into county jail on suspicion of stealing two electric typewriters worth $589 during daylight yesterday from Ray's Office Machines, 1209 Third Street, San Rafael.

The suspect, Willie W. Bradley, later was released on $2,750 bail. He is to appear in Marin Municipal Court 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

When booked, Bradley had in his possession $897 in cash in $100, $50 and $20 bills, police said. "Man, all this for one damn typewriter," he said while being booked, police reported.

Owner of the store, Robert Ray Trenchard Jr., told police he saw Bradley carrying one of the typewriters through a parking lot next to his store. Police arrested Bradley a few minutes later in a nearby gas station.

4:04 p.m., San Rafael — Fire alarm accidentally tripped at Saint Isabella's school on Trinity Way.

4:19 p.m., San Rafael — Spot grass fire at Novato Street and Kerner Boulevard; cause unknown.

Learner's Crash Injures Rider

A 21-year-old Larkspur man was injured last night when the car in which he was riding went out of control and crashed into a rock embankment on Lucas Valley Road in Marinwood.

Jack A. Martin of 19 Locust Avenue, treated at Marin General Hospital for scalp cuts and a neck strain, was citied by the highway patrol for allowing Nancy L. Watts, 16, of 875 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, unlicensed, to drive.

Miss Watts was cited for failing to control the car and to carry a license. Complaining of a stomach pain, she said she would see her doctor. The accident occurred at 10 p.m.

Federal Center In Marin City A Possibility

The federal government may build "a substantial facility" on the 32-acre Marin City site owned by the Tamalpais Union School District, the Marin County Redevelopment Agency was told Wednesday night.

But a federal official in San Francisco emphasized that "no such decision has been made at this point.

IN TALK STAGE

"It's strictly a matter of discussion," said Sam Lesher, public affairs specialist for the regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Richard Adams, attorney for the California Development Corporation, told the agency of his conference with regional Hud administrator Robert Pitts and Donald O. Stutsman, executive director for the Marin County agency, in which Pitts explained the federal government is investigation the need of all its departments for Bay Area facilities.

Stutsman said a decision was hoped for within 60 days.

SPECIFIC AREA

The site encompasses two-thirds of the area inside the circle of Drake Avenue, the other 15 acres being the Manzanita Community Center and property owned by the Sausalito School District.

Adams also told the agency Wednesday that federal aid appears essential to get financing for proposed shopping facilities in the Marin City redevelopment area.

Typewriter Stolen

A $184 electric typewriter was stolen Wednesday night from the Disco Department Store, 555 Francisco Boulevard, police reported yesterday. No sign of forced entry was found.

Assessment Cut Pacts Challenged

The newly appainted three-man Marin County Assessment Appelas Board got down to the business of hearing its first appeals today — and promptly rejected for the time being 107 of the 538 agreements made between individual taxpayers and the county assessor's office.

County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel had asked for approval of the agreed downward revisions of the assessments as a matter of routine.

But the board chairman, San Rafael attorney Julius H. Selinger, said he was reluctant to accept the 107 until the assessor's office had given some explanation of its action.

This was not meant, he said, as a criticism in any way of the offic or the methods of arriving at the agreements — called concurrences.

However, he had selected out of the pile those cases with adjustments over $500 and wanted an explanation of the justification for such a downward change. He had the claims of taxpayer but no information from the assessors office.

"We fee that the justification for a reduction in an amount larger than $500 should be better fortified" said Selinger. He said he had picked the $500 figure "out of the air" because "I like it."

Broemmel said his office was willing to go along with the suggestions. He said the reason, there were so many concurrences this year was that many modifications discovered in talks with taxpayers were made after the tax roll was published and not before, as previously.

Selinger's suggestion drew agreement from fellow board members James F. McConnell of San Rafael and David G. Cohn of San Anselmo, both assessors.

The new board, which has the task of hearing 900 protests at consecutive Friday sessions, was formed to take the place of the board of supervisors which previously had heard appeals during a single two week period.

Older Workers' Rehiring Cited To Service Club

Despite strong emphasis on youth in business, many persons in the country over 40 are beginning new careers, the San Rafael Kiwanis Club was told at a luncheon yesterday.

Theodore C. Hossfeld, president of the Insurance Investors Fund of San Francisco, addressed the group.

To halt the rapid decline in the number of employed persons over 65, Hossfeld said, firms have begun hiring retired executives to fill positions until younger executives are experienced enough. He said companies increasingly realized that older persons showed stability, less absenteeism, good work attitudes and pride in their work.

Parolee Found With Runaway Hub Teen-Ager

An ex-convict, on parole from San Quentin for narcotics possession, was arrested early today in a San Rafael hotel with a 17-year-old runaway girl from San Anselmo.

Richard Wayne Dillon, 34, of 19 Scenic Avenue, was booked into county jail on suspicion of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and of violating parole. He was being held on $2,750 bail.

The girl was booked into juvenile hall as a runaway. The two were arrested in a room at the Carmel Hotel, 830 B Street, police reported.

Marin Municipal Court issued a warrant Wednesday for Dillon's arrest after the girl's mother reported Tuesday to police that her daughter had left home with him.

Police checked the hotel's registry after Dillon's car was spotted parked nearby.

Berlin Wall Visited By 1.4 Million

BERLIN (GF) — Over 1.4 million people, the large majority of them German, visited the demarcation line dividing East and West Germany last year.

Set up against the will of Germans by Communist leader Walter Ulbricht's East German regime, the border often seems as senseless as it is dangerous, occasionally slicing villages in two, sealing off major traffic arteries which once joined both parts of the country and often forcing separation of relatives who live a few hundred feet apart.

It is a wide strip, bare of most vegetation, and lined with barbed wire fences, mine fields and watchtowers designed to prevent East Germans from fleeing to the free half of their divided country.

The 1.4 million who visited the border last year did not include those who made private trips there and this would have raised the figure much higher.

The number of visitors is viewed as additional evidence of Germans' unwillingness to accept the division of their country.

Infant Mystery To Remain One

NEW YORK (AP) — The case of three mummified newborn babies—found entombed in a trunk more than 40 years after they were born—will most likely remain a mystery forever, says Chief Medical Examiner Milton Helpern.

Helpern said after autopsies yesterday that he doubted the bizarre mystery would be solved.

"Because of advanced mummification," he said, "we'll never know if they were born dead or alive, or if alive, what caused their deaths."

He said he had no doubt that the infants were newly born when they were swaddled in cloth and neatly wrapped in New York City newspapers dated in 1920, 1922 and 1923.

Kidnaper Gets Hospital Time

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — Judge Frank Rose ruled yesterday that Joseph Meeks, who kidnaped a Redwood City secretary last month, was a "mentally disordered sex offender."

The judge sent Meeks, who had been convicted of kidnaping, to Atascadero State Hospital.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

English Hospital Says Incidence Of Scabies On Rise: Epidemic?

VAN DELLEN

Scabies (the itch) may be on the rise. London dermatologists report a two and one-half times increase at St. John's Hospital for Diseases of the Skin. General practitioners in different parts of England report a recent rise in areas that were free of scabies for years. They hint that an epidemic may be in the making.

TWENTY-TWO cases were reported in Georgia. The majority were children and the causative mites were traced to pet dogs.

As a rule, animal parasites do not find the human skin a favorable habitat and the ensuing infestation usually runs a mild course. Although the results of treatment were excellent, the source was more difficult to manage.

IN SCABIES, an itchy rash develops between the fingers, the flexures of the arms, armpits, breast, lower abdomen, buttocks and genitals.

This skin disease is caused by an impregnated mite that burrows into the skin to lay her eggs. The male dies after attending to his duties and the female after her eggs are deposited.

The larvae are hatched in three to four days and change into the adult form shortly thereafter. The youngsters return to the skin and hide in hair follicles.

DIAGNOSIS IS based upon the presence of an itchy eruption and removal of the mite with a needle for laboratory study.

Itchiness does not occur until the victim becomes sensitive to the organism. This takes place within a month after infestation.

On the other hand, sensitivity continues long after the condition is cured, explaining why itching returns immediately after being exposed a second or third time.

EURAX CREAM or lotion, benzyl benzoate, and gamma benzene hexachloride cream are the best remidies. Treatment is external. Underwear, night clothes, and bed linens should be changed daily for four days, to avoid reinfection.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed evelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

RIGHT ARM

Mrs. M. J. writes: Our 5-month-old baby's right arm is fatter than his left. He uses both arms well. Is there any explanation for one being larger than the other?

REPLY

Examination will be necessary to determine the true nature of this condition. The baby's left arm, for example, may be weak as a result of nerve injury, or a circulatory disorder may exist, causing enlargement of the right arm.

ACID CONTENT

M. T. writes: When a person suffers from nausea and has a sour, nervous stomach is there too much acid in the stomach or not enough?

REPLY

Indigestion may stem from too much or not enough acid. On the other hand, nervousness is a more common cause and usually is unrelated to the acid content.

GASTRIC JUICE

V. R. B. writes: Does too little gastric juice take away appetite for sweets?

REPLY

No, because there is not relationship between the two. I presume you refer to lack of hydrochloric acid because it is difficult to determine whether a person has "too little gastric juice."

PRESSURE FROM FRAMES

Mrs. A. writes: My eyeglasses rest on my nose and cheeks and leave a red mark. Is there any danger of cancer from this irritation?

REPLY

While no lesion of the skin should be neglected, I doubt that the type you mentioned could become cancerous. Why not have the frames adjusted?

TOXEMIA OF PREGNANCY

Mrs. J. writes: If a woman had toxemia during pregnancy, can she develop it again after the baby is born?

REPLY

Not unless she become pregnant again. On the other hand, when a woman with nephritis becomes pregnant and develops toxemia of pregnancy, there is a possibility that kidney trouble will continue after the baby is born.

NOSE BOB

J. L. F. writes: I have a big nose about which I have become very self-conscious. What can be done about it, and how much would it cost? I am 19 years old.

REPLY

The best remedy is plastic surgery. Medicare is a long way off for you, so discuss the fee with the surgeon.

URIC ACID

C. B. writes: Does uric acid in the blood mean kidney disease?

REPLY

No. Uric acid is a normal constituent of the blood but an increased level occurs in gout and when the kidney does not function properly. In many instances it is elevated along with the blood cholesterol. We do not know why this occurs but it does not cause gouty symptoms.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Accident Clause In Insurance

Some insurance policies — auto, life, and liability — cover losses only if they occur by "accidental" means. Unexpected, sudden, and unforeseen. Some policies spell out what such coverage is.

In a recent case Oscar Jones' auto policy would pay for car damage by "accidental" means, but not for "mechanical breakdown." Oscar gassed up his car, and the station attendant checked under the hood. He did not fasten the radiator cap and all the water boiled out. Oscar's motor overheated and burned.

He had to buy a new motor for $50. Worse, his insurance company refused to pay. It said that the damage was due to a "mechanical breakdown" not accidental means.

When Oscar sued, the court ruled for him and made the insurance company pay. It said the loss was by an accident. It was unexpected, unforeseen, and involuntary.

In another case, the Ajax Drug Co. had a policy to protect its customers from accidental injuries in its store. A customer wrote a check which bounced, and the store had her arrested. When it turned out that the customer was not at fault, she made a claim against the store for malicious prosecution. But the court ruled that the insurance policy only ccovered the store and the customer from accidents, not from intentional malicious acts.

Ajax had to stand the liability.

Many life insurance policies pay double indemnity when death is by "external, violent and accidental" means.

In one case, Mr. Drinkwater, usually a teetotaler, drank too much alcohol, slowing the reflexes in his throat. He choked and died. The court ruled that his choking was an accident for which is widow could recover double indemnity.

Usually death caused by a disease or long illness is not accidental. But a heart attack after sudden exertion, exposure to disease, or illnesss after an accident, sunstroke, or freezing can sometimes be tied in with an accident and thus be covered by double indemnity clauses.

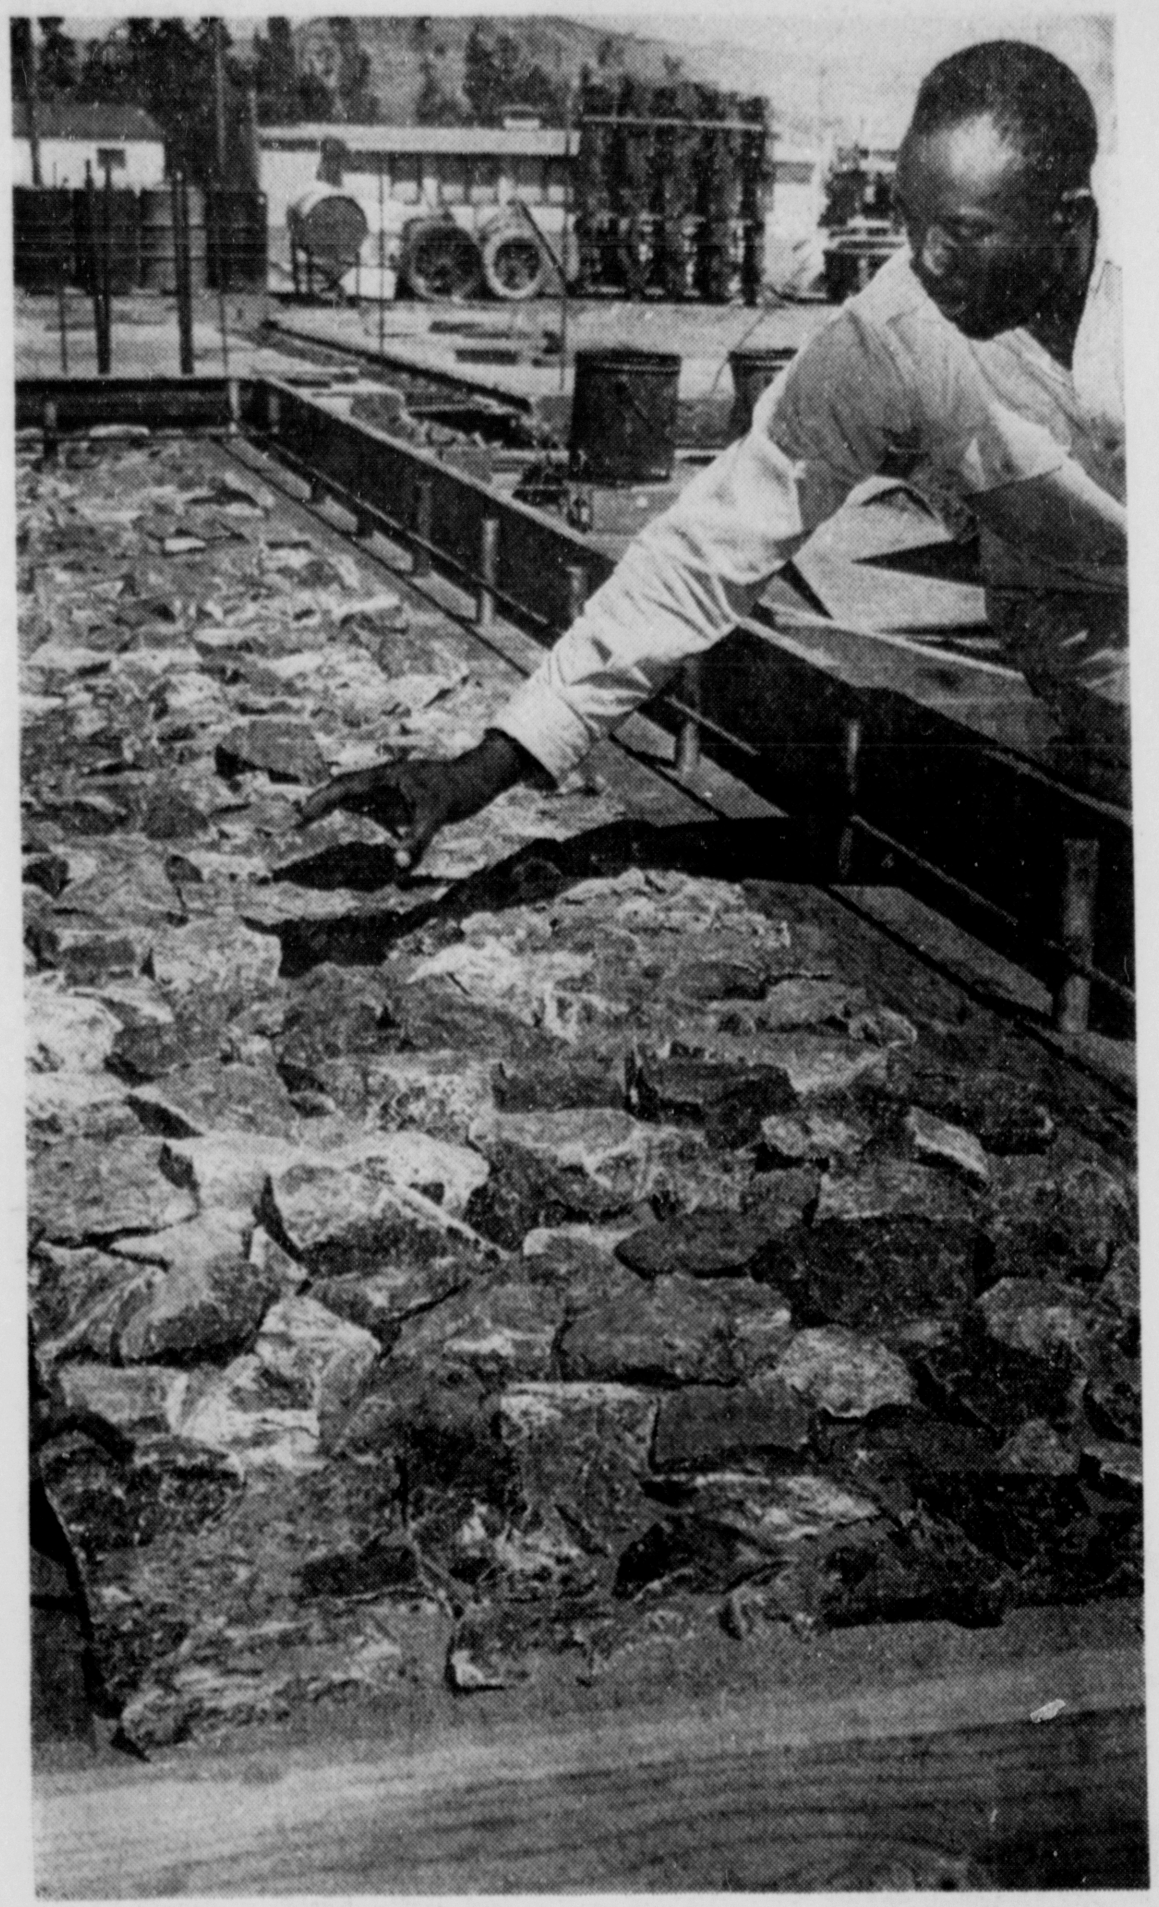
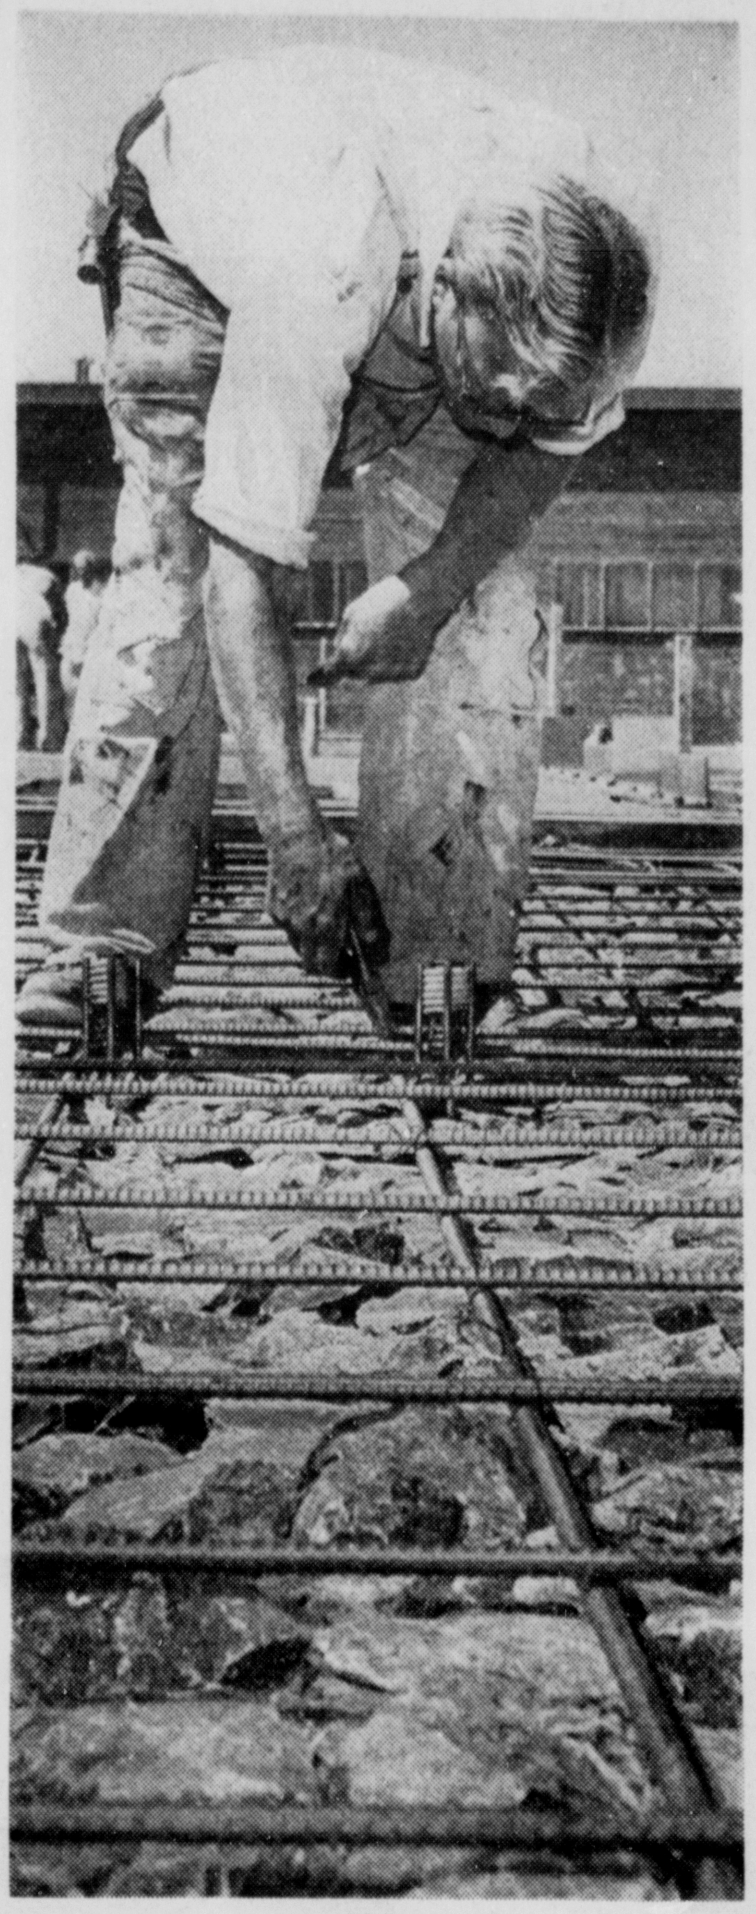
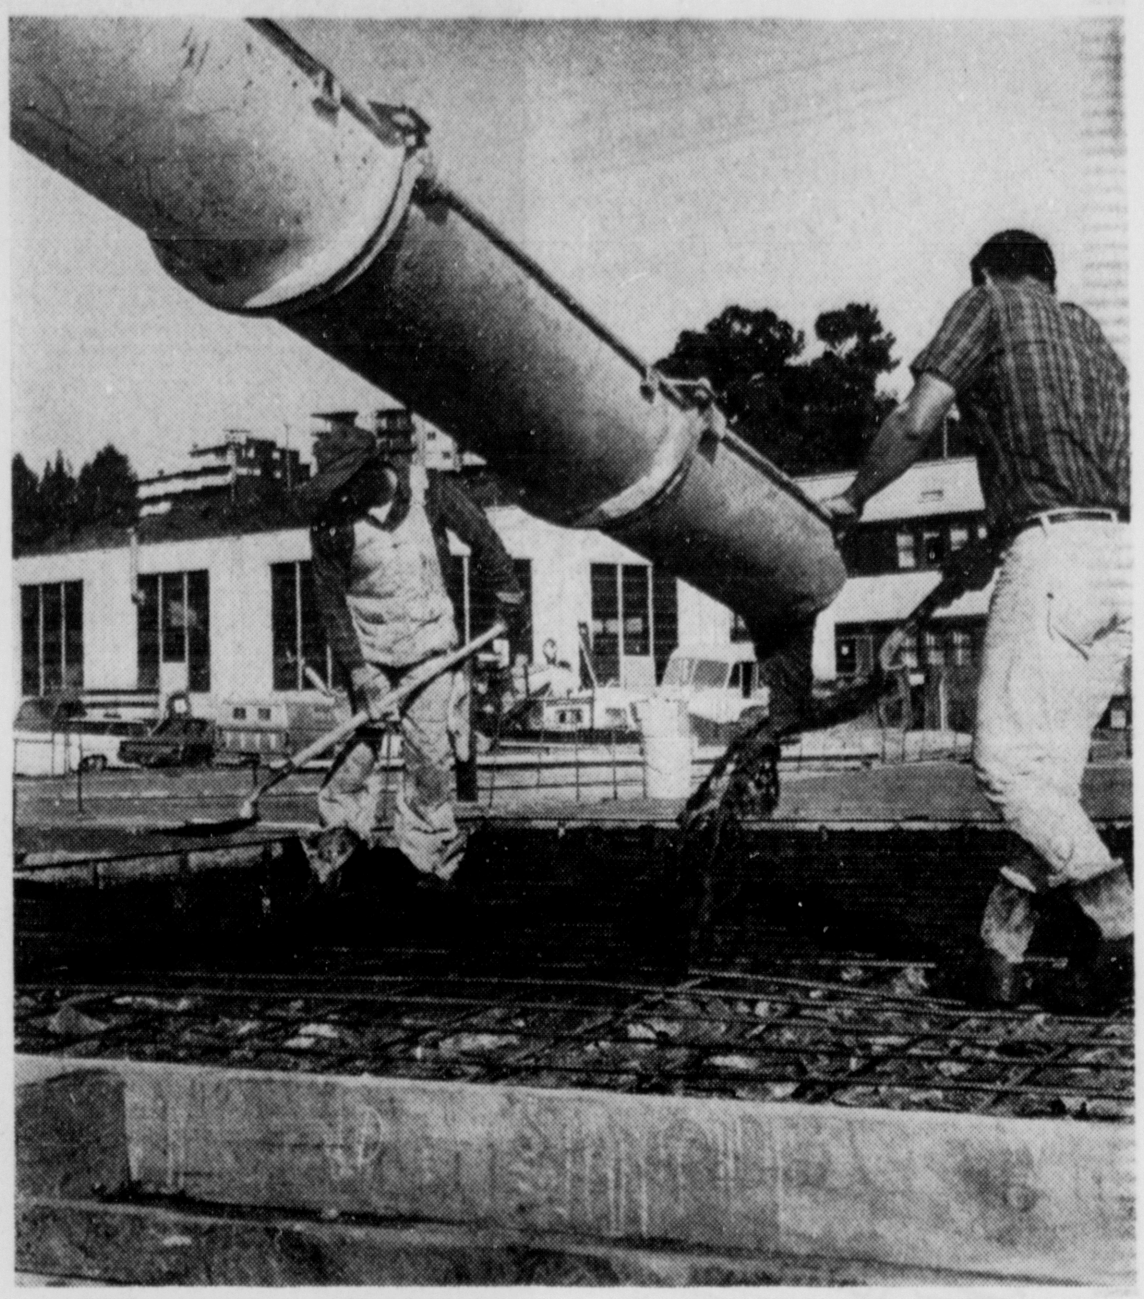
Walls Rise In One Day As A Building Takes Shape



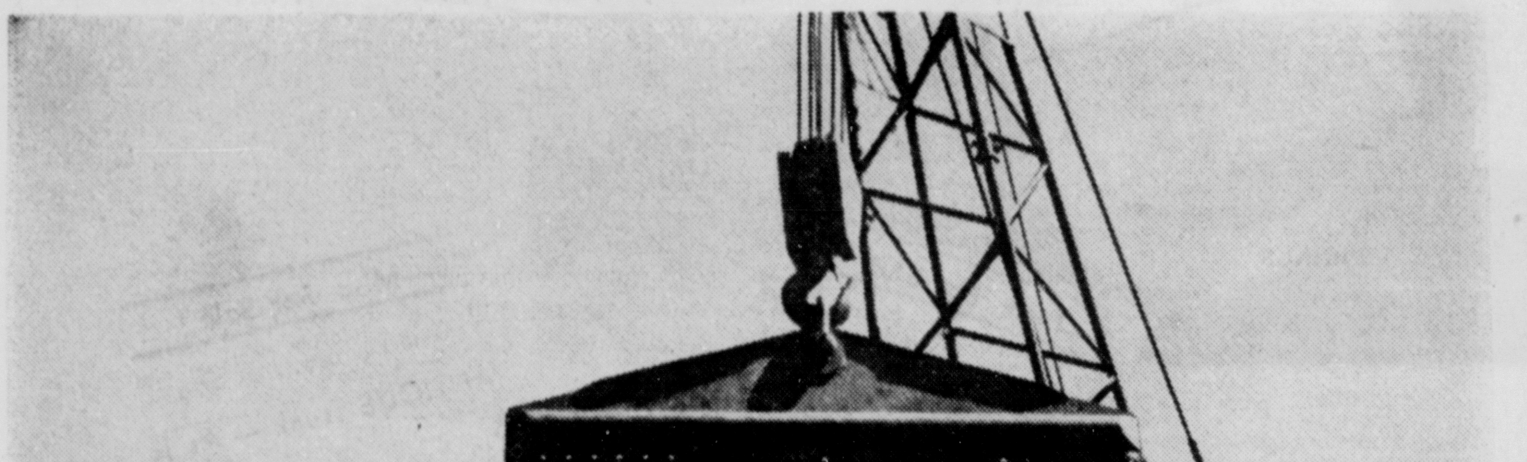
FIRST STEP—The forms have been laid out on the ground at E. D. Bullard Co., Sausalito, where an addition is to be built, using "tilt-up walls." Mack Martin places rocks which will form the decorative exterior of the wall.



HAND WORK—Woodruff F. Strebeigh of Sausalito attaches "pickup points" so that finished wall can be lifted by a crane. Metal cross rods are reinforcement for concrete to come.



GOOEY 'GLUE' — Concrete oozes out over rocks and reinforcing rods as workmen spread it evenly. Midstate Construction Co., San Francisco ,is building the 16,000 square foot building at 2680 Bridgeway. Concrete will completely cover tie rods.



UP IN AIR—A 20-ton section of wall, 12 by 18 feet, dwarfs workmen as a giant crane lifts it the few feet from where it was constructed to the site of the building. All walls went up in one working day this week. The building, when completed, will house facilities for manufacturing industrial safety equipment. Cost will be approximately $160,000.

CURTAIN WALL—Tons of cement and rock of a "curtain wall" is placed over what will be a doorway, when cross bracing is removed. A workman trims reinforcing rods of this non-load bearing portion in preparation for moving other slabs into place.

Air Show On Tap In Tar Opener

By KIMO CAMPBELL

If you're startled by the sight of oddly-shaped objects flying through the skies of Kentfield about 8 o'clock tonight, there's no cause for blowing your mind. The mysterious whizzing objects are more likely to be flying footballs than UFOs.

Reason: College of Marin's first pre-season game, on tap at the Mariner's home turf against San Jose City College, shapes up as a free-tossing affair, with neither team showing any inclination to keep the ball on the ground.

San Jose is blessed with a trio of first-rate receivers in split end Tom Davis, flanker Pat Pritchard and mammoth (6-4, 225) tight end Steve Kenney. These men were thrown to 38 times in last week's 14-12 loss to West Valley, and promise to get plenty of work tonight.

Marin coach Dick Read, who has a few fair-to-middlin'' pass snatchers himself in 1966 All-Golden Valley Honor Jackson, Bill Kilcoyne and Len Pieri, has his secondary well award of what to expect. Deep backs Fred Daniele, Karl Stein, Dave Salaun and Brian Whitney will have the unenviable job of covering the San Jose speedsters, as will Gary Dinkel and Joe Cunningham, who will see limited action due to a sore ankle.

Read hopes to take some of the heat off his deep backs by getting to the SJCC quarterbacks early and often. The men responsible for that demolition job will be the linebacking trio of Bill Hickerson, Jim Crisp and Jerry Feikert, and the front four alignment of Rich Woodall, (240) Bill McClelland (215), Tom Heacox (241) and Chris Andersen (186).

The Tars will counter San Jose's bombardment with an aerial barrage of their own with ex-Tamalpais passer Rob Prosch tossing to Jackson, Kilcoyne and Pieri, as well as to halfbacks Dean Lazzarini and Donny Smith. While Smith and Lazzarini provide the speed in the backfield, big Joe DeMasi, co-captain for tonight, will have to supply the power from his fullback spot, as the Mariners' other power runner, Dick Otis, is out with a severe Charley horse.

Read praised San Jose's defense as being a tough outfit, strong on pursuit. The big man in their defense in linebacker Randy Ingram (5-11, 208).

Said Read: "We've got a good bunch here in ability and morale. It's just our depth I'm concerned about. But we're ready and we know we can play good football."

College of Marin probable starting lineups:

OFFENSE	DEFENSE
E Honor Jackson (180)	E Andersen (190)

San Rafael Gridders Show Plenty Of Class

SPORTSMANSHIP — Football players love to belabor the bejabbers out of each other, but off the field of battle it's a different story.

A few days later, lying partially paralyzed in Marin General Hospital, the 16-year-old Franzi received what must have been one of the big thrills in his life — a "get well" card signed by the entire San Rafael High varsity squad, one of Novato's arch rivals.

Franzi's coach, Al Scott, deeply touched by the gesture, said: "The San Rafael coaches didn't prompt the players to send the card; they just did it on their own. But I think the players' action on and off the field reflects the strong character of their coaches.

"Football players," Scott continued, "are supposed to be so rough and tough, but I'll tell you one thing: I've met many, many players in this county and can truthfully say that everyone is a gentleman. San Rafael should be proud of its team and coaches."

Amen.

It'll Be Different On Field

And when San Rafael meets Novato on the field of battle Oct. 21, look for a mutual admiration society in action. Belaboring the bejabbers out of each other.

THE LOCALS — College of Marin Tars, who open their season tonight, are really a local team in that 40 of the 44 players are Marin County Athletic League products. Coach Dick Read doesn't do much outside recruiting, obviously, with such a wealth of talent in his own backyard.

The four "imports," by the way, are quarterback Val Subuco of Oceana, tackle Doug Dressler of Las Vegas, and ends Jack Slezak of Tule Lake and Ray Lawler of Shelton Hill, Conn.

A few tid-bits about the Tars, gleaned from the roster:

Drake High has been the Kentfield college's warmest incubator of football talent with 10 ex-Pirates on the roster. Terra Linda has contributed seven players, Novato six, Redwood and Tamalpais five each, Marin Catholic four and San Rafael three.

From 160 Pounds To Robust 241

At 160 pounds each (soaking wet), quarterback Brian Whitney from Novato and Joe Cunningham from San Rafael are the team's lightweights. The 241-pound Tom Heacox of Terra Linda and 240-pound Rich Woodall of Marin Catholic are the . . . well . . . best eaters.

With 40 locals on the roster, including such familiar names at Otis, Lazzarini, DeMasi, Jackson, Salata, Harr, etc., Marin attendance should zoom this season. So don't just sit there; go on down to Kentfield tonight and root, root, root for the home team.

Tickets And More Tickets

PASTEBOARDS — If you're shopping around for pro sports ducats, Taveggia-Brusati Sports Shop of 1340 Fourth Street, San Rafael is the official Marin ticket outlet for the 49ers, Raiders and California Seals, the latter new in the National Hockey League who open their home season in Oakland Oct. 11.

MARIN STAR — Rookie Elmer Collett from Mill Valley was voted by his teammates as the outstanding player on the 49ers' special teams in their recent victory over the Raiders. "Special" is a fancy word for the "Suicide Squads" that clash head-on during kickoffs.

AMERICAN AIRLINES has published a handy little pro football guide covering schedules, probable lineups, team rosters, player and team records, all-star results and all-time and season records plus handy tips for TV fans.

If you'd like a copy write to: "Miss Kiss, American Airlines, 345 Powell Street, San Francisco." She'll send you one. Sealed with a Kiss, I guess.

Giants Vs. Pirates Tonight

Two big questions still await answers as the San Francisco Giants sent out Ray Sadecki tonight at Candlestick Park against Pittsburgh, opening an 11-game home stand which will close out the 1967 National season.

Will the Giants finish as runnerup to the pennant winner as they did in 1965 and 1966?

And will Herman Franks be rehired to the manager's job he has held those three seasons?

The Giants, who finished only 1½ games back of the Los Angeles Dodgers in the 1966 race but trailed St. Louis by 13 when the Cardinals clinched the pennant this week, carried a slender one-game lead for second over Cincinnati into tonight's 8 o'clock game.

FINAL 10

In the showdown for runnerup prestige and pay, the Giants play three games with the Pirates whom they have beaten eight times in 15 meetings.

Then come three games with the New York Mets, losers in 10 of 15 encounters. The Giants wind up with five games with the Philadelphia Phillies who to date have dropped seven games to San Francisco while winning six.

Surface signs point to the rehiring of Franks. The announcement of his status is not expected before the seasonal windup against the Phils Sunday Oct. 1 and perhaps even later.

Giant Vice President Charles (Chub) Feeney who conducts a question-and-answer radio show once a week was asked about Franks on the most recent show.

"We think Herman measures up and we'll have an announcement soon," he said.

KEY INJURY

The two factors which hurt the Giants most this season were developments casting no reflection on Franks.

One was the hamstring muscle injury to ace pitcher Juan Marichal which first curtailed his appearances and then pulled him out of action altogether after Aug. 25 with a record of 14 wins against 10 losses as contrasted with 25-6 in 1966 and 22-13 in 1965.

Another disappointment has been the decline in extra base blows of the Giant sluggers. Last season, Willie Mays hit 37 homers while finishing with a batting average of .288. This season Mays is down to .266 and has only 19 homers.

Willie McCovey was only one homer back of Mays at 36 last season and averaged .295. The Giant first sacker this season is down to .275 and has hit 27 homers.

Berra Might Be Next Mets Pilot

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Mets, seeking to fill the managerial vacancy created by the resignation of Wes Westrum, may be looking toward colorful Yogi Berra as the man to guide them toward the top of the National League.

Berra's stock appeared to have been unintentionally boosted by M. Donald Grant, the Mets' board chairman, yesterday when Westrum's resignation was announced at a press conference.

"We're looking for a man who can satisfy the board, the press and the fans," said Grant, adding, "one that can win us the pennant."

Yogi, former star catcher for the New York Yankees and currently a Mets coach, is among the game's most popular figures as far as the New York baseball writers and the fans are concerned.

PERFECT RECORD

He is also 1-for-1 as a big league manager, having led the Yanks to the American League pennant in 1964. He was dismissed after the club lost the World Series in seven games to the St. Louis Cards.

Horace Stomeham, president of the San Francisco Giants, says Westrum will join the Giants in "some capacity other than manager." Stoneham made the announcement last night in San Francisco at a banquet honoring the retirement of Harry "Cookie" Lavagetto, who swapped coaching jobs with Westrum in 1964. Lavagetto had been with the Mets and Westrum with the Giants.

Westrum is expected to join the Giants as a coach.

The Mets, heading for another last place finish after a ninth place standing in 1966, have also fallen off in home attendance.

With the current Shea Stadium attendance at 1,520,000, the club will probably finish close to 400,000 under last year's final total.

"Bing Devine will be expected to draw up a list of managerial candidates from which he will make recommendations," Grant said, also referring to the club president.

The selection is not expected to be made until next month. However, Alvin Dark, Harry Walker and Gil Hodges are reportedly among the others who will be considered.

TWO FIRINGS

Dark was dismissed by Kansas City last month and Walker was fired by Pittsburgh in July. Hodges still has a year to go on his contract as manager at Washington and would have to

Twins And Red Sox Remain In Deadlock

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gary Bell, sitting in the clubhouse waiting for the rain to stop so he could find out if he was a winner or a loser, was nervous. And the Boston Red Sox, facing four games with a very live ghost, feel the same way.

Bell pitched 6 1-3 innings in Boston's 6-5 victory over Cleveland last night, but was out of the game when rain came in the ninth inning, delaying the outcome for over an hour.

"I was more nervous sitting here in the clubhouse listening to the radio than I was in the game," said Bell, now 13-12, and then his thoughts turned to Baltimore, which starts a four-game series with the Red Sox, having won seven of their last eight games.

TOUGHEST

"They're the toughest team in the league right now," Bell said of last year's pennant winner now tied for sixth place. "They're as tough as they were last season when they won the pennant. They've got everybody back."

Boston's victory, coupled with Minnesota's 4-0 triumph over Kansas City, left the Red Sox and Twins in a deadlock for the American League lead. Chicago is one game out and Detroit 1½ games back. Both the White Sox and Tigers were idle yesterday.

Washington beat Baltimore 4-3 in 11 innings in the only other American League game and, in the day's only National League contest, Atlanta beat St. Louis 4-2.

AFTER RAIN

The Red Sox scored three times in the sixth inning against the Indians, two runs coming on Dalton Jones' single. But Cleveland struck for three runs in the seventh and one in the eighth and it wasn't until after the rains that John Wyatt nailed down the victory getting three batters in a row in the ninth.

The Twins got homers from Harmon Killebrew, No. 40, and Tony Oliva, No. 17, and two-hit pitching from Jim Merritt. More than that, they needed not.

Washington ended Baltimore's seven-game win streak when Tim Cullen drove in the winning run with a two-out single in the 11th. Tito Francona drove in the Braves' winning run with a run-scoring single in the ninth.

It's Been A Year For Freak Injuries In Major Leagues

NEW YORK (AP) — Accident insurance premiums for big league ballplayers, especially those whose teams are involved in tight pennant races, are likely to go up next season.

The rates this year doubtless are reasonable. But the list of injured star players is unusually long. The causes of some of the injuries have been unusual, too, to say the least.

The Detroit Tigers, seeking to move up in the American League standings, received a stunning blow when slugger Eddie Mathews fell down a flight of stairs.

Still locked in a toe-to-toe battle for the lead with three other clubs, the Tigers were hurt again when Denny McLain dislocated two toes after his foot fell asleep.

Earlier, mild-mannered Al Kaline of Detroit became an angry Tiger and fractured his right hand when he slammed his bat into a bat rack after striking out.

The lights went out for Philadelphia's Rich Allen when he accidentally shoved his right hand through an automobile headlight.

Other standout players sidelined for long periods with injuries received on the field include Tony Conigliaro of Boston, Al Weis of the Chicago White Sox, Frank Robinson of Baltimore and Juan Marichal of San Francisco.

Mathews is just returning to action after severely bruising his left hip and hand in the fall. McLain, a topflight right-handed pitcher, hurt the toes on his left foot last Tuesday, and will be out about a week.

Very Busy Weekend Ahead For Marin Prep Gridders

Terra Linda's Trojans, impressive winners on the road last week, bring their 1967 fooball show to the "home" audience tonight against Polytechnic's Parrots of San Francisco.

The only high school attraction on Marin soil tonight, Terra Linda and Poly square off at San Rafael High School stadium at 8 o'clock.

Elsewhere tonight on the pre-league practice schedule Novato's Hornets, also with one solid victory under their belts, invade Petaluma where they'll battle the Trojans at 8.

Tamalpais met Salesian this afternoon at Tam.

The heavy practice schedule continues tomorrow with six games, including four on local real estate.

Tomorrow's schedule: Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park at San Rafael Military Academy, 1 p.m.; independent Marin Catholic at St. Elizabeth's of Oakland, 2 p.m.; McClymonds of the Oakland League vs. Redwood at Kentfield, 2 p.m.; Montgomery of the North Bay League at San Rafael, 8 p.m.; Vallejo (NBL) vs. Drake at Kentfield, 8 p.m.; Tomales at St. Vincent's of Petaluma, 8 p.m.

MORE FIREWORKS?

After Terra Linda's 32-7 thumping over Santa Rosa last week, Trojan fans are anticipating more fireworks tonight against a Poly team that has lost its only outing of the season, a three-touchdown margin to Lincoln.

"Our scouts say Poly is big and physical," said Terra Linda head coach Don Lucas. "It sounds like they'll be able to score against us, so we'll just have to outscore them. They didn't appear to be too smart on defense."

Terra Linda, which opens defense of its Marin County Athletic League co-championship against Redwood next Friday, had some illness in camp this week and Lucas made three changes in his starting offensive unit. Carl Hicks has been switched from tackle to guard, Gary Trono starts at split end and Gay Sager at halfback.

Lucas also announced that Poly has cancelled its junior varsity preliminary game with Terra Linda.

NOVATO-PETALUMA

Novato, which knocked off highly-touted Salesian 20-6 last Saturday, has been riddled by sickness and injury this week going into the Petaluma game, reports Hornet coach Al Scott.

"We're really hurting," said Scott. Out of action are halfback Larry Bresnan (knee), Dennis Baker (ankle) and Pat Green (ankle), tackle Ron Sparling (flu), end Bob Tait (ear infection), defensive halfback Chuck Day (mononucleosis), and

Thunderbird Leader May Break Medicare

CLIFTON, N.Y. (AP) — The U.S. national debt, already large, might have gone sky high had Big Bill Collins decided to postpone his injuries for a few years.

"I could have broken Medicare," quipped the burly club pro after taking a one-stroke lead in the $150,000 Thunderbird Golf Classic by shooting a five-under-par 67 in yesterday's opening round.

Collins is a 6-foot-4, 205-pound ex-Marine who devotes most of his time to teaching at Brae Burn Country Club in Purchase, N.Y., and is only a part-timer on the pro tour. He gave the rest of the 122-man field a putting lesson with a round of 32-35 over the massive 7,055-yard Upper Montclair Country Club course.

AILMENTS

Collins' history of physical ailments sounds like the must reading list at your favorite medical school. Back surgery in 1963 failed to fix him up right away and forced him to quit the tour a year later. Eighteen months ago, he underwent a shoulder operation to correct a whiplash injury suffered in a late plane mishap on the 1965 Caribbean circuit. He's also popped tendons and ligaments in his wrist three times.

"And," he confessed, "I woke up yesterday morning with a sore throat and an earache."

One stroke behind Collins, who will be 39 on Saturday, were three-year pro Homero Blancas and veteran Johnny Pott. Another shot back at 69 were Billy Casper, Chi Chi Rodriquez, Rocky Thompson, Tom Weiskopf and the local favorite, Pat Schwab, a 250-pound club pro.

Five players were grouped at 70, with eight more, including Arnold Palmer, at 71. Palmer sneaked under par with a birdie on the 605-yard, par 5 finishing hole after his second shot stopped four feet from the green which is hardly ever reached in two.

A dozen players had 72s and 20 more were at 73, including Jack Nicklaus, who had only two one-putt greens; defending champion Mason Rudolph, playing with an aching back, and Marty Fleckman, making his pro debut after becoming the first amateur in 34 years to lead the U.S. Open after three rounds.

TRAILING

Collins, a native of Meyersdale, Pa., turned pro in 1951 and played the tour part-time in the early 1950s. He made all the stops from 1958-1964. The Thunderbird is only his 15th tournament this year.

His last victory was the Buick Open in 1962. He also won the 1959 Greater New Orleans Open, beating Palmer in an 18-hole playoff, and finished seventh in the 1964 U.S. Open.

"My back is all fixed up now," Collins said after yesterday's 28-putt round.

Collins started out with more birdies than the Audubon Society. He rolled in birdie putts of 14, 30, and 18 feet on the first three holes and added a 10-footer at No. 5. On the back nine he birdied the 10th—"Would you believe a 50-foot putt?" — 13th and 16th while bogeying 12 and 17.

Rams, Vikes To Open Pro Slate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams, unbeaten and a potent power in the National Football League, remain solid favorites to add the Minnesota Vikings to their string of victories tonight.

The game opens a busy weekend of professional football, with seven more NFL games and four American Football League contests scheduled for Sunday.

Ram fans, after years of frustration and now hardly able to believe what's going on, are expected to turn out, 60,000 or so strong in Memorial Coliseum.

But Coach George Allen, the young man who began the march out of the loser's jungle last year, made it plain he does not take the Vikings lightly.

"Our films indicate the Vikings have the offensive line and the backs to score a lot of points against any opponent," he said.

The Rams, undefeated for the first time in their history in six pre-season games, opened the championship campaign 27 - 13 over the strong new expansion team, the New Orleans Saints, la Sunday.

Minnesota lost to San Francisco, 27-21, but rallied for 21 points in the last quarter under the leadership of quarterback Ron VanderKelen.

Gibson Is Named To Pitch Opener

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Manager Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals has indicated that righthander Bob Gibson probably will be the starting pitcher for the National League champions in the first game of the World Series.

After the Cardinals returned yesterday to St. Louis from a road trip on which they sewed up the title, Schoendienst told newsmen:

"Gibby has been throwing well and he has the experience."

As for other series starters, Schoendienst said: "After Gibson, I don't know."

Muir Woods Now Charging Fee

Weekend visitors to Muir Woods National Monument will find they have to pay 50 cents for what used to be free entry.

The charge, for persons 16 and older, went into effect Monday.

Agreement Is Reached At Meadows

SAN MATEO (AP)—An agreement between jockeys and the Tanforan Board of Stewards has eliminated the threat of a stoppage of racing today at the Bay Meadows track.

The only issue of the dispute, the 10-day suspension of jockey Bobby Jennings, was turned over to the California Horse Racing Board last night for a final decision. The matter is scheduled to be threshed out at a board meeting Oct. 17 in Los Angeles.

Meantime, Jennings will be allowed to ride again after serving only three days of his suspension.

With that, jockeys withdrew their threat not to accept mounts for today's races.

The action against Jennings b gan Monday when the stewards said questioning of the trainer of Poker Chip Jim, James Walsh, had yielded information that Jennings had been instructed to drop back early in the eighth race last Friday.

The Jockeys Association and Jockeys Guild of America called such a finding too broad. Walsh was quoted by Jockey representatives as saying he was satisfied with Jenning's performance on Poker Chip Jim.

get the Senators management's permission to negotiate with the Mets.

Westrum's departure was not unexpected although it was believed he would wait on a post-season decision by the management.

"I came to the conclusion that the strain of waiting in addition to the mental and physical strain of managing had become increasingly severe," he explained.

Westrum succeeded Casey Stengel, the original Mets' manager, midway through the 1965 season. He will be offered another position in the organization.

Day Of Upsets In Net Tourney

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Though tennis followers won't readily admit it, Torben Ulrich, Denmark's bearded giantkiller, is the talk of the Pacific Southwest Tennis Tournament.

Ulrich, who upset America's top-seeded Clark Graebner 11-9, 6-4 yesterday, has broken tennis tradition in more ways than one.

The 39-year-old right-hander is the oldest player in the men's singles championship field and is almost old enough to qualify for the senior's title. He also has long red hair that almost reaches his shoulders. And he sports a beard—uncommon in posh tennis circles.

Upsets were the rule yesterday as the second seeded American also went down to defeat. Charles Pasarell, former UCLA tennis star, lost to Roy Barth, a 20-year old junior at UCLA. The scores were 6-1, 3-6, 6-1.

Ulrich's countryman, Jan Leschly, was also upset. Allen Fox, another former UCLA netter, pulled a right calf muscle in the first game of the first set but went on to dump Leschly in straight sets—6-3, 6-4.

The Graebner family of Beachwood, Ohio, had another setback when Clark's wife, Carole, lost in women's singles play to Kristy Pigeon of San Francisco, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1.

NEW YORK — Slugger Mickey Mantle, who has played in more games than any New York Yankee in history, will continue to play "for at least two more seasons," according to President Mike Burke.

tackle Tom Zechlin (foot infection).

Scott scouted Petaluma in its 31-13 loss to defending MCAL co-champ Drake last week and said, "They (Petaluma) are pretty big and always strong in their second game. They had four first stringers out of the Drake game for disciplinary reasons, so we expect them to come back tough."

REDWOOD-McCLYMONDS

Redwood, winner of only one game in 1966, hopes to double that record tomorrow against a McClymonds team that will be playing its first game of the season. After last week's 39-6 thrashing of Washington, Coach Bob Troppmann's Giants have displayed "comeback of the year" credentials.

"McClymonds has 10 veterans coming back from a 5-4 season and they're usually speedy," said Troppmann. "That's all I know about them."

Regular fullback Joe Murphy has sustained a knee injury and will be sidelined for at least two weeks, Troppmann reported.

MARIN CATHOLIC

Marin Catholic, a 13-0 victor over Albany in its opener, treks to St. Elizabeth's in Oakland — on a wing and a prayer.

Coach Joel Kiff yesterday reported half and possibly three-fourths of his starting Marin backfield will be sidelined by injuries.

Quarterback John Crawford and halfback Jim O'Brien each has a broken finger and tailback Jim Finnegan, the bread-and-butter man in the Wildcat offense, is listed as "doubtful" with a deep Charley-horse.

"St. Elizabeth's hasn't played a game yet and I had looked forward to a close game," said Kiff. "But now, with these key injuries, I just don't know."

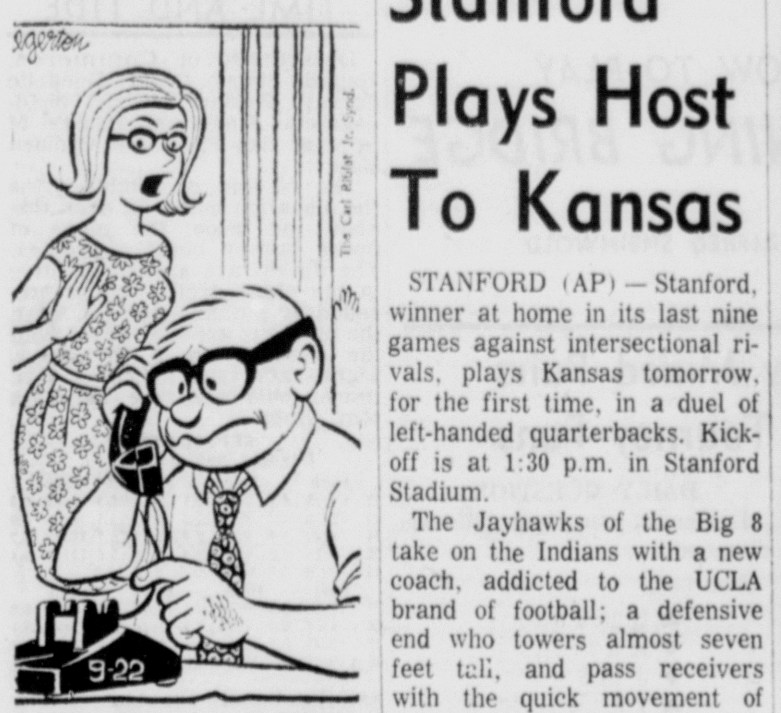
BIFF BUFF



"Buff, please don't call the Independent-Journal sports writers. They've written all the advance stuff there is to write about the College of Marin - San Jose City College game tonight."

Stanford Plays Host To Kansas

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford, winner at home in its last nine games against intersectional rivals, plays Kansas tomorrow, for the first time, in a duel of left-handed quarterbacks. Kickoff is at 1:30 p.m. in Stanford Stadium.

The Jayhawks of the Big 8 take on the Indians with a new coach, addicted to the UCLA brand of football; a defensive end who towers almost seven feet tall, and pass receivers with the quick movement of prairie jackrabbits.

An ankle injury to Chuck Williams in the defensive battle Stanford lost to Oregon State 13-7 last Saturday in Portland has caused Indian Coach John Ralston to turn to southpaw Mark Marquess as quarterbck against Kansas.

DEBUT

Pepper Rodgers, who is making his debut as Kansas head coach after being backfield coach at UCLA under Tommy Prothro, will rely on lefty quarterback Bobby Douglas who was No. 2 behind two No. 1 signal callers last year and didn't start a game.

A fellow to watch—and easy to spot—is Vernon Vanoy, a 246-pound defensive end. Rodgers' staff plucked him off the Kansas basketball team where his 6-foot-8 frame made him an obvious center. A junior, Vanoy has played no football since high school but he is touted as having great potential.

"When he comes up and towers over you, you think the sky is falling in on you," chuckles quarterback Douglas. The impression is heightened by the blue jersey Vanoy wears in practice.

SPEED

Rodgers' staff also grabbed off speed from the track team. Available as flankers are the NCAA long jump champion, Gary Ard, a transfer from Modesto, and a first rate quarter miler, Ben Olison, from Bakersfield.

Even so, says Jayhawker publicist Jay Simons, Kansas has other pass catchers who are quicker.

Stanford's coaches do not plan to start Gene Washington, the transplanted quarterback who caught five passes for 50 yards against Oregon State as a flanker. He was injured against the Beavers but likely will play against the Jayhawkers. But the chances of Williams getting in are slim.

Racing Washed Out

MOSPORT, Ont. (AP) — Rain yesterday washed out the first day of qualifying trials for tomorrow's 200-mile race in the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series for auto racing sports cars.

Cookie Lavagetto Retires From Giants And Baseball

Cookie Lavagetto, who ruined Bill Bevens' bid for a World Series no-hitter, is retiring from the San Francisco Giants and baseball.

Horace Stoneham, Giants owner, announced last night that the coach was quitting and Lavagetto declared that "From here on out, my wife and I are going to travel."

"Would you believe maybe Italy" he replied when asked where they planned to visit.

As a Brooklyn Dodger in 1947, Lavagetto got his most famous hit, a double off the Ebbetts Field wall that gave his team a 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees and stopped Bevens in the last inning.

Lavagetto played for the Oakland Oaks in the Pacific Coast League and for Brooklyn and Pittsburgh in the majors. He managed the Washington Senators for four seasons.

He had a lifetime .269 batting average and drove in 486 runs.

Sweet Pitching In Rec League

Sweet pitching dominated action in the San Rafael Recreation Department Class B Softball League yesterday at Albert Field.

Jerry Kordman hurled a 14-strikeout no-hitter as Two Turtles bombed Indian Valley 15-1, with the help of a 12-run seventh inning that saw Tom Ellingthorpe blast a three-run homer.

Cal Bears Must Face The Irish

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

It's "Intersectional Saturday" along the West Coast college football scene this weekend with California achieving the distinction of being the biggest underdog—by 32 points to Notre Dame.

Despite the lopsided odds, Coach Ray Willsey of the Bears is heading for South Bend sounding optimistic.

"We have a chance if we can keep our mistakes to a minimum," Willsey said during the week.

In other games tomorrow, Southern California is a four point choice over Texas, UCLA is 20 over Pitt, Oklahoma 17 over Washington State, Washington 8 over Wisconsin, Colorado 12 over Oregon and Stanford by 10 over Kansas. No line was given on the Oregon State-Arizona Stae game.

OTHER GAMES

Among the smaller schools, Weber State is at powerful San Diego State, U. C. Santa Barbara at the University of the Pacific, and Idaho at Fresno State. Santa Clara draws a bye.

The San Jose State-Texas Western game was cancelled because of a racial situation on the San Jose campus.

Coach John McKay of Southern California, apparently dissatisfied with his 49-0 win over Washington State, said that he looks for better passing against Texas. McKay also rates the Longhorns' Chris Gilbert as one of the nation's top running backs.

UCLA's Bruins are not expected to have much trouble against Pitt, which specializes in murderous schedules with smaller squads these days. Washington State coach Don Clark doesn't know who he'll start at quarterback against Oklahoma.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

NEW ORLEANS—Percy Pugh, 144¼, New Orleans, outpointed Jerry Pellegrini, 146¼, New Orleans, 10.

STEVENS

Although there is an admitted slight decline from last year's buck kill, the Dapartment of Fish and Game scouts predict a good season for California's late deer season which opens tomorrow and continues through Oct. 15 in the northwest area and Nov. 12 in the balance of the state.

You will be allowed one buck, forked-horn or better, in the general season area. In District 1¾ in the northeast, it is one buck with antlers of three points or better. In the northwestern area, you may take two bucks, forked horn or better.

You will note, if you have read your hunting regulations, that the open-weekend for the late season is the closing weekend for the early season.

NEEDLESS TO warn you that the fire danger is very high, so watch your cigarettes, cigars and pipes. Stamp out any lingering spark you see from your campfire or discarded smoke. Lots of dry grass in all areas; a menace not to be overlooked. The U.S. Forest Service requires campfire permits in all areas except certain camp grounds in the national forests. In some areas, overnight use may be restricted. You will be directed to other grounds in such cases.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Kaplan And Kay Mixed Pairs Win Astonishes Tourney Fans

Many tournament fans consider Edgar Kaplan and Norman Kay the best American pair, but they were astonished to learn that Kaplan and Kay had won the Mixed Pair Championship in the recent national tournament in Montreal.

Mrs. Kay earned her laurels, as today's hand indicates.

South won the first trick with the ace of hearts and returned a spade, losing dummy's jack to the king.

Mrs. Kay, East, looked for six defensive tricks to defeat the contract.

TWO TRUMPS

Two in trumps seemed pretty sure, since the play indicated that South did not have the ace of trumps.

Two clubs were a possibility, and one heart was pretty sure. That still left her one trick short even if all the possibilities turned out favorably.

Since the only hope was to develop an additional trump trick, Mrs. Kay cashed the king of hearts and led the ten of hearts to make dummy ruff.

LEADS TRUMP

Declarer led dummy's last trump and played the queen to force out the ace.

With five tricks safely stashed away, Mrs. Kay led a fourth round of hearts to defeat the contract.

If South ruffed low, West would overruff; and if South ruffed with the ten, West's nine would become the master trump.

Despite her success Mrs. Kay is generous to her husband.

"You can play instead of me on next year's Olympic Bridge Team," she tells him. "I'll just drive to the nearest big town and do some shopping."

This offer is less noble than it seems because the nearest big town to the site of the Bridge Olympics next year happens to be Paris.

You hold:

♠ Q 10 8 6 2
♥ A 6 2
♦ J 10 6

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

Change the deuce of spades to the king, and you would have a sensible overcall of one spade.

The actual hand is worth no action at all unless you really enjoy losing.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Sept. 22, the 265th day of 1967 with 100 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening stars are Saturn and Mars.

English chemist and physicist, Michael Faraday was born Sept. 22, 1791.

On this day in history:

In 1692, the last persons to be executed in the American colonies for witchcraft were hanged.

In 1776, the British hanged American Revolutionary war hero Nathan Hale, seconds after he uttered his immortal words: "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

In 1937, a united front was established in China when the Chinese Communist party announced its support of the national government. The Communists took over China 12 years later.

In 1959, the Chicago White Sox won the American League baseball pennant for the first time in 40 years.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Inflation Hits Hardest At Retired Shareholders

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. "I am an elderly widow. I have decided to go into an apartment community where I will buy by own apartment and pay a monthly service charge. My income is derived from annuities and Social Security; Amsted Industries; Borg-Warner; Commonwealth Edison; Chesapeake & Ohio; Consolidated Foods; Goodyear Tire; Interstate Power; Northern Illinois Gas; Genereal Motors. I need more income. Would you suggest changes, or something more dependable than stocks?" C. G.

A. You have, I am glad to say, a very good list of stocks. Your problem is all too common for the elderly whose capital is limited and who are faced with risisng costs. Most of your shares offer satisfactory yield and you could gain little by switching them. Consolidated Foods and Goodyear are among your best issues but their current return is only 2.80 per cent. You might exchange these for General Electric 5.30 debentures which yield 5.62 per cent and offer 10-year call protection.

If this change would not provide sufficient additional income for your needs, I advise you to consider building up your annuities to procure the required revenue. This is the only other safe and practical medium but you must remember that additional annuities will deplete your future estate, if that is important to you.

Q. "I own Tally Corp. and Dividend Shares Fund, also $12,000 cash. I am considering liquidating our stocks and, together with cash, buying an income building for future retirement. Would you agree?" A. U.

A. To a limited extent. If you know real estate values, you might dispose of your fund and acquire rental property. I would not sell all my Tally Corp. This is a well-regarded company in computer printing equipment, one of the fastest of all growth fields. I like the stock even at present high levels and I advise you to retain at least half your holdings to balance your real estate investment.

SPACE AGE PROGRESS

By JONATHAN EBERHART
Science Srvice

A decade ago, the notion of an intercontinental ballistic missile was tossed around only in locked Pentagon conference rooms and comic strips. An entire technology was developed under such strict secrecy that most of it is highly classified even today.

One 10-year old idea which only now has shed enough of its wraps that it could receive a patent this month is a missile guidance system that now seems like the most basic of primitive techniques, though it is the basis of many systems still in use today.

The system simply uses a gyroscope to sense and compensate for any unwanted motions of the missile as it reenters the atmosphere. Simple though it is, the principle of the device is at the heart of many ballistic missiles, and could even be used in manned space flight for such jobs as an inexpensive, compact emergency reentry capsule, says its chief designer, Dr. Arthur R. Kantrowitz, head of Avco Manufacturing Corp's Everett, Mass., research center. Co-inventors were Dr.M. Baron T. George and Herman Halpern.

The patent itself is a fascinating historical document, that uses (usually in quotation marks) such "new" terms as "ballistic missile" and "nose cone" revealing its early role in spreading technical jargon.

MISSILE TRACKER

As missiles become a more important part of a country's arsenal, they must be prepared to survive increasingly sophisticated countermeasures. An important defense of many missiles is chaff, clouds of radar-reflecting material released into the surrounding sky over vast areas to confuse enemy radar.

Chaff, however, floats and falls erratically, while a missile, once outside the damping effect of earth's dense lower atmosphere, tends to gyrate, or wobble, around its center of gravity at a fairly regular rate. This difference is the Achilles heel that makes possible a way of tracking missiles as though their chaff clouds were not even there.

The system was designed in th late 1950's by Leonard Kings and Donald Reiser, two engineers then with Melpar, Inc., a research and development organizaton in Falls Church, Va. In essence it is a radar system which will "fail completely to track any target which does not have a wobble frequency, such as may be expected of a true missile." Classified from the time it was designed, the system required nearly nine years to be declassified so that it could be patented.

Getting through chaff can mean great advantages in reliability and cost, the designers point out. A missile located someshere in a chaff cloud 80 miles wide, 20 miles high and 20 miles deep, for example, might reenter the atmosphere anywhere in a huge ellipsoid 60 miles high, 168 miles deep and 1,300 miles wide. On the other hand, they point out, if the missile itself could be tracked, the reentry region would shrink to .92 miles by .28 miles by 9.4 miles, well within the capalbilities of nuclear anti-missile missiles.

BUMPY BALLOONS

When the National Aeronautics and Space Administration decided some years ago that it needed a detailed profile of the winds above Cape Kennedy, balloons were the obvious choice as a cheap, easy way to draw it. A large radar antenna was set up to track a few preliminary balloons as they bobbed upward, and the resulting data were analyzed.

Unfortunately, as NASA soon found out, wind changes are much more violent in a vertical direction than they are horizontally. In fact, differences in wind speed over relatively small distances are often 50 or more times greater vertically than they are at any given altitude. An ordinary spherical balloon, the space agency discovered, will not rise in a perfectly vertical line even in a calm atmosphere.

One solution, already in use by the space agency and for which it has just received a patent, is simply to make the surface of the balloon rougher. Small cones, perhaps three inches high for a six-foot balloon, are molded into the balloon's surface, and provide a more stable ascent by stabilizing the point at which the air separates to flow around the balloon. This in turn stabilizes the drag forces that would otherwise make the balloon climb more slowly and follow an erractic course.

Circular Approach To Weapons Spiral

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara talked his way around a circle in his nuclear weapons address Monday in San Francisco.

The secretary's thesis went like this:

It is useless to attempt to build an anti-missile system that would defend U.S. cities from a Russian missile attack, because the Soviet Union has the capability to increase its striking power to where it would render the "umbrella" useless. Therefore, to do so would merely accelerate the arms race.

The only way to counter Russian nuclear weapons expansion is to increase U.S. nuclear offensive power, said McNamara. This, he suggested, will deter the Russians.

HE THUS COMPLETED a circle: if stepping up U.S. defensive weaponry will cause Russia to increase its offensive striking power, will not stepping up U.S. offensive power do likewise?

If the United States believes "the only defense is a better offense," is it not a fair assumption that Russia may believe the same thing?

Again:

The Soviet Union has started installation of a missile defense system to protect Moscow.

To counter this, McNamara said, the U.S. has slightly stepped up its missile offensive strength.

Here the escalation that the secretary foresaw if the U.S. attempted an anit-missile "umbrella" begins to operate in the other direction: Russia starts such an umbrella; the U. S. responds by stepping up its striking power.

THE CIRCLE HAS BEEN traveled in the opposite direction.

Again:

Although to attempt to build an anti-missile defense which would protect us from Russia would be foolish and merely escalate the arms race, the U. S. will start next month on a "small" missile defense system to protect against the predicted nuclear striking power of Red China eight years hence. This was the secretary's major disclosure.

But building this protection against a possible future Chinese strength must perforce cause Russia to step up its offensive missile strength — just as the Russian build-up to protect Moscow is causing the U. S. to step up its striking power.

Thus we are preparing to start another escalation circle at the same time Secretary McNamara says we should avoid starting one.

THE CONCLUSION seems inescapable:

The nuclear arms race is still on. If the Russians install a protective measure, we counter by increasing our striking power; and vice versa.

The further conclusion is inescapable that entrance of China into the race — even though it is barely past the starting line — already is serving to step up the mushroom spiral.

This terrifying process started when the first A-bomb was exploded in the New Mexican desert. At the present rate, it will never end until civilization is destroyed.

The obvious solution is for everybody to quit building nuclear weapons. The U.S. and Russian have both said they want to quit. But neither has given evidence of being willing to quit first. Somebody has to quit first.

McNamara Makes Strong Case; His Next Stop Should Be Moscow

WASHINGTON — Secy. of Defense Robert McNamara is right in expounding directly to the American people the crucial and controversial issue of whether the U.S. should build a massive missile defense system against Soviet attack.

At stake is something far more important than how to conduct a nuclear war; at stake is how to deter such a war and how best to save American lives.

Mr. McNamara's central conclusions are plain:

THAT THE U.S. should build a "thin" antiballistic missile (ABM) against Red China because it will work against the kind of missiles Peking will have in a decade.

That the U.S. should not build a massive antimissile defense against the Soviets because it won't work, because it could be penetrated, because Soviet weapons are far too sophisticated.

That the Soviet Union would be making a costly and grievous mistake to attempt a heavy ABM system against the U.S. If it does so, it will force the U.S. to increase its present lead in offensive nuclear weapons and as a result both nations will have poured billions down the drain and end up where we are now defensively.

SECRETARY McNAMARA chose an appropriate forum in putting his case against building a massive ABM system to the United Press-International editors and publishers, because he is going to need all the communication he can command.

His first stop was San Francisco. Shouldn't his second stop be Moscow? If the case against the U.S. building an anti-Soviet ABM system is as powerful and conclusive as McNamara says, shouldn't he at least make one bold try to put his facts and arguments to the Kremlin before Moscow commits itself irretrievably to another foolish and futile round in the arms race.

McNamara has always been eager and ready to do this. He hoped to discuss it with Premier Kosygin at Glassboro, but the opportunity did not develop. The secretary ought to try to make the opportunity just as soon as possible.

THE HEART of his case is this:

1—Even with a surprise attack, neither the Soviets nor the U.S. can prevent the other from retaliating with a nuclear power capable of inflicting nearly total destruction.

2—Our retaliatory capability is already far ahead of Russia's and the best deterrent to nuclear war is to keep it that way.

3—Our offensive weapons can penetrate any antimissile shield the Soviets can erect and the Soviets can penetrate any ABM shield we can erect.

MANY AMERICANS will understandably ask: if the case against the heavy ABM system is so air-tight, why does the Soviet Union appear to be moving in this direction? Perhaps the Kremlin couldn't resist the pressure of its own military.

McNamara rightly stesses that the decision to build the anti-China system in no way precludes our efforts to reach arms control agreements with the Soviets on ABMs and more.

It is clearly in the interests of both nations to do so.

Delayed Bills Under Field Act To Squeeze Taxpayers' Pockets

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Among other things which will contribute to the harassment of the California taxpayer next year will be the problem of the so-called "unsafe" school buildings throughout the state, and the amount of money which will be needed to bring the structures into conformity with provisions of the Field Act.

The Field Act was adopted in 1933, and it requires school buildings to be constructed to withstand earthquake strain.

The state Allocations Board has made a survey, and finds that approximately 600,000 elementary and high school students are in buildings which are legally unsafe. The board estimates the cost of replacing the buildings, or changing the structures to make them comply with the act, would be well over a billion dollars.

THE MATTER was brought to a head some time ago when the attorney general ruled school board members could be held personally liable for damages or injuries resulting from collapse or destruction of pre-Field Act buildings.

However, the Legislature in a manner negated the attorney general's opinion when it voted a measure providing personal liability could be removed if the boards took action before 1970 to remedy the situation by replacement or structural correction.

The legislative action took the boards off the hook for the time being, but merely postponed the day when action must be taken.

WHILE TAXPAYERS always welcome a delay in coming forth with money, as long as the Field Act is on the books, it is a certainty that eventually funds must be forthcoming to make the corrections.

The new law provides positive action may be taken by school boards in making surplus money available for new construction; submitting a bond issue to voters for new building funds, or submitting a tax over-ride to the voters.

The Allocations Board grants funds for the building program at the rate of about $250 million per year, and it would take all the school building aid money for more than four years to correct the deficiencies, even if the voters approved that many bond issues.

THE SITUATION no doubt will have to be taken into consideration when and if the Legislature goes into any program of property tax reform, as assessments on the districts involved conceivably could work out to be beyond the ability of the taxpayers to meet the bill.

Of course, the Legislature could amend the Field Act, but there does not seem to be any possibility of this occurring.

Little Poverty In Print Shops As O.E.O. Publicizes Itself

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — In the three years of its existence, the Office of Economic Opportunity has spent more than $1 million of anti-poverty funds for self-aggrandizing and other propaganda purposes.

The amount of money actually spent for this publicity is not obtainable. O.E.O. Director Sargent Shriver and his lieutenants are vague and unresponsive. But the tangible evidence of widespread O.E.O. publicity and propaganda is inescapable.

Not only does the agency have one of the largest publicity staffs in the government, but its numerous periodicals, newsletters, newspapers and various other publications are to be found all over the country. This nationwide propaganda network includes six monthly magazines, a monthly newsletter, a weekly newsletter and a score of community newspapers with a give-away circulation of upwards of 5.5 million.

Some of these O.E.O. publications are "Communities in Action," a glittery 32-page magazine; "The Corpsman," a magazine dealing with the Job Corps program, but completely devoid of anything derogatory; "Law in Action," a 12-page monthly devoted to acclaiming O.E.O.'s legal services, and "The Vista Volunteer," another monthly of which 50,000 copies are printed, although there are only some 4,000 volunteers in the Vista program. Presumably, the other 46,000 copies are "for the general public's information."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

How About Protection For The Innocent?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In our zeal to protect the juvenile offender from public censure, haven't we gone just a little overboard? Isn't is about time we started tempering our compassion with a little common sense?

How many of you "straight" citizens read the news item in the 9/14/67 Independent-Journal headed "Boys' Sweet Tooth Solves Crime Wave"? Three Tamalpais Valley boys, one 11-year-old (already on probation for burglary) and two 9-year-olds, were picked up by the sheriff's department for being the perpetrators of 68 burglaries! Of course, one 9-year-old took part in only 10 of the robberies. Only 10? Ye Gods!

According to the item, the boys took "an average of $9 per house, over a four-week period." Nine times sixty-eight tots up to a sizable $612 in my book. This amounts to something considerably more than the usual sub-teen infraction of the law, wouldn't you say?

In line with our policy of shielding juvenile delinquents and their parents from humiliation and censure, their names were not published, but the name of the school the boys attended was!

Beacause I was enraged over the miserable injustice done to every innocent boy at Tamalpais Valley School, I started checking with a few parents in the Valley. They feel, as I do, that something should be done to protect the reputations of the "straight" boys at Tamalpais Valley School, but they are reluctant to speak out because of their sympathy for the parents of these guilty youngsters. Shockingly enough, they are also afraid of reprisals against their children! I'm scared too, but this one time, I'm even angrier than I am scared.

The Independent-Journal item states the boys have been "cited to the juvenile probation office." A phone call to the sheriff's office this mornig elicited the information that the boys have, in effect, been slapped on their wrists and returned to their parents' custody, pending further action by the juvenile probation office!

If any one of these three boys had developed measles or small pox, he would have been instantly removed from school and placed under quarantine until such time as the authorities were certain his disease was completely cured. He would not have been permitted to return to school until there was no longer a chance that he might infect his schoolmates. Question: Isn't the "easy money" germ that these boys are carrying just as dangerous as the small pox germ . . . and considerably more potentially infectious?

Haven't we the right to ask the following questions?

1. What punishment has been given the youngsters?

2. Assuming that the boys will remain at home with their parents (on probation?), what changes have been made to see that the boys have better and stricter supervision? Or should we brace for a continuing "crime wave"?

3. Are the boys going to be returned to Tamalpais Valley School, thereby giving evidence to their schoolmate that "crime does, too, pay"? Don't forget, the item in the I-J also mentioned that these boys had been generous with their friends, giving them money and transistor radios. (It's easy to be generous with somebody else's money, isn't it?) Aren't these boys already heroes and "good-time Charlies" to their school companions? If they are returned to the school, without having suffered any meaningful punishment, won't this further enhance their "image" in the eyes of their schoolmates?

4. What about the victims of the 68 robberies? Have they all received proper restitution for their losses? No mention was made in the I-J of any plans by the parents to take care of this matter. Do we just take it for granted that all of the victims could afford the losses, or that their insurance would take care of it?

Until we have satisfactory answers to the above questions, I feel that this one case, at least, represents a particularly nasty insult to every innocent little boy at Tamalpais Valley School, to every parent in this valley that ever disciplined his children for wrong-doing, and to every teacher who has labored diligently to instill into the same children a sense of responsibility and sportsmanship, a love of honor and fair play.

What's with you "square" citizens these days? Have you all become deaf, dumb, and blind? Don't you care enough about the innocent kids to come to their defense? How long before you begin to make indignant protest, if ever!

Why No Patrol In Dangerous Area?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This afternoon, about 3 p.m., my husband was returning to Sausalito by Marin City. Richardson School was just out, and a number of children were walking home to Marin City. Suddenly my husband heard something hit the car — and looking back, saw some children throwing rocks at it, and laughing hilariously. A second hit was made, and now we have two dents in our car.

In relating the incident to a service station attendant, where he stopped for gas, the attendant said, "Oh, you would be surprised at how many cars drive in here with broken windows, etc.!"

On acalling the sheriff's office in Marin City to report this, the man on duty said they usually have a sheriff's car around the area when school is out. Sometimes a highway patrol car, too — but today no one was there.

When this is a known fact for this area, why isn't is policed each day?

Sausalito Library Defeat Regretted

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This member of the Board of Library Trustees regrets the loss of a library for Sausalito by 45 votes.

Of course the opposition reasons given were extremely praiseworthy (on the surface): "conserve our waterfront," "wait for the master plan," "don't improve the city piecemeal," etc. But is "conservation" for the people or for no people? How many master plans have we waited for over the years? How long do we wait for the millenium when "improvement" is done in one great swoop?

In Short, Let's Build That Second Deck

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The resistance to the second deck and its tie-in to the now dead-ended interstate freeway in Daly City as well as to the Embarcadero, Bay Bridge and Bayshore freeways is a tightening of San Francisco's choke-hold on Marin and the upper Peninsula.

By letting all traffic terminate at their city boundaries and shores, San Francisco is physically isolating Marin and upper San Mateo, thereby increasing their dependency and status as suburbs; only there to supply it with its needed clerical and administrative help.

We are not only being deprived of alternate work sources, but also the opportunity of increased local employment which would come from the suburbanization of commercial recreation, institutional offices and many other businesses that again would create a better tax structure. If we were linked to the outside world we would soon see that the journey-to-work pattern to San Francisco would change, leaving the streets there free to the Montgomery Street worker thus eliminating the need for a large subsidy of his transportation needs.

The Marinite should not equate his community with a suburb of San Francisco but see it as it really is and should be; a separate, individual center of activity and interest within the non-centric Bay Area Metropolis.

Nostalgic and romantic attachment to a bygone era does not bring about a realistic assessment of lacal urban dynamics nor of the community's need today or in its future.

In short, let's all push for the second deck now.

Smog In Air, Flowers On Cars, And A Monkey Loose In Mill Valley

The world is full of oddments this week, not the least of them being 96 degrees in Sausalito and a smog attack that must be the envy of Los Angeles. A few more days like Wednesday and maybe most of us would begin to believe something has to be done about pollution. But lethargy is pretty hard to conquer when, after all, "we only have smog a few days a year." So did L.A. once.

Painted vehicles have reached their flowered mind-bending peak apparently, and a new departure in decoration was seen at Mill Valley Volkswagen this week. A kid drove in with a standard middle-aged VW bus — except that the side windows were painted with beautiful bright designs, and the roof from the cab on back was a new, peaked, shingle roof. The only car in town that has to worry about bark beetles.

Then there was a monkey reported running around the other day in Mill Valley. John W. Clow of 200 Manor Drive told police if anybody had lost a monkey he had one hanging around his place.

It turned out to be a pet belonging to a family on nearby Marlin Drive. It was seven months old and "just beginning to get independent," Mrs. Clow said. She described it as "one of those wooly kinds" of monkeys. It entertained her kids greatly by swinging through the bushes by its tail for a day or so until the owners caught up with it.

DROPPED IN ON Sausalito Fire Chief Charles E. Masten the other day and found him busy assembling an "arson kit." Not as complicated as it may sound. It's a big leather briefcase like the old doctor's bag, neatly stuffed with evidence-collecting materials. Plastic bags, glass jars, clear plastic boxes, tape measure, gummed labels, notepaper, pen, pencil, tweezers and such.

The main ingredient in an arson kit, a fireman said, is the investigator himself. He has to know what to look for an how to preserve it as evidence. All of Sausalito's firemen have taken an arson detection course given by a Lieutenant Kelly of the San Francisco Fire Department.

THE MILL VALLEY planning department is probably the only one in Marin with a wishing well in the office. The department, along with building inspection, has moved into the former offices of the M-ll V-ll-y R-c-rd, next to the I-J, and planning director Harvey E. Bragdon has taken over the editor's glassed-in office which looks like a half-timbered Elizabethan cottage with shingled roof. At least it isn't thatched.

Bragdon denies that the Elizabethan look reflects planning department thinking. He does plan to put his motto over a hewed beam outside the department door — "it depends on whose ox is being gored." He is now seeking volunteer scholars to render it into elegant Latin.

Several Mill Valleyites had their vocabularies, if not their minds, expanded while the planning department was moving across the street. The move was made mostly by fire department muscle power, and the language was colorful — lurid might be more accurate. It somehow upheld the eternal verities. Policemen and barbers are supposed to read the Police Gazette, and firemen and baseball players are supposed to know more cusswords than anybody.

DON'T BELIEVE all the stories about San Francisco's pacific police. Bill Murdaugh, recent returnee from a civilian job in Vietnam who is now apartment-hunting in Marin, has a disillusioning story to tell.

He was walking through Golden Gate Park about 11 the other night when he and a companion, Larry White of Berkeley, were rousted by two cops in a patrol car.

Braced and searched, Murdaugh asked, "What's the trouble? Do you have a warrant to search us?" Whereupon, he says, the cop said "Don't give me any of that," beat him up some and hauled the pair to the station house, which was full of about 30 hippies.

When Murdaugh told the officer he was fresh from Vietnam, not a hippie, and up for a Purple Heart (civilians are eligible, Murdaugh said, though he doesn't know why) for being wounded in Asia, the cop took him outside, heard his explanation and let him go.

"I'm not a hippie, and I believe the police have an important job to do," Murdaugh said. "But now I can see why the Negroes, for instance, get so fed up."

Well, police work long hours for not much money, but it must be nice to be able to work out a day's frustrations by hammering someone. The rest of us have to go home and take it out on the wife or the family dog.

Sure-Fire War On Poverty At No Cost To Taxpayers

WASHINGTON — A friend of mine has just thought of a way to raise a large sum of money for poverty-stricken areas without one cent cost to the taxpayer. He calls his program Ghetto Inc. and this is his explanation of how it works.

"From now until the presidential elections in 1968," my friend said, "ghettos are going to be the big thing and every politician running for public office is going to have to visit one. But most politicians don't know where to begin when it comes to touring the slums, and so Ghetto Inc. will make all the arrangements for them, for a fee, of course."

"WHAT WILL you do?"

"Well, let us suppose the person wishing to tour a ghetto area is one of the many thousands of presidential candidates who feels obligated to walk through a depressed area. Ghetto Inc. would make out an itinerary for him. First, we'd have him visit a rat-infested tenement where he could be visibly shocked.

"Then we'd take him over to meet the parish priest who has just coached a Little League team of deprived youngsters to a city championship. After that we'd have him talk to an ex-convict who has gone straight and become a Good Humor man.

"Finally, we would arrange an interview with an unwed mother who has just lost her welfare payments. The candidate could or could not promise the woman he'd do something about it, depending on how he thinks the country feels at the time about unwed mothers."

"IT SOUNDS like a great service," I said. "How much does it cost?"

"Well, that's just a simple tour, and with transportation and including the ex-convict and Good Humor truck, we charge $1,500."

"That's not expensive," I said.

"Of course, Ghetto Inc. has more luxurious tours. We can arrange for a candidate to walk through a garbage dump, have him photographed with a group of striking schoolteachers, let him cut the ribbon for a new playground and then lay the cornerstone for a low-cost housing development. The charge for this would be $10,000, and we'd supply the striking schoolteachers."

"YOU MUST BE swamped with business," I said.

"Well, it's picking up nicely," my friend said. "Of course, the beauty of Ghetto Inc. is that we can service all candidates whether they're for or against the poverty program."

"How's that?"

"Suppose you have a candidate who is against welfare, opposed to coddling the poor and feels everyone should lift himself up by his own bootstraps."

"I know one," I said.

"Well, for $25,000 we'll arrange a tour for him which will include having rotten vegetables and eggs thrown at him, having paint spilled on his car and, if he requests it, having the press roughed up. This will get him the sympathy of the backlash crowd, which he is appealing to in the first place."

"I COULD SEE a candidate asking for that kind of treatment, but where do you find the people to throw the rotten eggs and vegetables?"

"Oh, they're around, they're around."

"Well, I think it's a very noble experiment and I can't see how Ghetto Inc. can miss," I said.

"It can't. As a matter of fact, with so many people running for office in 1968, our only fear is that we may run out of ghettos — or, even worse, unwed mothers — before the campaign is over."

The following is a transcript of the Administrative Regulation No. 1, which caused Planning Director Paul C. Zucker's excitement, as related in this column last week.

They are prepared of course by the highest paid members of that coterie. As you pay the bill for such indulgence, it seemed it seemed to me it would be a service to you in putting the spotlight on this one:

Absentee Ballots Set For School Bond Vote

Applications for absentee ballots for the San Rafael City Schools $10.6 million bond election Oct. 24 will be available at schools in the elementary and high school districts starting Monday.

The deadline for submitting applications to the county clerk's office is 5 p.m. Oct. 17, Condrotte said.

The absentee ballots must be signed and filed at the county clerk's office by 5 p.m. Oct. 23, he said.

There will be a $3,100,000 bond election in the elementary district, and two in the high district, and two in the high school district one for $2,025,000, and another for $5,500,000. Residents of the Dixie School District will vote only on the high school district bonds, while residents of the San Rafael Elementary District will vote on all three.

Ted E. Fullmer, endorsements chairman for the bond election committee, reported that the following organizations have endorsed the election: San Rafael Council, Parent-Teacher Association, San Rafael High School P-TA Executive Board, Terra Linda High School P-TA Board, and West End Elementary School P-TA.

Anyone wishing to endorse the election can notify Supt. John F. Plank at the San Rafael City Schools Administration Building, Fullmer said.

Mrs. James Mauroni, block organization chairman, said anyone interested in working with block organizers should notify the staff at their nearest elementary school.

MARIN PARADE OF HOMES

NATIONAL HOMES WEEK

September 24 through October 1

Independent Journal

San Rafael, California, Friday, September 22, 1967

SPORT ORIENTED GARDEN AREA

Lumber, Nail Harmony A Must

Select lumber that will hold nails firmly after they are driven in.

The holding power of wood is more inportant than whether nails can be driven in easily. Some specises of wood have better natural nail holding ability than others, but lumber that is poperly seasoned and preshrunk takes on "grip" whether it naturally had it or not.

Beauty To Bath

Clay potted gardenias are a novel way to add beauty and fragrance to the bath. The flowers like the humidity in the air of a bath, but not intheir root and soil structure .To protect against drowning roots, it's best to keep gardenias in porous pots which leach out excess water.

Advice To Retired Couples Moving To New Quarters

It may be hard to part with some favorite piece of furniture. But your new apartment can be very depressing if you bring along too many large, bulky things.

You'll need room to move about freely in your small quarters. Too many odds and ends may only remind you that once you had room for them all.

In moving to smaller quarters, pick things that can serve more than one purpose.

Maybe you still have good box springs and mattresses in your house. Bring them along, but leave those old bedsteads behind. Adjustable metal frames with casters can be used to support the beds. Comes morning, you use tailored covers and bolsters to convert the twin beds to sofas.

Pots and pans. You won't have to prepare those big familymeals. So don't bring all those big ones. One big pot will do. The rest should be small.

Slipcovers, and curtains and other materials. The ready-made kind are cheaper. And some of the new fabrics require little or no ironing after they've been washed.

One way to turn old tables, chairs or other furniture into "new" pieces is to paint them. There are many kits available that don't require a lot of work. Certainly it's cheaper than buying all new things.

Flat Lighting Is Depressive

If your guests always seem to make for the exits before the party really starts to swing, the fault may lie with the lighting and not the conversation.

Flat, even lighting tends to depress and bore people.

Too little light or light undistinguished by accent or variety dampens spirits and the intellect.

In addition to ceiling lighting for general illumination, you should provide pools and pinpoints of light with additional fixtures and portable lamps. This variety sparks gaiety and interest.

Check The Water

In using water to thin latex paint, be sure it's clean water. Thinning should be done only if absolutely necessary.

PORTION OF MASTER SUITE — The oak outside his window is referred to as "the thinking tree," making an obvious location for desk and chair. Except for concrete masonry wall shown here, Field and Dunn provided for interiors of drywall construction with a sprayed acoustical plaster ceiling.

BUILT WITHOUT DISTURBING TREES

A wooded downslope on Santa Rosa Avenue, Sausalito, became a problem for architects Field and Dunn when it was requested that no trees (there were 60) should be disturbed unless unavoidable. Entry to the front door is by bridge. House exterior is of redwood siding and cement asbestos board, both left natural and unfinished. Parking was permitted in tandem.

Plants Can Add Beauty To The House

Busy homeowners, aware, that there's no substitute for the natural beauty of living plants, can use them as decorative tools in the same way furniture, floor coverings or other accessories contribute to the decor of a home.

These tips can make it easier to choose house plants for varied locations and prolong your enjoyment of them both indoors and out.

1. Save time by selecting professionally grown plants that have been suitably conditioned in porous clay posts for climate prevailing where you live. And keep them in clay containers.

2. Be sure the plants you pick are suitable for the locations in which you wish to place them. Your florist or garden center can give you more detailed advice, but following these simple rules will help you make satisfactory selections.

Bedding plants that do nicely in shady locations include these favorites: tuberous begonias, coleus, caladiums, impatiens and fuchsias. They are available in clay pots from 2¼" in diameter.

For windows that get good sun, try flowering maples, kalanchoes, geraniums, shrimp-plant begonias (also for hanging baskets). For partly sunny windows or indoor locations with moderate light, try amaryllis, fern asparagus, bromeliads or Boston ferns.

Best Shingles For High Wind

Roof shingles that blow away in a windstorm are reacting to the same natural phenomena that keep a plane airborne.

Roofing manufacturers suggest that persons who own homes in high wind areas use self-sealing asphalt shingles on their roofs. These shingles have a factory-applied adhesive that bonds each course of shingles to the one beneath, forming a solid, windtight roof that can withstand hurricanes.

Utilize That Extra Space In Remodeling

The cramped corner, that hard-to-furnish niche, becomes useful floor space and a design focal point with built-in units that mix style and functionality.

A wide, ceiling-high cove presented a remodeler with a stiff challenge in a kitchen-family room area. Distant from the kitchen work center and visible family-leisure room, the niche had been an unused, barren wall area.

With a minimum of basic construction, a dry-wall soffit was lowered from the ceiling and the built-in unit installed, creating a desk-storage-communications center, featuring a handy extension telephone and house-wide AM-FM radio intercom system.

Designed to withstand the abuse of a growing family as well as provide lasting decorative beauty, the entire unit was surfaced with laminated plastic.

Household records, recipes and family paperwork are stored conveniently in the 12 spacious drawers, while larger items are kept out of sight behind closed doors.

Split Outlet Can Answer Home Wiring Predicament

Occasionally, however, its convenience is negated by the fact that a continuously-running piece of electrical equipment cannot be plugged into the same outlet which controls the lamp. For example, you could not plug an electric clock into that outlet because it would stop every time the wall switch was off.

A split outlet solves the problem. This is an outlet with two openings for plugs. The lower part of the outlet is always "live." That is, if you plug a clock into it, the clock will continue to run without interruption. The upper part of the outlet responds only to the switch on the wall.

6 reasons why the Underground Sprinkling System from TORO will end your water-fertilizing chores forever.

The TORO Yard Care Center is the most complete underground sprinkling system ever! It's out of the way . . . the sprinkler heads pop out of the ground, then disappear after watering. Look at these features:

1 You can fertilize your entire lawn with a flip of a switch, using the same sprinkler heads and controller.
2 An automatic moisture control shuts the system off when your lawn has had enough water, and doesn't water in the rain.
3 Special pop-up sprinklers allow complete freedom of design (increase or decrease amount of water after installation with ease)
4 Complete system built for average home water pressures.
5 Versatile Yard Care Center programs various automatic watering schedules (night or day) and provides for future expansion, if desired.
6 Green lawns automatically with the TORO Yard Care Center—free additional information—free estimates.

Bathrooms Now Assuming Relaxation Center Roles

There's a revolution brewing in, of all places, the bathroom.

Beyond its hygiene function, the bathroom has actually become a reading room, a relaxing room, a grooming area, and a health center. "Adult suite" would be a much better description of the way the area is being used.

While the master bedrooom has become large, the bathroom is still a small annex, inadequate for all its real functions. For example, vanity tables — now most often located in the bedroom — should be in the bathroom area because most grooming funcitions require a source of water.

An adult suite is the natural location for the various types of health equipment and facilities coming into greater residential use, including the sauna bath, exercise equipment, the whirlpool bath, and sunlamps.

Reading and relaxation is another of today's actual uses of the bathroom. It might even have proper lighting for reading, swivel TV, a stereo system, a vibrating chair, a tub large enough for comfortable reading-while-soaking. All the equipment and products required to create a dramatic adult suite are already on the market.

As the adult suite idea catches on, it may well rival the glamor kitchen, as a reason for buying a new home.

ALLOWS LAWN TO BREATHE — The little pellets of soil you sometimes see on golf courses are the result of this "lawn aerator" shown here with its inventor, Gregg Swanson of Terra Linda. Plugs of earth are pulled from the earth providing little reservoirs to catch the water and carry it underground.

Some Expert Advice For Lush Green Turf

Everyone admires a lush green lawn — but too few homeowners know how to acquire one or take the time to keep it beautiful.

This is the opinion of Gregg Swanson of Terra Linda, who has been in the business of serating and fertilizing lawns in Marin County for the past five years.

Most lawn problems arise from our natural adobe soil, he says. Adobe compacts easily and to such a degree that water runs off the top — never getting beyond the first one-half inch, if that far, into the ground.

The common cause of death of turfgrass in California, according to Swanson, is this water run-off from compacted soil, aggravated by a too rapid application of the water.

Swanson has invented a lawn aerator which he uses in his business to treat compacted turf with a mechanically-spaced "breathing system." His machine punches holes in the earth and pulls out plugs, leaving pockets to catch the water and carry it below the surface of the ground. It allows the root system to develop deep in the earth and also permits fertilizer to get to the root system instead of lying on the surface of the lawn.

He advises not aerating the ground until after the heavy rains when the dormant season is ending. Then a program of regular aerating and fertilizing should be started and carried out during the rest of the year.

Swanson suggests these procedures on regular lawn care for the homeowner:

Watering. Water your lawn as early in the morning as you can. Do not water late in the afternoon or evening. To stay green and healthy, lawns must be watered deeply for deep rooting and a greater supply of soil moisture for plant use. This lessens disease and compaction problems. Water your lawn 15 to 20 minutes in each section, repeating the procedure three times. When you have covered the entire lawn the first section will be ready for its next watering.

Mowing. Severe and too frequent mowing reduces lawn vigor and allows weed build-up. Keep the lawn high in the summer and low in the winter. Leave the cuttings of every fourth mowing on the lawn, as they are organic food. Cut blue grass to a minimum height of one and one-hald inches. Bent grass should be cut no lower than three-quarters of one inch.

Lawn pests. Use one-quarter cup of powdered detergent to one gallon of water and apply to one square yard of lawn to look for pests. This will bring lawn moth larvae (sod webworms), cut worms, leaf bugs, earwigs, caterpillers, etc. to the surface within 10 minutes. Once you identify the pest ruining your lawn you can take steps to destroy it with the proper chemicals.

Solving The Wall Holes In Decorating

Furnishing walls with a variety of hanging shelves and cabinets has been one of the more attractive, space-saving answers to many a home decorating problem — except that it could bring on the problem of what to do about the holes in the wall.

Apartment house walls tend to be paper thin — and even where they aren't, landlords usually take a dim view of damage done by nails, screws, plugs, toggle bolts and other hardware required to install the units. Even in one-family houses, dry-wall construction often makes such installations a tedious and frustrating project.

A new system does away with the "hole" problem by simply leaning the whole shebang against the wall.

An infinite variety of shelving and wall cabinet arrangements, easily changed or relocated, is possible with the system which consists of vertical metal uprights braced together on a specially angled base. When shelves and cabinets are secured to arms which extend from the uprights, the entire unit is anchored firmly through tension and gravitational forces. The more weight placed on the unit, the more securely it is held in place.

Rugged Exterior Ply Showing Up In Homes

This comes as something of a surprise to the plywood manufacturers because they didn't plan it that way. Exterior panels such as reverse board and batten, rough or brushed cedar and striated panels were meant to be just that — attractive, durable exterior siding.

But builders and architects — even homeowners themselves — decided these attractive sidings were just as attractive inside today's homes.

Exterior plywood panels have been showing up indoors particularly in children's bedrooms, recreation rooms and dining areas near the kitchen.

Even in the living room, the panels can present an attractive, graceful appearance.

The reasoning behind this is sound, in view of today's trend toward casual, carefree living. In addition, these panels are easy to install, inexpensive to buy, and their rugged surfaces stand up well in home areas where children live and play.

Staining the panels is simple, and the finished product can look like a professional job, even done by the weekend handyman.

Many types of panels have lapped edges, making it simple for the amateur carpenter to install a complete wall with tight, inconspicuous joints.

When panels do not have lapped edges, they are merely butted together to form an attractive wall surface. Installation on studs or overexisting walls is speedy and easy.

Bricks' Use Widespread All Over Modern Homes

Brick has extended its domain in the American home from the walls to the floor, both indoors and outdoors, to lend its inherent beauty and practicality to a more casual and colorful way of living and entertaining.

Outdoors, brick has transformed what used to be called "terraces" — usually grass-covered areas replete with bugs and soft spots after a rain — to "patios" for entertainment or just plain relaxing. It has gone into outdoor fireplaces and cooking arrangements, walks, edging for walks, and flower gardens.

INSIDE DECOR

Indoors, laid over a concrete slab and ordinary building felt, with or without mortar, it lends drama and warmth to family rooms at costs under that of good-grade plastic tile.

In or out of doors, the procedure is simple, whether the "brick-layer" decides to use mortar or just the weight of the brick plus dry sand.

Working without mortar, outdoors, here's a set of simple steps:

1. Outline the area to be "paved" (with stakes and string), dig out grass and roots, and clean out area to a depth at least an inch deeper than the thickness of the brick. Make sure your excavation is sloped slightly away from the house, so that it won't hold water. (If you plan a border, perhaps with the brick on edge, dig a small trench all around the area, about 2 inches deeper than the rest of your excavation. Or you may wish to build a "form," using 2 x 4 or 2 x6 planks.)

2. Place sand in the excavation, smoothing and compacting it with a garden roller, The sand bed should be at least one inch thick and can be four or six inches thick.

3. If you want to prevent growth or weeds between your brick (and help to get them level) place a layer of tarpaper over the sand.

4. Now, starting at a corner, lay the brick flat and tight against each other, in the pattern you have selected. (Remember, if you want a herringbone pattern, you'll be involved in cutting some brick at angles to bring your edges out evenly — a difficult job for an amateur.)

5. When you've finished, sweep fine sand over the surface to fill in the slight crevices between them and hold them firmly in place.

MORTAR USE

If you want to use mortar, follow steps one through four above (although the tar paper may be eliminated). Then place your brick in pattern — but leave a space of about a half-inch between bricks (most easily done by using a half-inch board as a spacer.

When your bricks are in place mix two parts of said to one of cement, and throw the dry mixture over your brickwork with a shovel, sweeping it into the open joints, then tamp it into the joints with a thin board, keeping up the sweeping until all joints are evenly full.

Now, adjust the garden hose to a bare trickle, playing this on each brick to wash it clean and settle the joint at the same time. Then spray a very fine mist of water over the completed job at frequent intervals for a few days to insure penetration and help curing.

Indoors, if a mortarless floor is desired, the brick is usually placed over a concrete slab, which should be first covered with two layers of felt (usually 15-lb. weight). Bricks are placed as tightly together as possible, then fine dry sand is swept into the joints.

Pre-Fabs Up

Pre-fab houses are nothing new. In 1849, 5,000 prefab dwellings were shipped around Cape Horn for the Forty-Niners in the California gold fields.

New Look For The Kitchen

Plastic-coated hardboard is bringing the custom-look of wood into areas like the kitchen, bath and laundry room where high humidity and dampness sometimes cause paneling problems.

The protective plastic coating is moisture-resistant, can be wiped clean with a damp cloth, and comes in appropriate designs like wood grain, tile, pastels and decorator patterns.

Walls Popular For Lighting

Walls are almost as popular as ceilings for installed lighting.

Wall fixtures range from cone and bullet-type designs that may accent a planter, painting or other art object to lighted fluorescent brackets which wash the wall above and below with light. Such application makes the wall seem to recede and make the room look larger.

Other use for wall-mounted fixtures are to add downlight for reading, to light a buffet, sofa or conversational grouping, a telephone stand and for stairwells and hallways. They often are coordinated with ceiling fixtures

Interiors Take On Sunny Look

Interior paint colors with yellowish undertones are reported as most popular with the buying public.

Colonial Decorations Are Still Popular Across U.S.

A recurring architectural motif in America is seen in Colonial styling. This is not so much a dependence on Colonial architecture, which is unsuitable to today's taste and construction methods, but a reliance on Colonial themes, hardware and materials.

The Federal eagle, so popular in the early days of independence, is seen now on mail boxes, mirror frames, light posts, wall lamps at the front door, in hallways and on stairs, and incorporated into door knockers. Colonial styling (into which we can also put Federal and Georgetown) is seen also in the use of louvers, liberal helpings of polished brass and copper, pegged floors and wood exteriors. Range hoods and bathroom cabinets are "antiqued."

When you're building a home, or remodeling it, you need not be literally faithful to an architectural styling such as Colonial to obtain the effect you desire. It is the touches that count.

This can be most notable in remodeling. A quite ordinary house can become flavored with Colonial by using the right hardware, lighting fixtures and doors.

The virtue of this is in giving a home a theme. The theme makes the home cohesive in its styling and focuses the interior decoration. Your home can be as modern as any glass and aluminum box. Indeed, you may use glass and aluminum and plastics liberally. Yet a distinctive Colonial flavor can be imparted.

Of course, any other architectural styling — Spanish, Mediterranean, Tudor, California ranch, Georgian — can be suggested in much the same way.

Precautions On Use Of Wrench

Whenever you are fixing shiny-plated fixtures which require the use of a wrench, your first step should be a trip to the medicine cabinet.

A wrench, no matter which type, is likely to cause scratches or other mars on the nut or other part of the fixture that is being gripped. To avoid such marks, first wrap the metal in adhesive, winding it around twice. This will not prevent the wrench from getting a secure grip, but it will do its expected protective job.

THE SAFE WAY

Electric Fixture Repairs Are Simple

Replacing an obsolete or inadequate light fixture boils down to making a safe electrical connection and a secure mechanical connection.

It is important to know, however, that some local ordinances require installation by licensed electricians. If you are permitted to do it yourself, here are guidelines:

Your new fixture will come with clear, illustrated instructions. Read them. All needed parts and pre-stripped wires will be included.

Before you start, shut off the current to the fixture outlet. If it is operated by a wall switch, turn it off. To be extra safe, trip the circuit breaker or remove the fuse. If you don't know which fuse is right, turn the fixture on and remove the fuses one at a time until it goes off.

The new fixture may not be attached exactly like the old one. But it is still a good idea to note how the old one was mounted as you remove it.

After turning off the current remove the old fixture and unpack the new. If you are using a cord-type fixture, like a pendant or pull-down model, one of the parts will be a threaded pipe called a nipple. It's important to determine if one is included. If so, you will have to place certain parts on the cord before you make your electrical connection. These parts secure the canopy and must be assembled first.

You will find a white wire and a black or red wire coming from the ceiling or wall outlet box. Connect the white fixture wire to the white outlet wire. The colored wire from the fixture goes to the colored outlet wire.

The use of electrician's tape or solder is rarely necessary today. You can do the job with solderless connectors. To use them, just hold each set of wires together, place the solderless connector over the wires and turn clockwise until tight. If the connector doesn't cover all the exposed wires, remove it, shorten the wires, and connect again.

There are three basic methods of mounting fixtures. With the cord-type, the first step is to fasten the mounting strap to the outlet box. Screws are provided. Don't tighten completely. Thread the nipple into the center of the mounting strap. Next, slip the fixture cord throught the "ornamental capnut," then the "locknut" and finally the "canopy."

Now, slip the end of the cord through the nipple. Make a knot near the end of the cord, leaving enough room for the electrical connection. This assembly — the outlet box supporting the mounting strap and the nipple housing the knotted cord — supports the weight of the fixture.

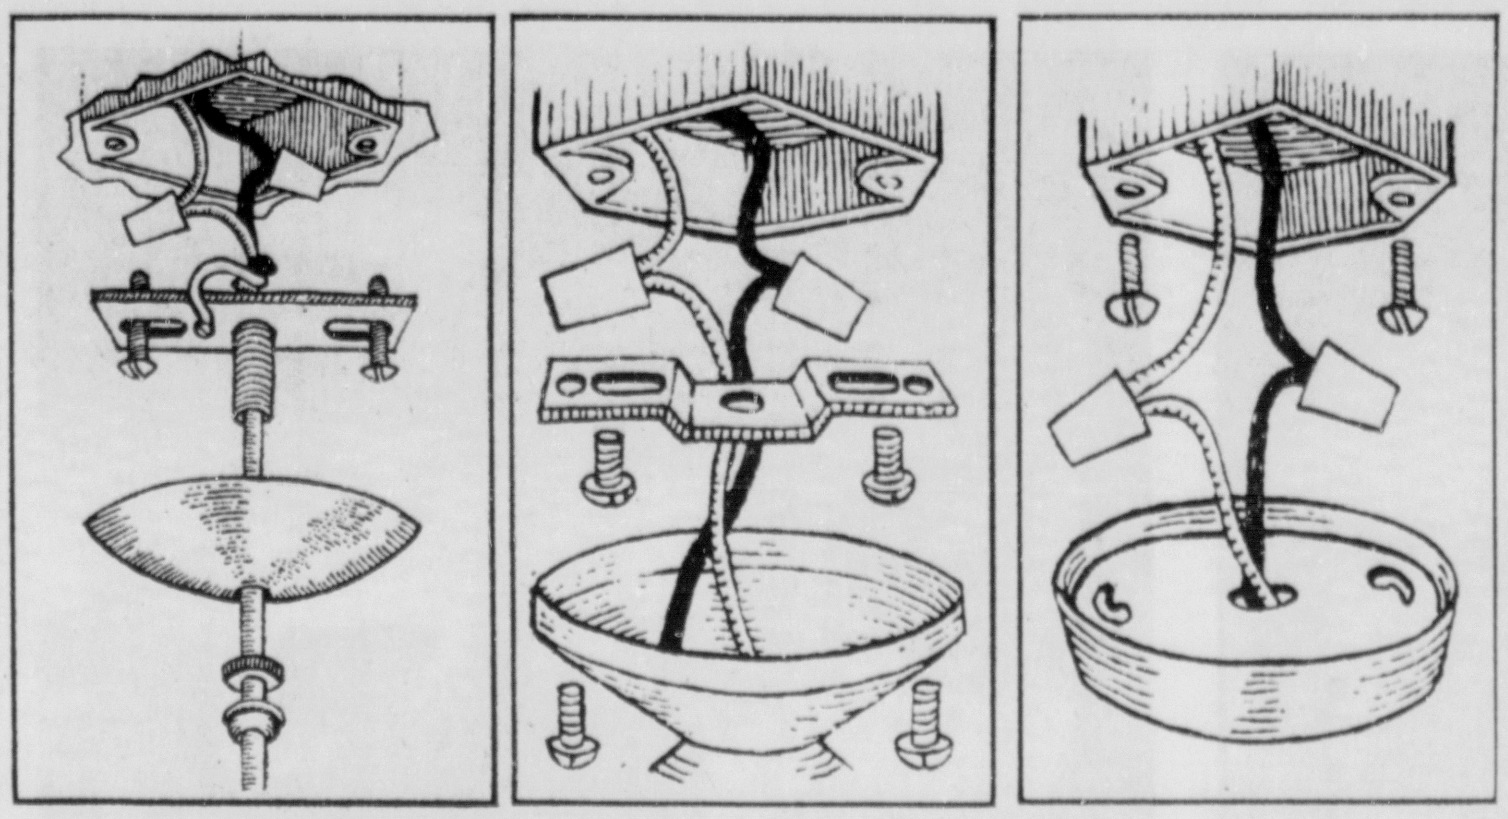
Make the electrical connection as previously described. By the way, if you have a third green wire coming from the fixture, ing it in the mounting strap. using the screw provided for this purpose. Tighten the mounting strap to the outlet box. Slip the canopy over the nipple so that three-eights of an inch of the nipple can be adjusted by turning it in the mountion strap. Secure the canopy in place by slipping the locknut and capnut up the cord and threading them onto the nipple.

Another kind of mount requires no nipple. Mount the strap to the outlet box and make your electrical connection. The fixture is then attached directly to the strap with two screws provided.

If your fixture has keyhole slots in the fixture-holder, you may eliminate the mounting strap if the slots are in line with the holes in the outlet box. If they are, simply insert the screws to the outlet box and tighten about half way. Connect your wires. Slip the screw heads through the large end of the slots. Turn the fixture slightly to the right. This places the screw heads below the narrow part of the slot. Tighten the screws.

If the slots do not line up with the outlet box, mount the strap to the outlet box. Insert two screws into the mounting strap, aligned with the slots, and follow the steps described.

Once you have secured the fixture properly to the outlet box and the wiring, the installation of glass or plastic diffusers comes easy. After you've done it once or twice, replacing fixtures becomes routine. But do it only if your local ordinance permits.



THREE TYPES OF MOUNTINGS — Where local ordinances permit installations and repairs, connections to outlet boxes can be made according to one of the diagrams above. New fixtures usually come with illustrated instructions.

Correct Way To Cut Plywood

When cutting plywood with table or radial saw, always keep the good side facing the ceiling. The same is true when using a handsaw. But when cutting with a portable electric saw, the good side should be facing the floor.

Following these procedures counteracts the tendency of one side of the plywood to chip when it is being cut.

To repair shower leaks, apply a clear epoxy coating to the shower floor and six inches up the walls. The epoxy should be the type used for waterproofing basements.

New England Look 'Lives'

Was it just the pleasant Colonial architecture that made our New England towns so striking and widely admired? Look again, advises The American Institute of Architects.

Foremost in the early American towns was a plan that determined where squares, houses, streets, places of business, and government buildings should be located.

Disorderly growth by speculation, non-conforming uses, and the kind of clutter we have today would have been forbidden in early America.

PLANNED FOR EASY ACCESSIBILITY

The Jacob Lindenbaum residence in Kent Woodlands planned and built by the William H. McDevitt Co. has an easy flow of design from the living room shown here to family room, which in turn adjoins the kitchen and outdoor area on the sheltered wooded uphill side of the house.

Indoor Plants Should Please Outdoors, Too

To get a pleasure bonus from indoor flowering or foliage plants, select them with an eye to outdoor use, too. Many plants can be transferred to the outdoor garden for summer months, with benefit to both garden and plants.

Exceptionally long-lasting house plants such as philodendron profit from an outdoor vacation. Kept in their porous clay post, to insure proper drainage and oxygen passage, sturdy foilage plants can be "plunged" into shady out-of-door spots. Plants that spend the summer immersed in garden soil gain additional strength for the "indoor" months.

Another choice might be multi-colored Caladium plants. In large clay pots, these plants are suitable for decorating the living room, and in warmer weather they can be used to advantage in a sheltered garden border or on a shaded patio.

Vividly-colored geraniums will thrive in a sunny bay window indoors — and then can be planted right into an outdoor window box or terrace planter during the summer.

When house plants are used outdoors, these suggestions can be helpful.

1. Double-pot plants in clay pots at least two inches taller and wider than their own containers. Place an inch or so of pebbles and vermiculite at bottom of the outside pot, and line space between inner and outer pots with peat moss or sphagnum. Plants can be watered freely, with no danger of root damage caused by "wet feet."

2. Check with a florist or nurseryman on the proper locations for plants placed outdoors. Foliage plants in general don't like direct sunlight, but most flowering plants prefer more light.

3. House plants placed outdoors — even sun-loving ones — should be guarded against searing sun and wind. They"ll withstand sun better if protected by walls, fences, heavy shrubs, overhanging roofs or patio ledges.

4. For portability, put large clay-potted plants on dollies, so they'll be easier to move. Many showpiece plants for porch, terrace and patio require clay pots up to 14 and 16 inches. Slipping them and their matching clay saucers onto a dolly makes transportation simpler.

5. When space is a problem, pole planters, equipped with brackets for holding several clay-potted plants and matching saucers, provide an attractive setting for flowering and foliage plants and hanging vines.

A Painting Tip

It is not necessary to remove the paint from a wooden surface in order to do a repainting job — provided the previous coat of paint is in good condition. However, it is important that any remaining gloss on the old paint be dulled with sandpaper, steel wool or a ready-mixed surface conditioner.

To Retain Luster

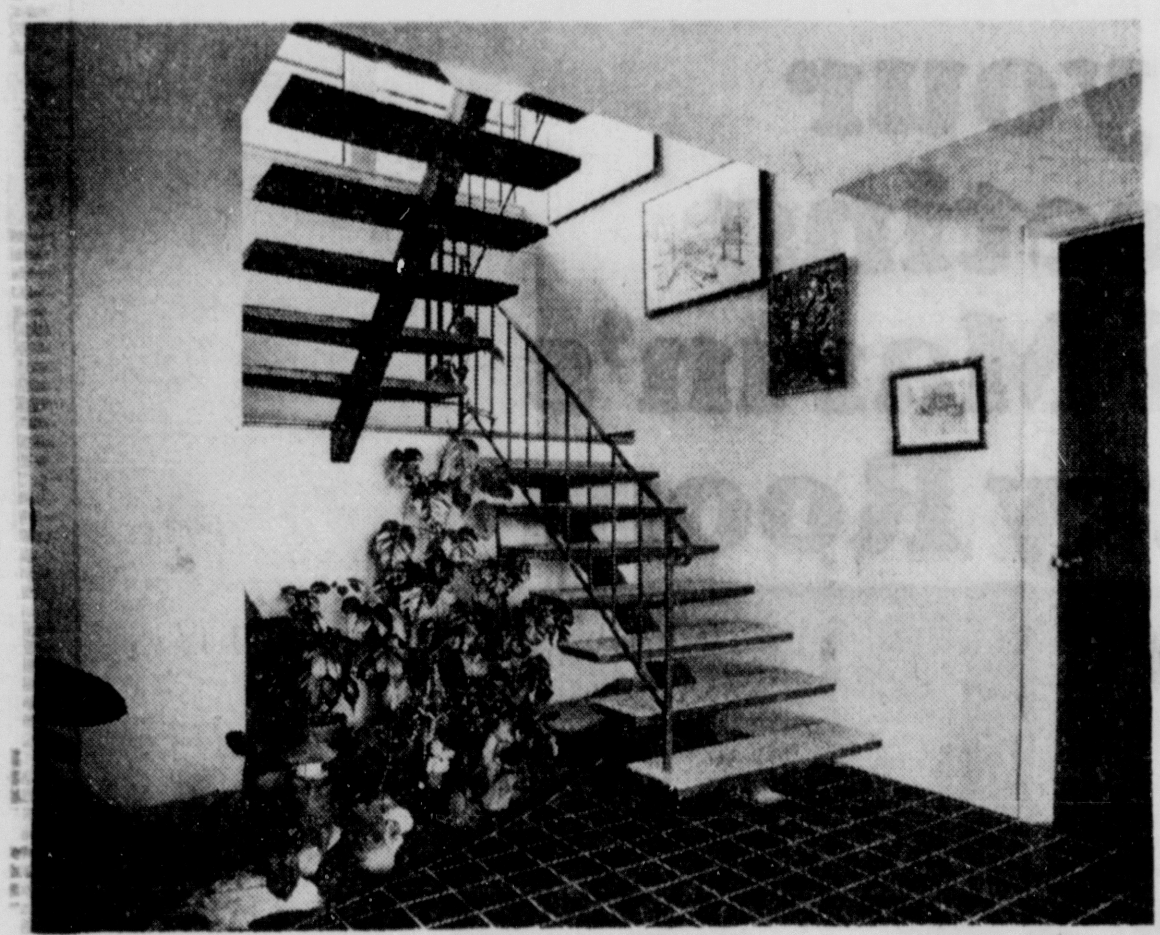
Best Redwood

If using redwood outdoors, get the heartwood grade, which is decay-resistant and termite-resistant.



DRAMATIC STAIRWAY — Tile floor and exposed aggregate concrete stair treads provide a maintenance-free surface as well as a strong design for this entryway at the Lindenbaum Kent Woodlands home.

Portable Tool Costs

There are wide differences in the prices of portable tools, such as electric drills and routers. This is due to a number of things among them the quality of the machine, its size and weight, and the number and kind of attachments that are included in the purchase. In comparing prices, therefore, be sure to take all these things into consideration.

Vary The Tasks

Door Panels New Way To Close Storage Areas

If three doors are sufficient, the center one can be fixed, the others hung one each on the left and right side of the door frame. Opening either end door will then give access to the area behind the fixed door.

To Protect Paper

Before painting over wallpaper, carefully paste all loose edges and torn sections into place. If a piece has been torn off and has been lost, use one or two layers of masking tape to make the surface level with the rest of the wall. But if there are several places like this, the entire wallpaper probably needs removal before painting the wall.

Ways To Brighten The Front Door

Many stock units of ponderosa pine exterior doors are designed to accept a variety of easily removable inserts — louvers, grilles, glass or wood panels. With these, a homeowner can create his own door design, and change it periodically.

Paint Percentages

Only about 15 per cent of all exterior painting is done by home owners themselves, compared with about 55 per cent of interior work.

DOUBLE DUTY — A decorative bulletin board adds an artistic touch to kitchen cabinet or wall and makes a convenient place to hang messages for phone calls for other members of the family.

Message Centers Can Be Very Attractive Addition

Message centers that actually are wall pictures add a delightful touch in home decoration and fit into the cherished category of conversation pieces.

They are bulletin boards made of imported India burlap laminated to a foam core backing. They come in gold, natural, forest green, cedar brown or aqua. The charm is not only in the unusual fabric face, so different from the regular bulleting board, but also in the colorful silk-screen decorations, suitable for any room in the house, ranging from a traditional floral bouquet to hickory dickory dock or a sophisticated comic cartoon.

These glamorized boards are not only good in this age of telephonitis for thumbtacking that vital message or shopping list, but dress up a kitchen cabinet door or hide that bruised spot that seems to pop up on many a wall. Included with the board is a strip of double-sided pressure sensitive tape to make hanging a matter of seconds. Sizes are 23 inches by 17 inches and 11 inches by 17 inches.

Type For Changes

If you're having a house built, the time to make changes is in the preliminary drawings before a contract is signed. Once the contract is signed, you have to pay what the builder asks for "extras."

Air Conditioning Has Interesting History

The search for comfort in hot weather has been one of man's most persistent preoccupations throughout history. Almost all inhabited portions of the world are hot at some time of the year, and man's efforts to keep cool in these periods have provided some interesting insights into his ingenuity and persistence.

In the days of Rome, it was possible to keep cool, if you were wealthy and powerful enough. The Emperor Heliogabalus proved it. He sent slaves into the mountains to haul back snow to cool his gardens.

Somewhat later, in the 18th Century, A.D., the Caliph Al-mahdi built a summer palace in Baghdad that had double walls. He, too, sent slaves to the mountains for snow which was then packed between the walls.

About 1500, the incomparable Leonardo da Vinci devised a water-driven ventilating fan that cooled the bedroom of the wife of his patron. In the century and a half after Leonardo, both the thermometer and the barometer were invented, and the connection between temperature and humidity was established.

In 1660, England's great architect, Sir Christopher Wren, came up with a gravity exhaust ventilating system for the British Houses of Parliament. Seventy-five years later a French naturalist improved on this system: He connected a centrifugal blowing wheel to the gravity exhaust ventilating system in the House of Commons. (A century later, a moisturized air and filtration device was added to the House of Commons system.)

In 1834, a Newburyport, Mass., inventor, Jacob Perkins, patented the first mechanical refrigerating machine, but it was not a commercial success. An ice machine, brainchild of Dr. John Gorrie, was developed in 1849.

In the last half of the 19th Century, when mechanical refrigeration was being perfected, men continued to devise ingenious ways to stay cool. Hospital patients were sometimes cooled by fans that blew air over ice in buckets. The temperature in President Garfield's sick room was controlled by melting 436 pounds of ice an hour.

Dozens of patents were issued during this period, each representing some progress in refrigeration techniques that were used in packing houses, breweries, drug and candy factories. This emphasis on industrial refrigeration led a college professor to write, "If they can cool dead hogs in Chicago, why not live bulls and bears in the New York Stock Exchange?"

But perfection of mechanical refrigeration, which did come about in the 19th Century, was not in itself the birth of modern air conditioning. That event came in 1902 when a young engineer, Willis Carrier, developed a means of controlling humidity as well as temperature at the same time.

Carrier's development, and subsequent advances by other scientists and engineers, paved the way to the air conditioning that we know today. In our times, to stay cool and comfortable in the summer is no longer a luxury afforded only by kings and princes. Almost everyone can enjoy the benefits of air conditioning in his home, car, office, shop, school, and even at the ballpark.

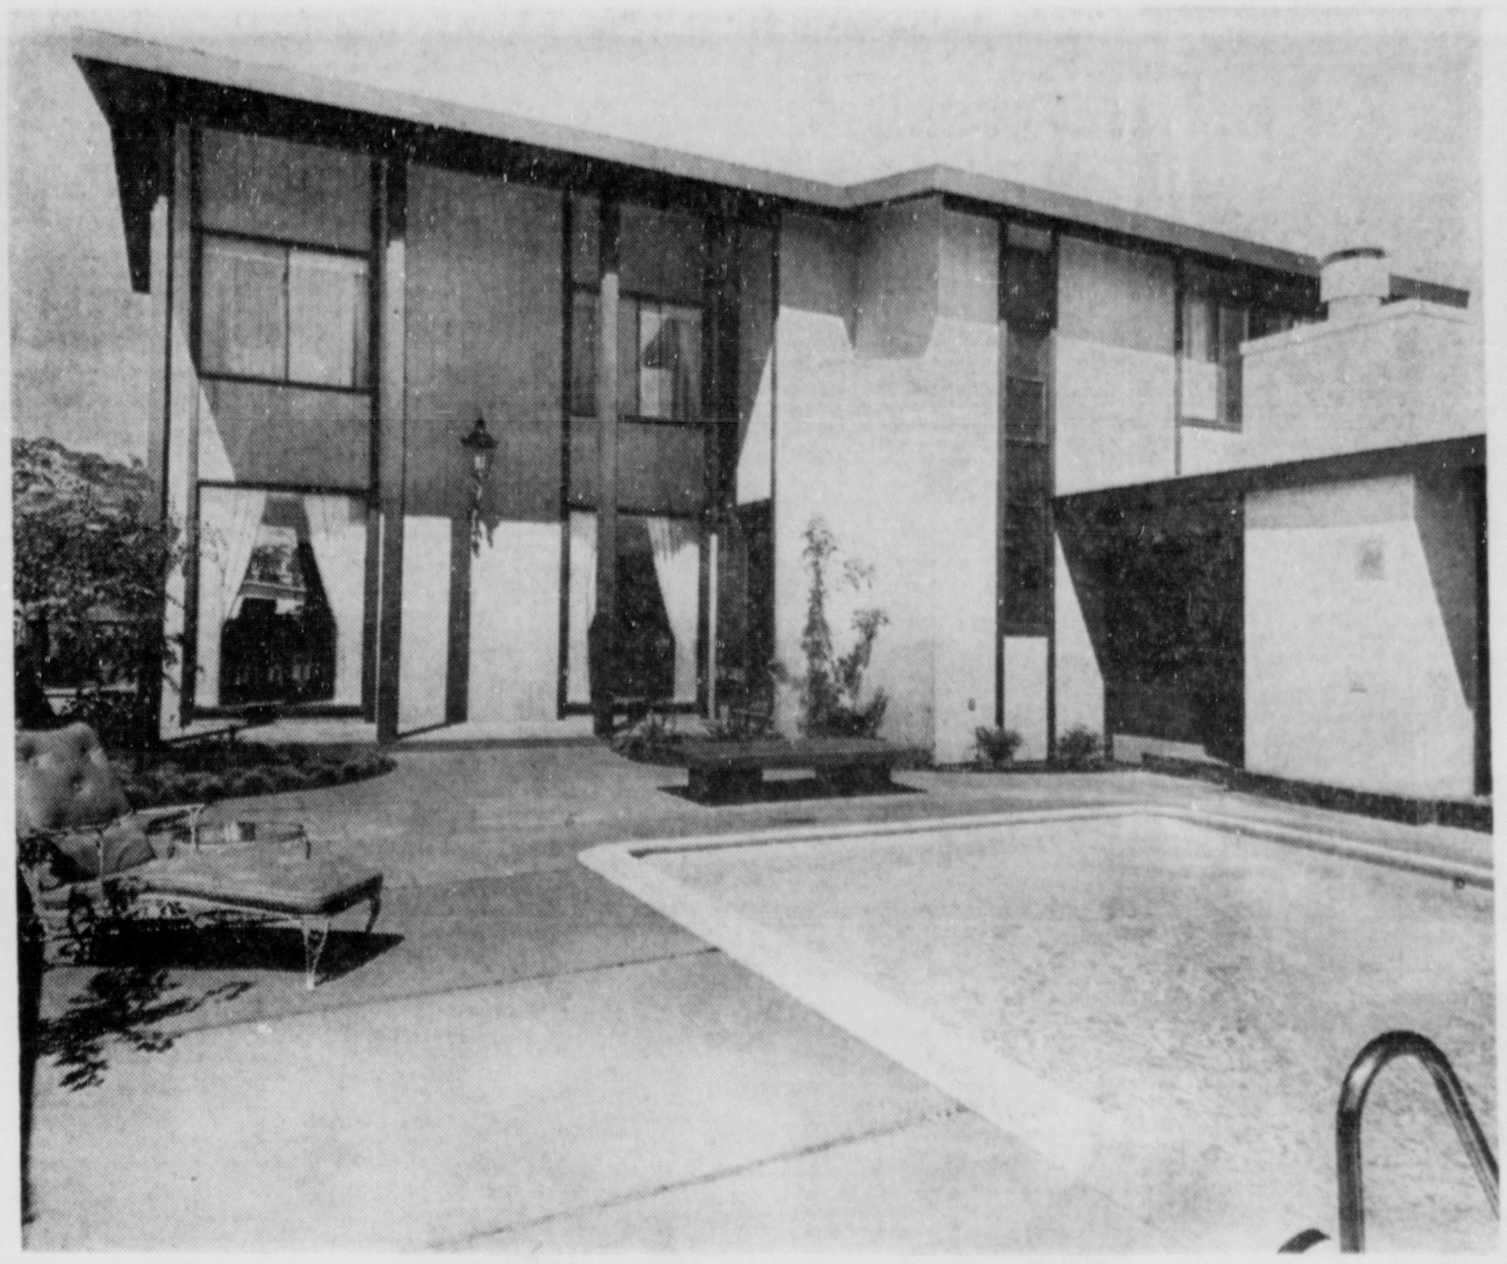
OPENS ON CORTE MADERA CANAL — All main rooms of the Graham home at Greenbrae Marina have an exposure to the water. Dining room, shown here, and entry hall both have a stone tile floor. Crystal light fixtures predominate throughout the house. Upstairs are four bedrooms and two baths.



TWO-STORY 'L' PLAN

Garage Can Do More Than Carport

Are you planning to add a garage to your home this fall? It's a good idea to make it more than a minimum-type shelter for your car or a place to store gardening tools.

If you make it large enough, add heat, electricity, hot and cold water, a sink and floor drain, it can serve as a workshop, play area and mudroom.

Of course such conveniences will increase the cost of adding a garage. However, it's an excellent way to upgrade your home not only from the family comfort standpoint but also by increasing its resale value. Weighed against these factors, the additional cost is really small, and usually can be absorbed painlessly, when it's paid in monthly installments.

The mudroom feature is especially desirable for families with avid gardeners, small children and pets. It's a good place to clean muddy shoes and gardening equipment, arrange flowers, clean vegetables fresh from the garden and shampoo the dog.

Ideally, the garage mudroom should include not only a sink or lavatory with hot and cold running water but a water closet, counter space and a place to hang damp clothes. Many homeowners find that an attached garage is an excellent place to install a shower stall as well.

Cleaning Tip

If the wall is discolored within the vicinity of a warm air register, something needs a cleaning. It's either the duct just inside the grille or the filter in the furnace. The duct can be taken care of with a vacuum cleaner hose after removal of the grille. The filter can be cleaned or replaced in a few minutes.

To remove paint or varnish from furniture legs, pour remover into a coffee can and set the leg inside the can. Brush remover onto leg.

First A Test

Wrinkling or cracking of a paint surface, generally known as "alligatoring," usually results from applying a second coat of paint over a first coat that hasn't dried thoroughly or because an improper type of primer has been used.

Mass-Built Home Advantages Cited

Can an architect who designs a single home for you give you a bigger and better-equipped house than a mass builder?

The answer, perhaps surprisingly, is no, says The American Institute of Architects.

The custom-designed and custom-built house is not the answer for many people.

A large family with a small budget may be better off buying a large, older house with the kind of space that is expensive to buy these days. A family that faces periodic or unexpected moves may do better to buy a house not too closely tailored to individual tastes.

COST FACTOR

And there is another hard fact to face: The mass builder can or should be able to provide more enclosed space for the money than anyone, regardless of his skill, can match on a single-house basis. Because he is in competition with other builders in a generally affluent society, the mass builder can also be expected to provide the latest available kitchens, plumbing, air conditioning, and electrical service. The best builders, who almost always use architects for site planning and house design, can provide all of these things and good design, too.

The family that retains an architect to design a single house for it can and should look for something else: The special delight and compatability of environment that comes from a house which has been designed to accommodate and enhance one family's particular way of life.

In brief, you shouldn't ask an architect to give you what many others can offer. But he is uniquely equipped to give you what no one else can supply.

RIGHT MAN

If this is what you want, the all-important first steps are to find an architect and a site — preferably in that order. How do you find the right man? One architect says: "By his work you will know him." The advice is sound; by looking through community newspapers, checking magazines, investigating houses that look outstanding, asking friends, and checking with acquaintances in the building industry, you will come up with the names of several architects. The next move is to make an appointment with the architect and tell him, frankly, what you want and what you have to spend on it. At the same time, you can ask for information about houses he has done so that you can look at them and ask the owners about him.

It is very important for both you and the architect to determine early in the game whether you like each other and are likely to get along together throughout the all-important conceptual period.

Knowing how to deal with the architect is equally important. To design a house that suits your living pattern best, he needs to know as much as possible about how your family lives and moves, what it does, what it likes and dislikes. Is the family close-knit? Does it thrive on proximity and conversation? Or do its members value individual privacy? Do you object to cooking smells or is the family likely to congregate in or near the kitchen? Are family members sensitive to noise and early-morning light? The answers to all these questions will suggest certain architectural decisions, influence the positioning of spaces, determine whether certain rooms should be located close to or separated from other rooms, dictate an open plan or call for considerable partitioning, to name a few considerations.

This kind of information is far more useful to the designer than swatches of cloth, color charts, and tear-outs from residential magazines.

When the architect brings in his preliminary drawings, the prospective owner must gird up his courage and say frankly and directly whether he likes them or not. Withholding a candid opinion at this stage will only result in unhappiness or require later and expensive changes.

NEXT STEP

After the preliminary drawings are approved, working drawings will be made and a book of specifications will be presented by the architect. It will then be time to choose a builder. The architect can help you make the choice and suggest what should and should not be in the contract. He will act throughout as your agent, and as a professional consultant, take no fee or compensation from anything or anyone but you insofar as your project is concerned. The architect will normally make periodic visits to the building site and advise you as to the progress and competence of the work being done.

Sometimes architects will receive a flat fee, but generally they are paid a set percentage of the construction cost. This is likely to vary from place to place and man to man; the range is generally between 10 and 15 per cent.

Having your own house designed and built is not a simple process. It will make considerable demands on your time, imagination and pocketbook. But, if you have shosen your architect well, it can be a unique and revealing experience, one that will be followed by another and even more rewarding experience — living in a home which has been planned only for you and the kind of life you want to live.

Buy Site Now Or Save? Tough Query To Answer

If only there were some way to give a simple answer to those who want to know whether it is better to purchase land years before building a house — or whether it is wiser to put aside money now for the house of the future.

There just isn't. Not all the real estate authorities in the world can answer that question on a general basis. Every case is individual, involving not only the financial circumstances and needs of each family, but the merits and demerits of the property under consideration. Yet even these factors, weighed and reweighed with educated precision, won't produce an infallible decision. The plain truth is that unforeseen elements can move into the picture at a later date and turn the person who made the verdict into a genius or a fool, when actually he made nothing more nor less than a normal move.

If you put your money in a bank or other financial intitution over a period of years, buying your house only when you are ready to move in, your money will draw interest all that time. But the price of the land where the house is situated may have increased many times during that period, forcing you to pay a much higher price for the dwelling. And you will not have had the choice selecting exactly the lot you wanted in exactly the area you wanted. Nor will you have a house built exactly to your specifications.

If you select and buy land now, expecting to build on it five or 10 years from now, you might find later that the community hasn't developed the way you thought it would and that it has lost its appeal. If you pay cash for the lot, you lose the bank interest and have to pay taxes on the land. If you pay off the lot on time, it costs more because of the interest or carrying charges.

That might sound like you can't win. But you can. As so many persons have learned, land that appears to be nothing more than a conservative investment suddenly doubles, triples or rise even more in value because some industry decided to locate a plant there or a new highway is built nearby. In that event, a plot produces enough profit to make it possible to build a house, if desired, in some other area.

The moral of all this is that you should make your own decision, based on every possible factor relating to your own family and not because of the experiences of others. And you may be storing up some regret for yourself if you're ultra conservative or ultra speculative in your decision.

To Halt Air Leak

Suspect an air leak into your refrigerator through a tiny opening around the door? Place a piece of paper half inside the refrigerator and then close the door on it. If you can pull out the paper, the door isn't closing tightly enough. The gasket at that point probably is worn. You can make a temporary repair by fastening strips of plastic tape over the worn part of the gasket.

Cooperatives, Condominians Are Attractive To Many Purchasers

The cooperative apartment idea and condominium ownership continue to attract large numbers of people for good reasons. Both offer the potential of capital appreciation and the security of ownership. Yet neither demands of the owner his personal attention to routine maintenance of home and grounds that is entailed in ownership of a traditional home.

Cooperatives and condominiums, as a result, have made their biggest impact as retirement centers. Even so, many more younger people are investing in these homes to gain time for leisuer and freedom that otherwise would be consumed in "housework."

Although the cooperative and the condominium resemble each other, they are quite different in organization. The owner assumes quite different obligations.

When you buy a cooperative apartment, you actually buy a share in an organization that owns and operates an apartment property. Your share entitles you to occupancy of a specified unit and obliges you to the maintenance of the building in a pre-determined ratio of expense.

If you wish to sell your share, you may be required to offer the other members of the cooperative the first right of refusal. This permits the other members of the cooperative to exclude potential buyers if they themselves are willing to pay the price.

Assuming that you do sell to an outsider, the transaction may be financially difficult. Over a period of time, you will have built up considerable equity. Yet the buyer may not have sufficient money to permit you to "cash out", so you may have to loan him money from your potential proceeds and collect it from him later. This situation comes about because the entire cooperative property is under one mortgage and the units in the property are not individually financed.

This results in another problem with cooperative ownership. If one member of the cooperative reneges on his payments or abandons the apartment, the other members must assume his proportionate share of the mortgage burden and maintenance.

A condominium, however, is a property which you buy, sell and finance as you would any other property. Usually what you buy is a defined quantity of "air space" that contains your unit top-to-bottom and all the way 'round, plus an undivided interest in several other air spaces that contain the public facilities of the property — the hallways, foyer, swimming pool, gardens, etc.

This undivided interest is exactly what it claims to be. One owner in the condominium can't claim the swimming pool, leaving the foyer to another, nor does one owner have a larger share in the public facilities. They all share the ownership equally. But they contribute to the maintenance of these areas in a pre-determined ratio based on the original value of the individual unit. Generally maintenance is handled by a property management firm.

The separate ownership of your unit has distinct advantages. When you buy a condominium, you finance your own home through your own lending scource. When you finance your own home, the buyer secures a new mortgage from the lender of his choice, permitting you to realize as much liquid cash from the transaction as you would from any other realty sale.

In the same way, if another owner in the condominium fails to make his payments, ownership reverts to the lending institution which assumes the former owner's obligation. None of them fall on the other owners.

Selling Points

Proximity to a school often makes a house more salable than another of comparative value. According to housing authorities, school location, quality construction and commuting convenience are three key factors in suburban real estate sales.

Wait Before Seeding Lawn

Moving into a new home which doesn't have a lawn?

Don't start planting seeds no matter how much experience you have had with lawns in other locations.

Soils have characteristics of their own. The type of lawn seed that brought such good results in your previous neighborhood might not be suitable for the soil in front of our new house.

Before planning the new lawn, ask some of your neighbors for their recommendations. You'll not only learn from their experiences with the kind of soil in that area; you'll find it an excellent way to make friends quickly.

TRANSITION TO GARDEN LEVEL

SCREEN FENCE WITH SEAT — There was need for garden-level wind protection and protection from golf balls from the adjoining golf course at the Snygg home, so landscaper Kapranos designed this wrap-around wood screen, augmented by tree and shrub plantings. A fire pit (not shown) was added for heat and off-hand barbecuing.

HOW YOU CAN TELL IF YOU'RE PAYING TOO MUCH FOR YOUR PRESCRIPTIONS!

We've found that though people that shop around and compare prices on everything else, seldom do so when they need a prescription filled. They assume that prices will be the same everywhere.

Actually there is a variance in pricing prescriptions just as there is everything else. To have the same prices by agreement would be price fixing which is prohibited. So, with medication being a major family expense, it's well worth a few minutes of your time to find out where you can save the most.

Here's all you need do: List the drugs you have bought recently. If you don't know the name of the drug in your prescription, your doctor or pharmacist will tell you. Write the price you paid then check with several pharmacies.

WE INVITE YOU TO CHECK OUR PRESCRIPTION PRICES at any time and assure you that your "shopping" will be treated with courtesy, immediate action and the respect we always have for the intelligent buyer.

Dishwasher Can Solve Dreaded Job

Having a gang of friends come to your house for a gala dinner party sounds like a lot of fun but more than one homemaker has shuddered at the thought.

It's not necesaarily a faint heart that makes them wince, either. The sight of stacks of dirty dishes, glasses, silverware, pots, and serving trays can make cowards of us all.

But the automatic dishwasher is indispensable for modern daily living as well. With it, the homemaker immediately had an extra hour of more every day to spend with the children, with friends or just relaxing.

New models clean dishes, utensils and pots and pans better with a powerful spray of water hotter than human hands can stand. This makes for cleaner, more sanitary food service in the home.

The dishwasher also enables the woman of the house to keep the kitchen neater. She can load the breakfast and luncheon dishes into the machine and do them together.

Entertainment Center Ideas

Are you planning the addition of a family room or converting your basement into one? If so, don't forget to include an "entertainment center."

Its basic features are a sink with hot and cold running water. Other conveniences that can be included are a plumbed-in coffee maker, instant hot water dispenser that supplies "tea kettle hot" water, automatic ice-maker, built-in hot tray and liquid soap or lotion dispenser.

With the current emphasis on the family room as an important area of the house, the entertainment center also increases the resale value of your home.

A Collegian's Bedroom Need Not Be Wasted

When a child goes off to college, his bedroom usually becomes wasted space in the house. But not if it's redesigned to serve as a needed home office and den.

Next, redo walls with a prestige solid lumber paneling like resawn cedar or silky smooth hemlock. At the same time, add built-ins for office and den use — a desk, cabinet for stationery supplies, and book shelving.

Time-Saving Tip

Remember it takes several months for a new home to settle into its foundation. So, don't waste time and effort repairing cracks resulting from the settling of the new house until the house settling has ended

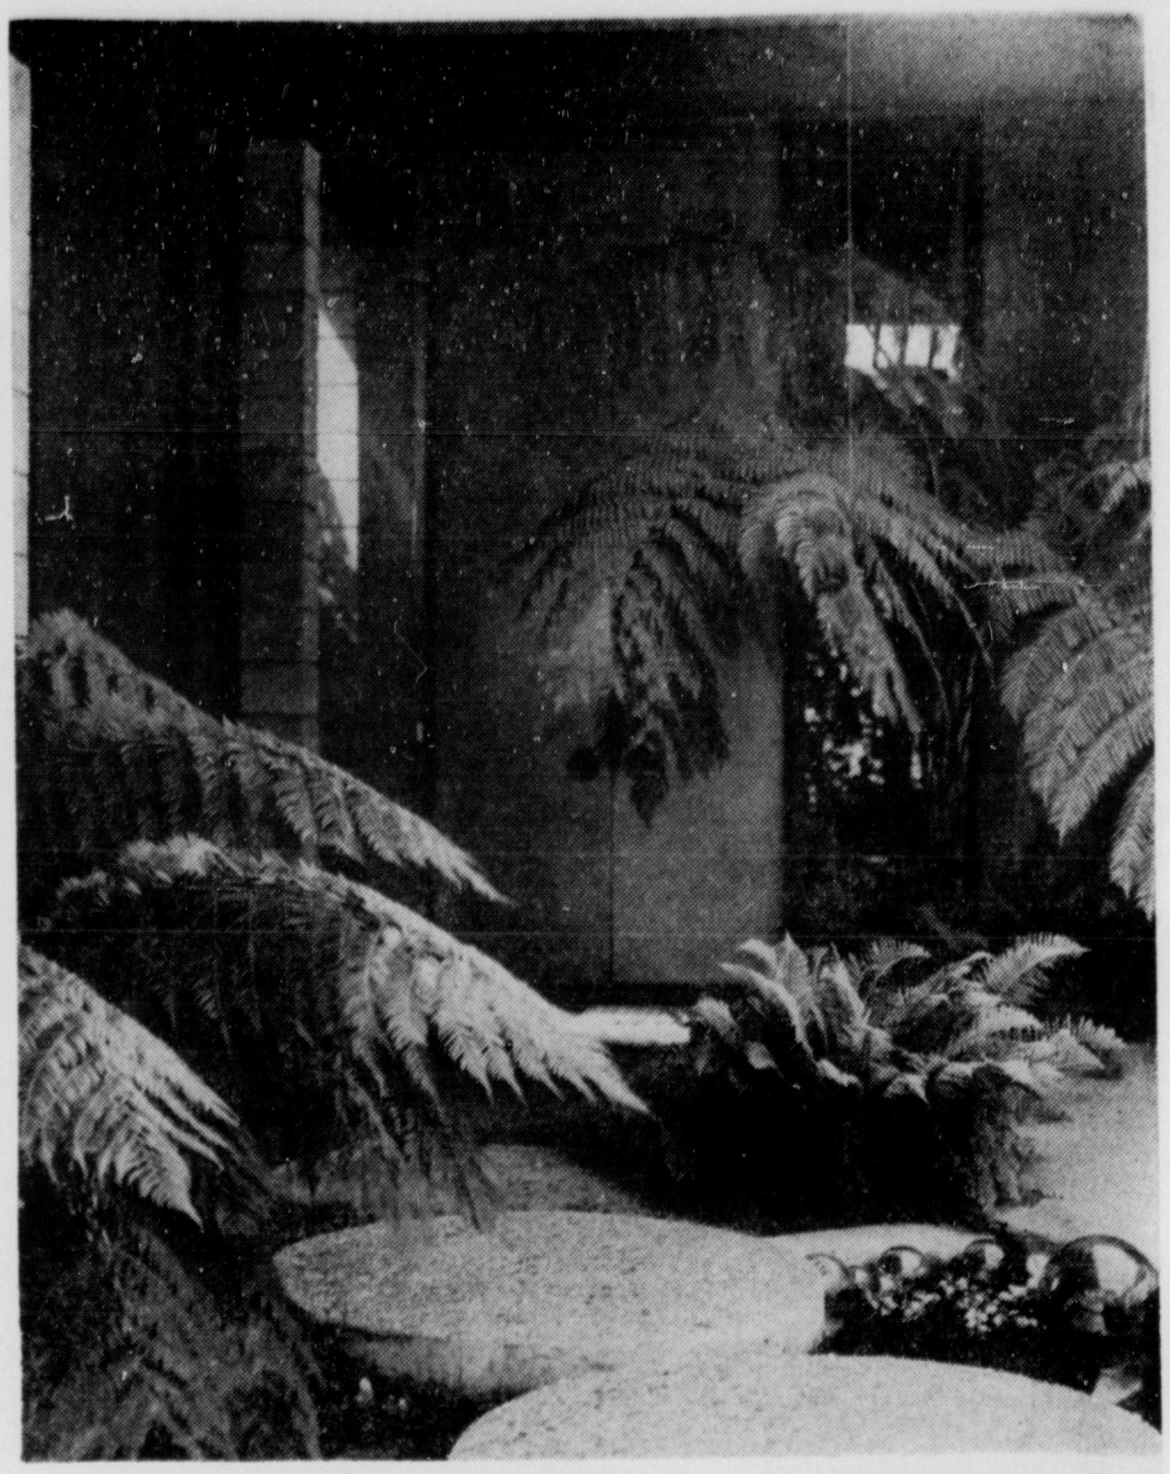
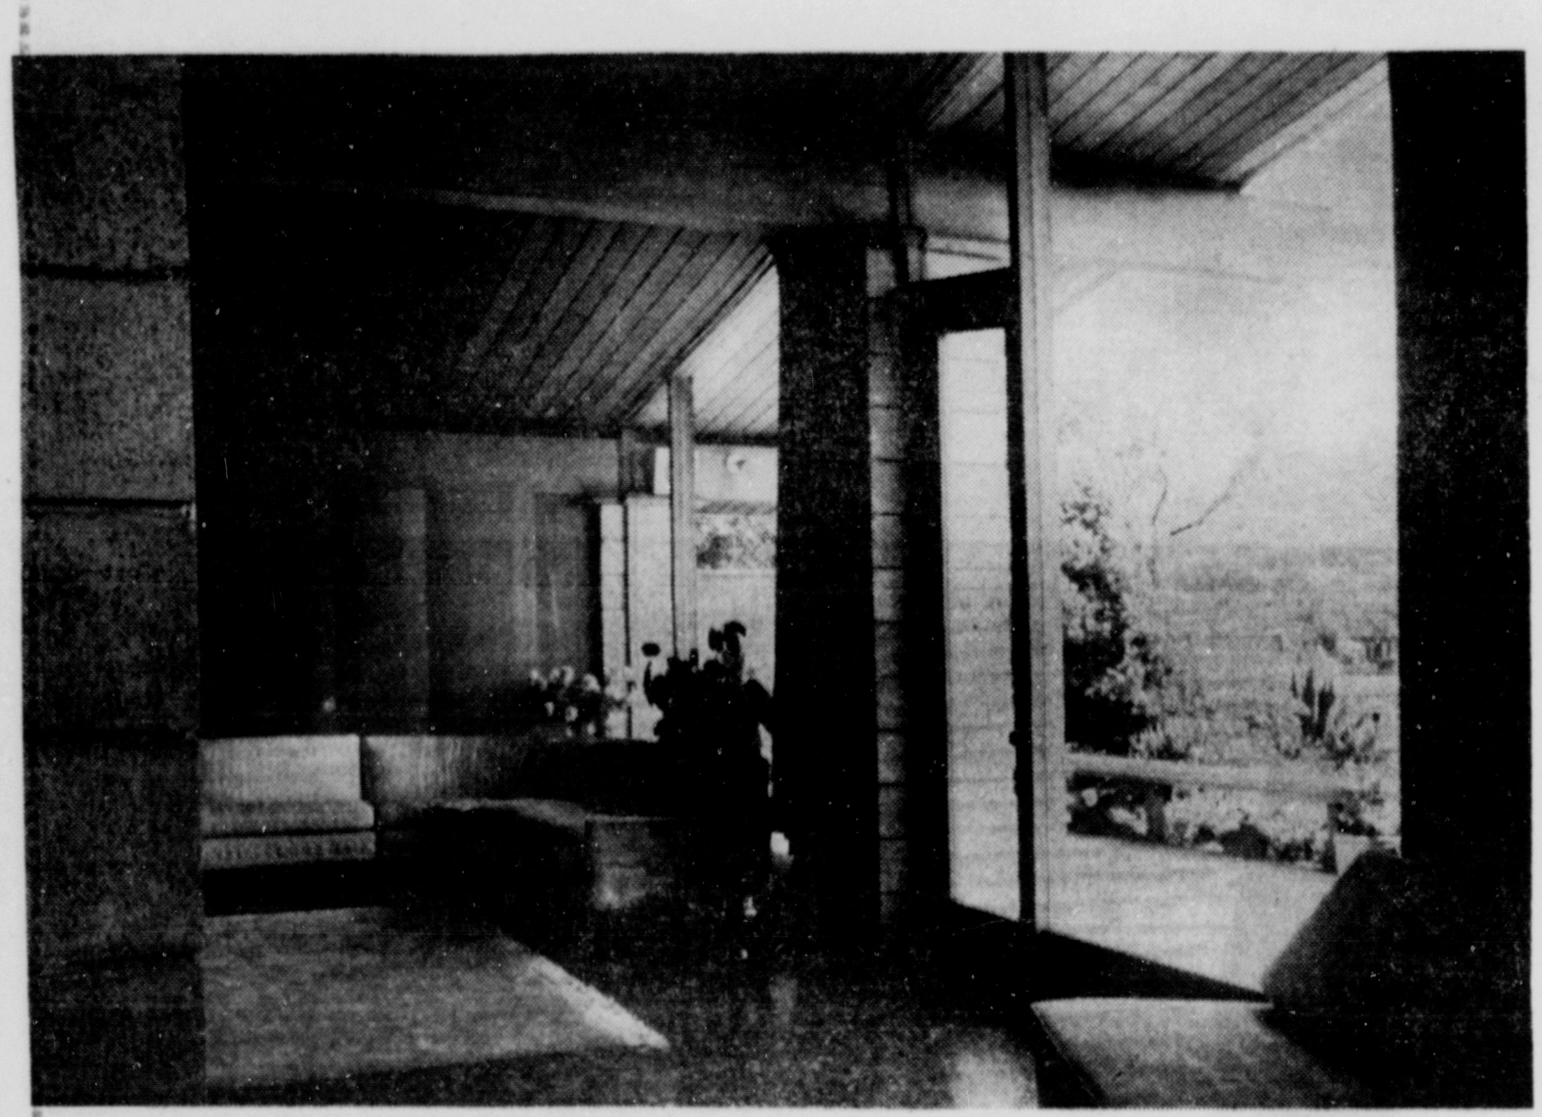
STURDY CONSTRUCTION IN LAGOON HOME

Heavy timber and natural redwood siding were used in this 2,500-square-foot home designed by architect Gary L. Tucker for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cornils on Lagoon Road, Belvedere. Wide two-car garage area is at the left. Entry to the house is in left foreground.



ENTRY CROSSES POND — Lush ferns surround the entrance to the Cornils house, with large circular aggregate stepping stones imbedded in a shallow pool used in the approach. Architect Tucker also designed the landscaping.



FACES ON LAGOON — The Cornils living room has picture windows looking out on a garden area and the Belvedere Lagoon. Floors throughout the house are terrazzo. Note the simple construction of heavy ceiling timbers supported on building blocks.

Floor Sealer Perfect For Final Finish

A floor sealer, often used as an undercoat for varnish or shellac on wood floors, is preferred by many as the final finish. Unlike surface coatings, the sealer penetrates into the wood and, in effect, becomes part of it. This makes it especially resistant to chips and scratches as well as ordinary stains.

Seals come colorless or in color, normal drying and rapid drying. Before applying, it is important to read the directions to determine the recommended drying time and under what conditions the floor will dry in this period. Room temperature, humidity and the amount of ventilation all have a bearing on this.

Since sealers do not have the lustre of most other finishes, they usually require buffing after they have completely dried. Waxing and polishing give the floor a pleasing luster.

Slip Prevention

In addition to its sanitary and waterproof qualities, an advantage of the use of ceramic mosaic tile on bathroom floors is its slip resistance. Many American tile manufacturers are making their product even more slipproof by imbedding abrasive particles in the surface of the tiles or by scoring them with grooves and patterns.

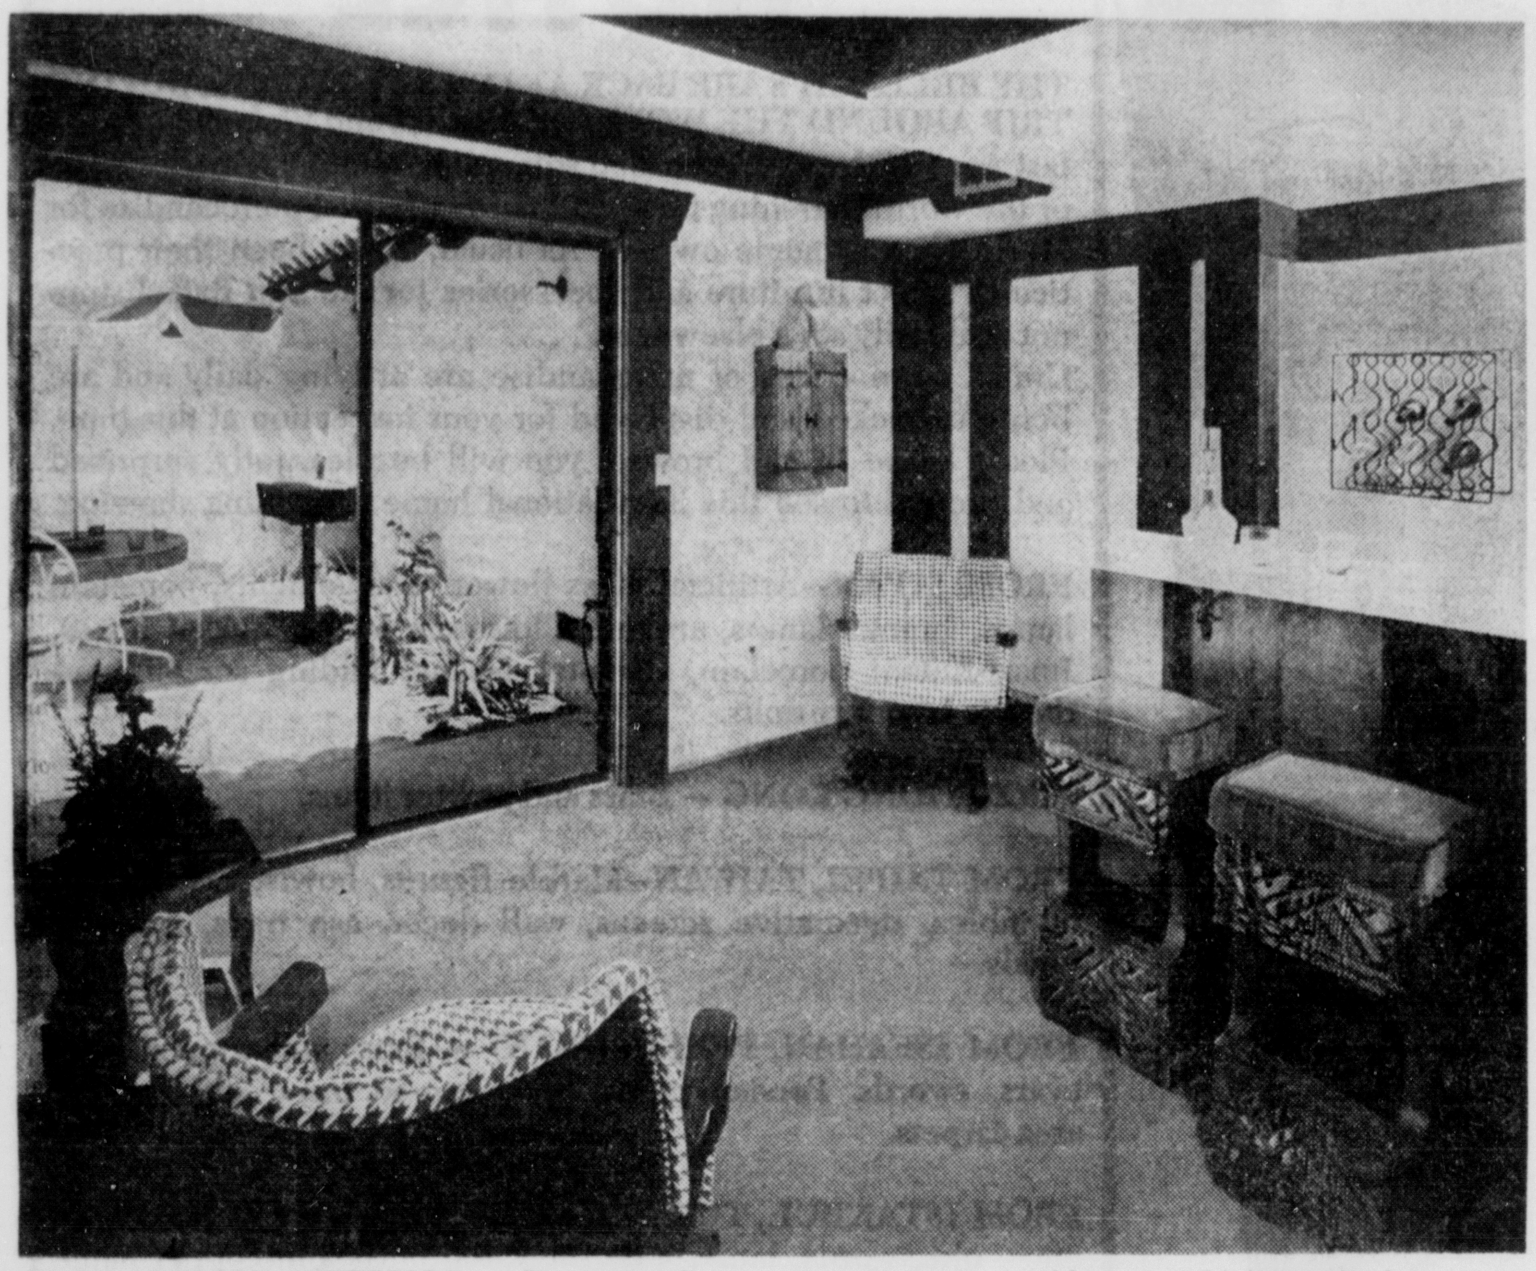
A CLUSTER OF HACIENDAS

Newest development north of San Rafael for Hoytt Enterprises is the Spanish flavored Casa Marinwood comprising 109 individual haciendas in groups of two to six per building. Each living unit features outdoor decks, patios and courtyard entries. Units are sold as condominiums. Community facilities are landscaped and professionally maintained. Residents have their own recreation club and the use of extensive riding trails.

A BIT OF OLD SPAIN—Courtyard entries with wrought iron gates are prevalent at Casa Marinwood. spacious outside patios, balconies and sundecks have direct access to second level rooms.



COMFORTABLE INTERIORS — Rooms at Casa Marinwood show the Spanish influence but up to date, like this first level family room with direct access to an outside court. Living units have two to four bedrooms and multiple baths. There are six floor plans with various elevations for each.

Garden Bath Is Becoming Very Popular

Not too many decades ago the bathroom, then called an outhouse, was set among the weeds of the backyard. There are few weeds around today's modern bath, although some of the most modern do boast some plant life—in the form of a private garden.

Function plus a large measure of elegance is the formula for bathrooms that are new-home sales features. Like kitchens, baths are carefully scrutinized by prospective buyers for their practicality and their attractiveness.

Walled private gardens adjacent to the bathroom are only one of the design features builders are offering in new home models. More space, compartmented water closets and tub-showers, ceramic tiled sunken tubs, more storage, indirect lighting, generous wall mirrors and heating units are others.

Even faucet handles are no longer simply devices to turn on the water. They are likely to be gilded in gold and have a resemblance to miniature statuary.

As the latest status symbol in homes, bathrooms are far more than small cubicles containing three fixtures. After all, fifty years ago the bathroom, in its most literal meaning, was the kitchen on Saturday night.

Hand Snips Sales Up With Do-It-Yourself Projects

The sale of hand snips to home owners has increased siderably because of the greater availability of do-it-yourself sheet metal. While there are many styles and sizes of snips, which are simply shears used for cutting metals, the fundamentals for their use are similar and easy to learn.

Perhaps the most important single factor in the successful operation of hand snips is to remember not to close the blades so tightly that they come together in the work. If this is done, the metal is inclined to bend or to tear or to cause sharp edges and slivers. The trick, thereafter, is to do the cutting near the throat of the blades. Open the blades wide, place them against the metal and apply firm but slow pressure. Stop the stroke a considerable distance from the tips and begin again. Used in this fashion, the snips will produce a clean, accurate cut.

When you have a hard time making a cut and have to apply excessive pressure, the chances are that the snips are too small for the thickness of the metal. But there are two other possibilities: the blades may be too loose or they may be dull. If they are too loose — that is, they don't come in firm, sliding contact with each other —try tightening the nut on the pivot bolt. Once this is done, file off the projecting end of the bolt and make a little irregular dent there so the nut holds in place. If the blades are dull, better have them resharpened professionally unless you have had experience with this kind of work.

Ceiling Tile

When installing fiberboard ceiling tiles, furring or stapling strips should be put up 12 inches apart on center—that is, 12 inches from the center of one strip to the next. In that way, ceiling tiles can be fitted together at the center of each strip.

How To Slice Cooling Costs

A number of factors affect the amount you will pay to operate your central air-conditioning sustem: The size of the equipment, the hours per day and the days per year it will be in operation, and the cost of fuel in your area are the major ones.

A good way to get an advance estimate of operating costs is to ask your public utility to calculate the approximate number of hours your central system will operate in a season.

Little Red Wagon Is A Handy Item

Don't toss out the little wooden wagon that baby once used to haul his blocks. Instead, convert the pull-toy into an ever-handy cleaning cart to help with chores around the house, suggests Drackett Home Service Council. Just add paint and a longer cord. The compact box-on-wheels makes a right-sized caddy for floor wax and furniture polish, window cleaner, scouring powder, cleanser for walls and woodwork. There will even be room for cleaning cloths and a supply of paper towels. Add screw-on holder clips to sides of the cart and you can also tote your brushes and dustpan.

Make Lighting An Approach To Redecorating The Home

Homeowners looking for room remodeling and decorating ideas might do well to consider this approach: Make lighting the starting point.

Fixtures are available to fit lighting and decorating needs in any area of a room, and, conversely, fixtures can inspire decorating ideas.

Types of fixtures needed should be the first determination. For example, in a family room, a pulldown-type fixture, which can be raised or lowered as the occasion demands, is ideal for over-table lighting.

Recessed units in the ceiling assure good general room lighting and, attached to a dimmer, can create a variety of lighting moods. Hanging pendants in a cluster furnish a decorating focal point and fill a definite need in a hard-to-decorate corner.

To meet requirements of color and style, lighting units are available in "family" groups, which provide a range of different fixture types in complementary colors. With this "family" similarity, a variety of fixtures can be used in a room, while still maintaining a definite continuity between the various lighting units.

To set the color scheme for a room, the deeper hue of the fixture becomes an accent color, while the lighter shade can be used on broader expanses.

In Cold Weather

Ways To Correct Old Threshold

The entrance to a room can have a shoddy appearance if the door threshold is worn or damaged.

Since it is difficult to remove most thresholds in one piece, saw it in two, then pry out the two parts. Go to a lumber yard or building supply dealer and get a matching threshold of the same size.

Using the old threshold as a pattern, make the proper cuts in the new one. Insert it into position and drill holes that will take long finishing nails (2½" or longer). Drive the nails into place, using nailsets to get them below the surface of the wood. Cover the holes with wood putty or plastic wood. When the filler has dried, finish the threshold as desired.

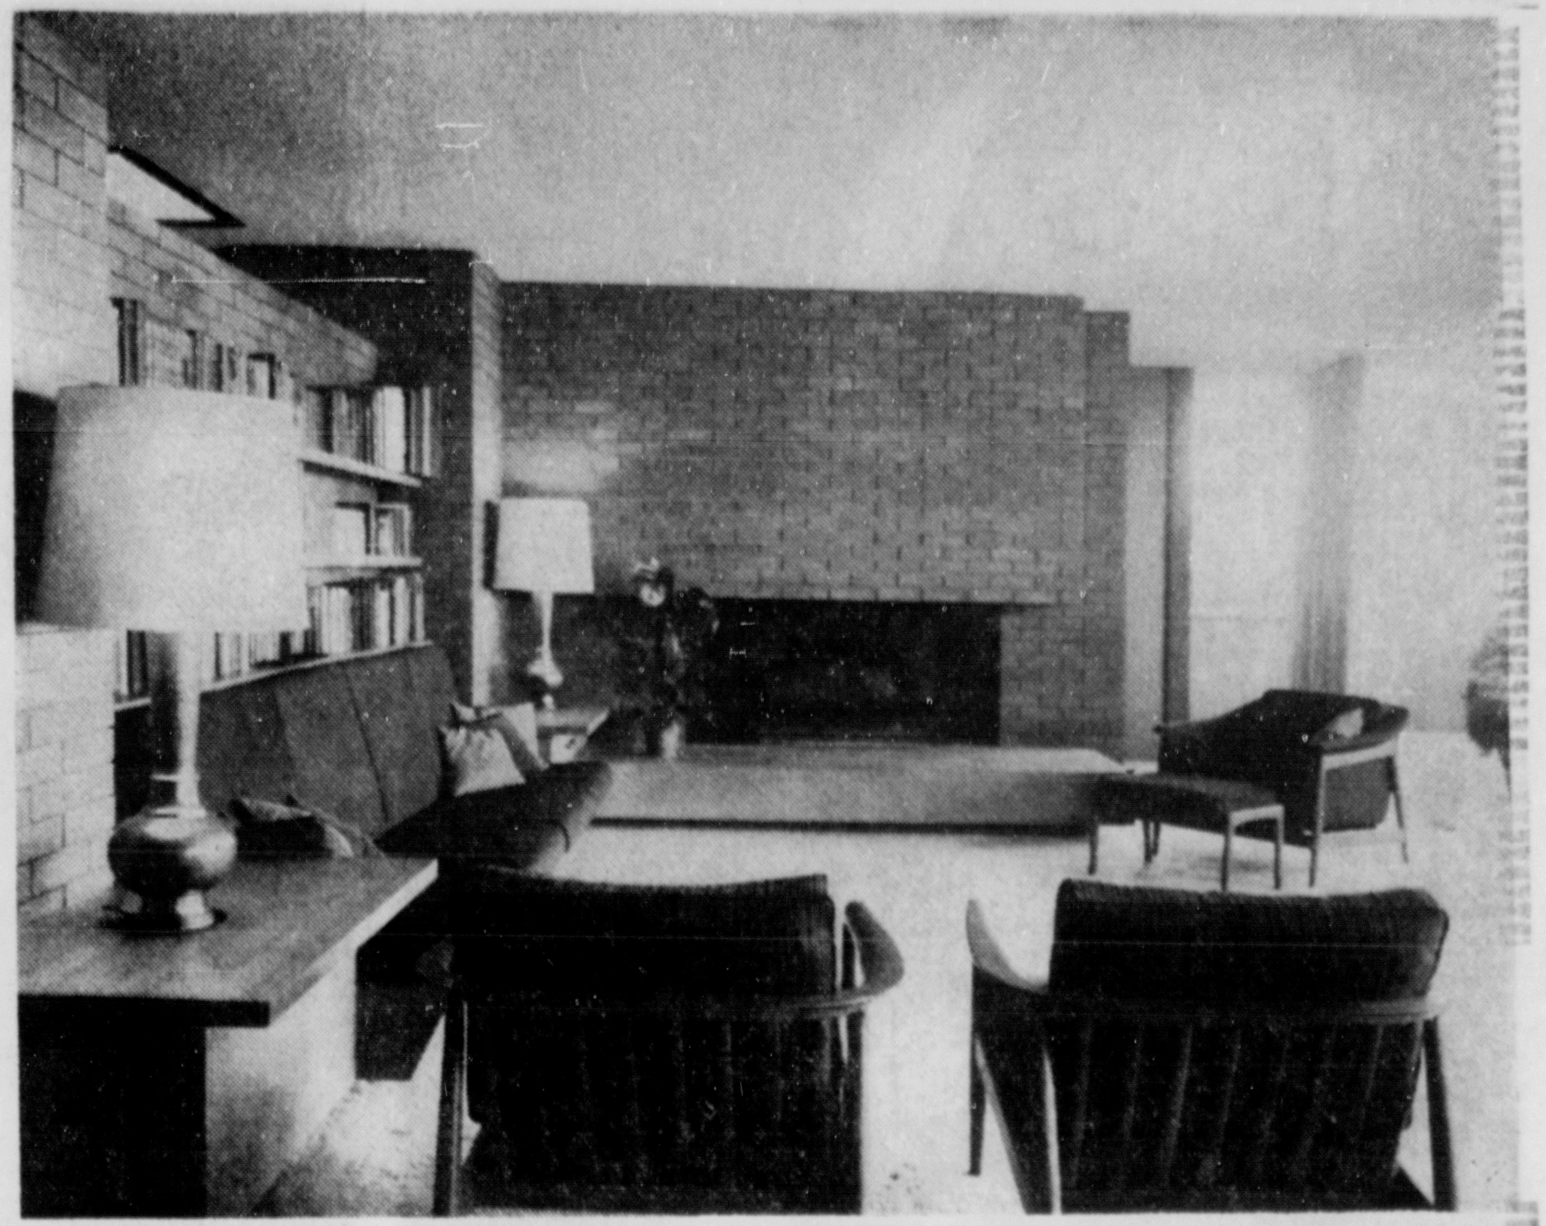
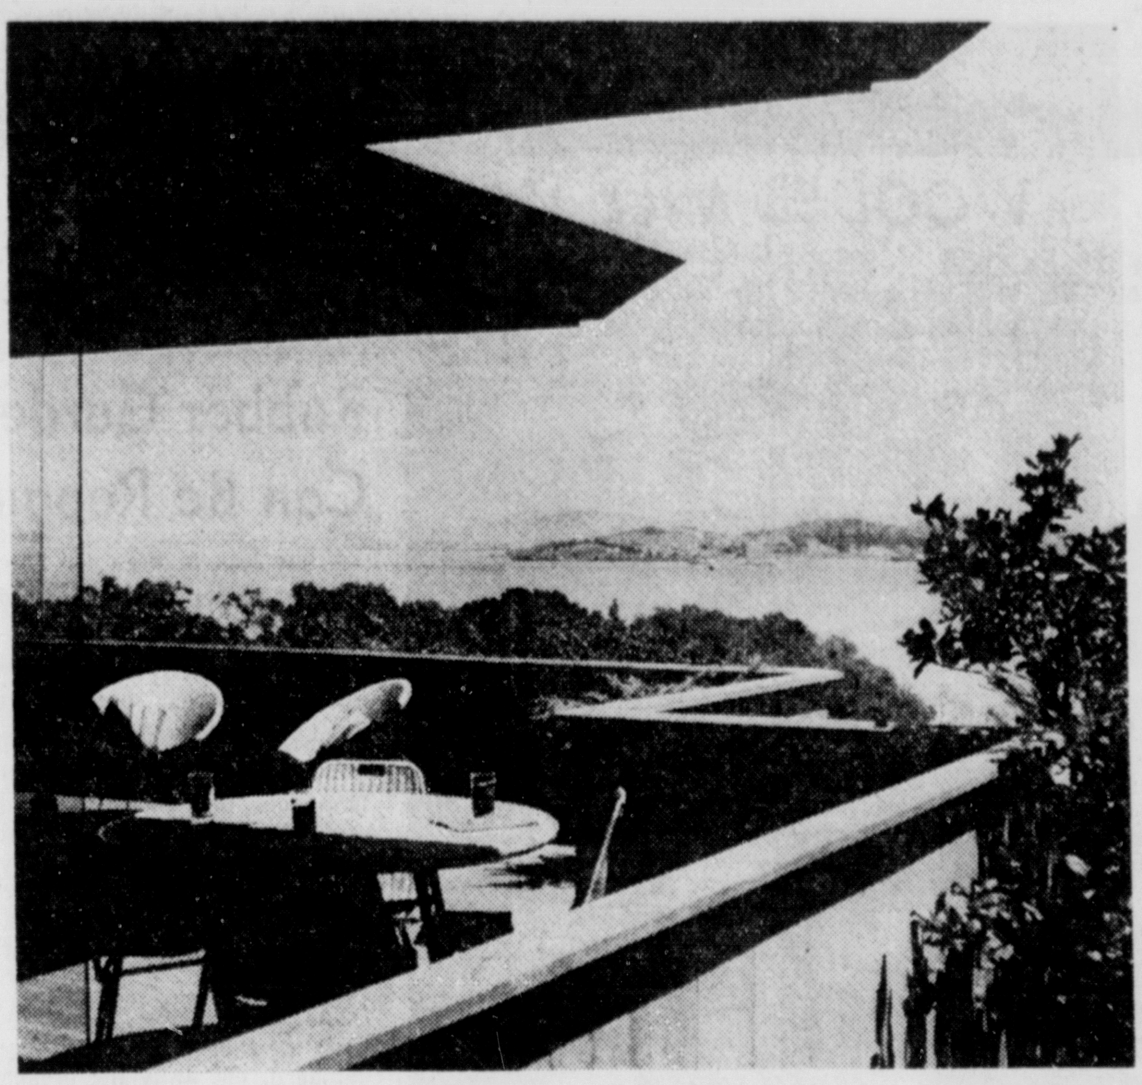
HOUSE AND SLOPE INTEGRATED

Built to command a circular view of hills and bay, this home of Mr. and Mrs. James Adams in San Rafael was designed by architect Gary L. Tucker in natural redwood to blend in with the surrounding. The house has 2,800 square feet, with the floor below ground level on the high side.



CHEERFUL LIVING ROOM — Much use of brick was stipulated by architect Tucker for the Adams living area. Ceilings are acoustical plaster and floors are fully carpeted.



VIEW FROM DECK—At the Adams hilltop home you have only to step out of the living room to take in the panaroma of bay and distant skyline of the East Bay. Wide roof overhang gives shaded areas to deck.

Inexpensive Brighteners For Homes

A homeowner can find in most building supply centers a wide selection of inexpensive accessories to enliven bedroom, bath, living room, kitchen and almost every other part of the house.

A good place to start any home improvement program is with the front door. A new escutcheon, knob or latch in traditional or contemporary styling can dramatize the entrance. A matching door knocker, an attractive mail box and new name plate can also help people take notice.

A simple item like an electric switchplate can accent the decor of any room. Switchplates are available in a wide variety of decorator styles, and new lines are being added all the time.

Another suggestion for adding sparkle to the room is distinctive drapery hardware. Here, as in other places in a house, an investment in quality hardware can pay dividends, say the Building Supply News editors.

New hinges, handles and pulls can give old cabinets and furniture a new lease on life. If the furniture is old, you may want to restore the existing hardware with steel wool.

Replacing hardware is one of the simplest do-it-yourself chores around any house. It can also be the most rewarding.

Plastics-Type Fences Popular

Solid fences that insure privacy but do not cut off light can be created with translucent fiberglass-plastic panels, used in combination with wood or even cement blocks.

Such a fence may take many shapes and designs, bringing a "decorator touch" to the home setting or outdoor living area. Colors include a range of soft pastels and deeper hues.

Oriental "shoji" effects may be created with flat, white fiberglass-plastic panels and black wood rails. Or, flat and corrugated panels may be combined, again using wood rail framing. Basketweave effects can also be achieved.

The panels have a smooth finish that makes them dirt resistant, and they sturdily withstand pitting or scarring.

Heavy Asphalt Shingles Have A Long Life

Manufacturers guarantee heavyweight asphalt shingles for more than 20 years, and they can be applied right over the old roof area and the new dormers, without a break in the match or a leak where leakage could occur.

In high-wind areas, self-sealing roof shingles are a good choice. They have an adhesive strip on each shingle, which the sun's heat bonds to the shingle below.

When the older home was built, there probably was very little choice of roofing colors and textures. Today's shingles offer a wide selection of colors, shades and textures, to coordinate with any exterior decorating scheme.

One Method Of Applying A Pickled Finish

Buy a white sealing liquid made especially for use on plywood. Be sure to get the kind marked white and not clear. Apply the sealer to the wood, rubbing it in with a clean cloth. Quickly wipe off the residue, which will leave some of the white clinging to the pores of the wood.

After a wait of 24 hours, apply two coats of varnish, sanding lightly between coats. Be sure to work in a room or area that is as dust-free as possible.

Be sure not to allow the white sealer to remain on the wood surface too long, otherwise you'll get a painted rather than a pickled effect. Some persons mix the sealer with about 15 per cent of turpentine or mineral spirits as a precaution against a "too white" result.

The Right Way To Start A House-Painting Project

To protect the home exterior and improve its appearance, pick up the paint brush and pitch in.

New quality paints are easier than ever to apply, do a better job and give longer-lasting results. They can be brushed, rolled or sprayed on any surface in less time, with less effort. First step is to determine the amount and kind of paint to use. It's poor economy to use bargain paints, since a good paint gives better-looking results and lengthens the time before it's necessary to paint again.

Estimate one gallon of finished paint for about 500 square feet of surface, and one gallon of primer for about 450 feet.

Local building supply dealers can advise about the type of paint best suited to the job, and provide information on the variety of specialized paints available for different types of surfaces.

Doors. Panels should be painted first, then the rails that separate the panels, then the top, bottom and sides, and the outside edges last. To get at the edges better, remove the door and lay it on a trestle.

Windows. The slender rails separating the glass should be painted first, then the top and bottom sash, the side sash, the frame and finally the window sill. To prevent splattering, cover the edges of the glass with masking tape.

Shutters. Before painting, remove shutters, lay them flat on supports and wash clean. The same applies to screens and storm windows.

Wax Job Out

Ceramic tile should not be waxed. An occasional cleaning with a damp cloth and the passage of time will combine to produce a rich patina on its surface.

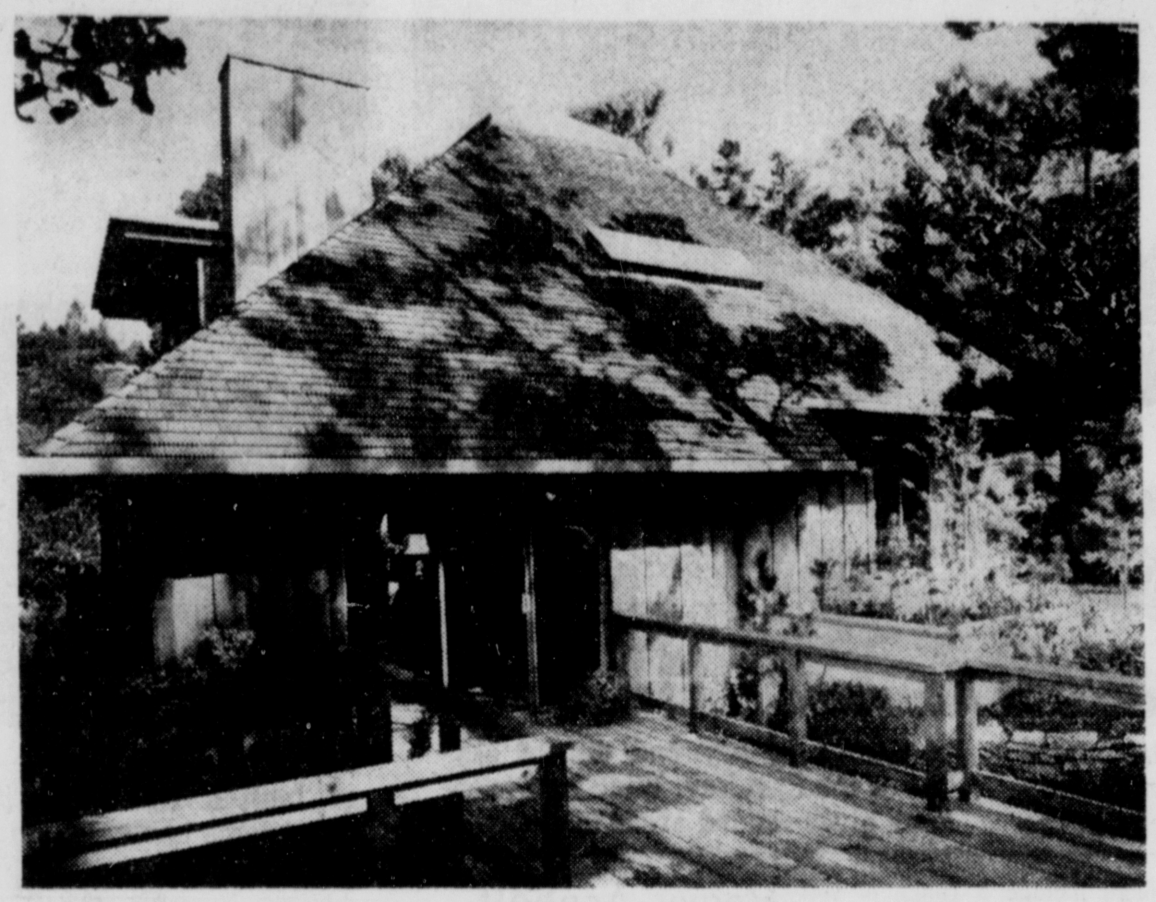
WOODED MILL VALLEY ESTATE

This home was designed by John Skidmore O'Brien for two bachelors and completed in 1964. The house is on a one-acre site on Middle Ridge with a number of oaks and four large pines which largely determined the siting of the building and the automobile approach. Carl Yaekey was the builder and the owners did their own landscaping.



DECK OFF LIVING ROOM—Smaller views and outlooks were continuously considered by John O'Brien and small windows were still being shifted during construction. Upstairs bedrooms were inserted into the major pyramid shape of the building.

Windows Just For Light Are In The Future

"The technology of climate control has advanced to a stage where windows in a home will be obsolete except for lighting purposes," Curt E. Hoerig, vice president of an air conditioning company points out. He says the art of climate control already is so advanced that a person can select the climate he wants in his home and maintain it perfectly year round regardless of the temperature or relative humidity outside.

"Homes to be built within a few years," Hoerig adds, "will have as standard equipment for climate control such things as heating, cooling, humidification, dehumidification, electronic air cleaning and odor removal devices."

Tool Comfort

In buying a portable electric tool, be sure it fits your hand comfortably. Pick up various models before making a selection, since "feel" is an important factor.

Rubber Garden Hose Leaks Can Be Repaired Cheaply

A tiny leak in a garden hose made of rubber can be repaired with a thick coating of rubberbase cement. Be sure the crack or other opening is thoroughly dry, then apply the cement generously. Wait about 10 minutes, then put on a second coat. Wind friction tape around the break, holding it tightly against the cement for two or three minutes with your fingers. Do not use the hose for at least 12 hours.

For larger leaks, especially when the rubber is quite visibly damaged, cut away the broken part with a sharp knife. Buy a metal splicer or mending tube with pipe clamps, being sure to specify you want it for the repair of a rubber hose. One end of the splicer goes into one part of the hose, the other end into the other. If you buy a mending tube, be sure to ask the dealer how to use it if it doesn't come with directions, as there are slight variations in the installation, depending on the type. Also, if it's a plastic hose you are repairing, specifying this will enable the dealer to give you the proper kind of splicer.

Acoustical Control Now Major Item In Planning A New Home

A noisy house is an uncomfortable house. Often it is unhappy, too. Noise causes headaches, then tempers rise and tensions get the better of us.

So builders of new homes are giving increasing thought to acoustical control. This is a concept that has two aims: (1) reduce noise levels at their source; and (2) prevent noise from traveling.

In the home, many new kinds of noise have been built in. They include the dishwasher, garbage disposer, furnace fan and similar equipment.

There are old-fashioned noises, too. Pipes chatter in the walls, toilets and bathtubs gurgle, and doors slam. Traffic noise comes in the window.

And there are the oldest sounds of all — the human noises. Children play and practice on drums and trumpets. Voices are raised. Radios and phonographs blare. People tread heavily. And dishes get dropped.

How do builders stop noises at the source? Wall-to-wall carpeting is valuable, particularly when applied over concrete slab floors. New vinyl floor coverings have a padded backing.

The reduction in sound propagation in these systems over that of a conventional wood floor and a conventional crawl space is enormous. Acoustical tile or plaster on the ceiling dampens sound at the source. Doors are fitted more closely. And wood paneling, textured cloths and other sound-absorbing materials are put on the walls instead of leaving bare plaster.

Not only do these acoustical control techniques confine the noise and dampen it in the original area, they also reduce the amount of sound that is transmitted to the structure itself. Many of these techniques can be applied to the existing home with little expense, and they will pay big dividends in comfort.

Some new houses carry this concept one step further by being designed so that noise transmission is reduced. Walls are built on a "staggered-stud" arrangement so that the wall of one room is not actually connected by interior studs to the wall of the room adjoining. In some advanced techniques, the ceilings of individual rooms are independently hung so that rafters and joists cannot carry sound throughout the house.

Dishwashers, furnaces and other rotating equipment that vibrate are insulated from the structure by being mounted on rubber pads. They have flexible connections. And the same principle applies to plumbing and piping.

The effect of a sound-conditioned home is remarkable. The usual clatter, banging, rustleing and confusion of all that unwanted background noise is significantly reduced. Many different activities can be carried on simultaneously without disturbance. Conversations don't carry from room-to-room. Perhaps the hallmark of a sound-conditioned home is an atmosphere of serenity. It's worth looking for in a new home. And it's worth improving your existing home to achieve it.

Best Time To Paint Stairway

The best time to paint a stairway in your house is just before you go to bed, so that it will be dry when the family gets up in the morning.

But this sin't always practical. For one thing, you have to start at the bottom of the stairs and paint while you are moving backwards going upstairs—otherwise you'll paint yourself at the bottom while the paint is still wet. For another, it is sometimes more practical to do the painting in the daytime or, at least, several hours before retiring.

The solution is to paint every other step so that you can use the stairway while the paint is drying. When it's dry, paint the remaining steps.

To Measure Studs

Putting up studs which must be exactly the same distance apart? Cut a piece of wood the proper length and use it for the spacer, instead of measuring each time.

Proper Care Plumbing Tips Given

A program of preventative maintenance for your plumbing is not as far fetched as it may seem. You clean and lubricate your car regularly, you paint your house every few years, you wax your furniture often — all with the idea of keeping everything in prime condition for years of enjoyment and service.

Therefore, as today's modern plumbing equipment is designed to give you many years of convenience if properly cared for, you should set up a similar program of care and repair for your plumbing. Even the best equipment will not deliver the benefits for which it was designed if it isn't cared for.

What are some of the steps you can take in this program of preventative maintenance:

1. Fix leaky faucets immediately to avoid damage to fixture parts.

2. Don't your lye down a food waste disposer as it will corrode the metal.

3. To prolong the life of your water heater, drain a few quarts of water from the tank bottom every few weeks.

5. Have heating plant checked annually, preferably in the summer.

6. Don't pour excessive amounts of boiling water down water closet drain.

7. Tag or identify all valves in your home so water can be shut off when an emergency arises.

8. Seek the expert service of a plumbing contractor for all maintenance except minor repair and replacement.

The plumbing in your home represents 10 per cent of your investment. Proper care of this equipment will assure you many years of convenience and service.

Roof Is Sometimes Neglected Home Item

Even though a homeowner may dutifully care for his house, too often he still neglects inspecting the roof until it is too late. A driving rain, combined with wind and a prior beating of the sun and elements, may bring a number of serious leaks during just one overnight rainstorm, causing great damage to walls, floors and furnishings.

Responsible roofers will check a roof free of charge and give estimates for any needed repairs or replacements. If reroofing is necessary, the homeown can select from a variety of prefinished heavyweight ceramic coated roofing materials, formerly called asphalt roofing.

1.—Damaged or Missing Shingles—If patches of shingles or single shingles are missing or loose, your roof is in an advanced stage of deterioration. It takes a careful inspection to determine if portions of many shingles have broken off and blown away or if shingles have cupped or split. If so, a good rain and wind storm may start the bucket brigade.

2. — Flashing — Anything that projects through your roof is a danger source for leaks. Metal flanges and collars around chimneys, pipes and vents are not only subject to rust, but the cement caulking eventually dries out and falls away, exposing openings to rain and moisture. Wherever galvanized steel is used, rusty spots should be painted to prevent further damage and where the rust has penetrated all the way through the metal, it must be replaced.

3.—Popped Nails — If nails have been used, that are too short, wind may have loosened the roofing nails so that heads no longer are in contact with the shingles.

4.—Gutters and Gutter Hangers—An important part of the roof inspection includes attention to gutter and their supports. Leaves and debris should be cleaned from gutters for better inspection or rust spots and rusted-out areas. Make sure gutter hangers are properly fastened beneath shingles. Where gutter hangers have been nailed atop shingles, leaks can develop. Deterioration at this point may require replacement of the entire "starting" area of the roof shingles, even though the remainder of the roof may be in good condition.

5. — Skylights — Check all flanges and flashings to make sure they are secure and unbroken and the seal around the glass (whether putty or a synthetic caulking material) is tight.

6.—Bare Spots—A serviceable roof can eventually wear out and even ceramic coated rock granules can gradually loosen because of the expansion and contraction and hardening of the asphalt coating in which they are embedded. Wind, rain and vibration cause the granules and stones to roll down the roof slope. Look for patches of dark grey or black, which are more noticeable with light than dark colored roofing.

7.—Torn Hip and Ridge Shingles—The top edges of gables, hips and ridges are covered with special hip and ridge shingles. Leakage at this point from broken or deteriorated roofing material can emerge inside at almost any point all the way down to the eaves.

Most often re-roofing is a simple job. However, sometimes an older wood roof should be removed if it does not have proper nail holding power or shows evidence of dry rot. A new plywood roof deck would then be applied over the joists to provide greater strength.

Litter Prevention Profitable To Home

It also contributes to the enjoyment of home life and provides an added safety factor.

Appearance has an important bearing on the desirability of a piece of property. It is a key to the character of a neighborhood. A littered yard, street or neighborhood is indicative of declining values.

Real estate groups in many sections of the country, realizing the value of neatness, are participating in litter-prevention and community beautification programs for strictly business reasons.

Litter also can be the cause of fire and a detriment to good health. It is estimated, for example, that last year almost 43,000 building fires were caused by rubbish, with a loss of more than $18 million.

The executive vice president of Keep America Beautiful, Allen H. Seed, Jr. says litter-free home and neighborhood is a family as well as a community responsibility. "But in the last analysis, litter prevention starts at home," he says. "It starts with keeping your house and grounds litter-free."

Adapt a family resolution not to litter — at home or away from home.

Clean up any little that may be scattered around the grounds, on the sidewalk and along the street adjacent to your property.

Place a trash receptacle in the garage, in the tool shed or on the back porch and make sure that all members of the family, particularly the children, use it.

Assign a little patrol. This is a good job for the younger members of the family. Litter may blow in from the street, from the nieghbor's yard or be tossed onto your grounds by a passing motorist. It should be picked up on a regular schedule.

Best Way To Fight Crabgrass

Homeowners fighting the crabgrass war should realize that lawn fertilizers only make the problem worse, one crop scientist says.

C. M. Harrison of Michigan State University said: "Crabgrass likes good soil and has to have sun. Fertilizer meant for the lawn is just the addition to make crabgrass grow faster."

He suggested a line of grasses called fescues as the best crabgrass enemy and lawn saver.

Today's Air Conditioners Are Versatile

Modern air conditioners are truly versatile! Families who have acquired air conditioning units primarily for summer-cooling soon discover their year-around value. Most modern room air conditioning units are equipped with fresh air and exhaust vents. Used in combination with the "Fan Only" setting, they make it possible to circulate fresh air and to exhaust smoke and odors even during the coldest months. The filter continues to trap air-borne dust, just as it does during the summer.

One or more room air conditioners are frequently provided in homes and apartments as one of the optional major electric appliances. These most often are through-the-wall units. In combination with certain types of electric heating equipment, they offer year-around comfort-conditioning.

If the home of your dreams doesn't contain air-conditioning equipment, remember that individual window air conditioners can easily be added.

The Lingo Used By Professionals In Home Building

Home owners who plan to remodel often draw a blank when they hear the professional lingo used by builders and home-remodeling experts.

Here are some basic words in the construction vocabulary:

BATTS: Rectangular sections of rock wool or other low-density fiber enclosed in heavy-duty paper of aluminum foil, which are used for insulation.

SHEATING: Fiberboard or gypsum — often impregated with ashphalt—which covers the exterior frame of a house.

FURRING: Strips of wood or metal applied to wall, ceilings or roofs to provide even surfaces for installation of wallboard, acoustical tiles or shingles.

Hardboard Seal

Hardboard can be sealed with shellac, latex paint, enamel undercoater or primer sealer if it is to be used indoors. Use a regular house paint primer for exterior hardboard.

Floor Big Problem In Adding Room

The addition of an extra room to a house, whether it involves completely new construction or the finishing of an interior area, always calls for a decision on the kind of floor to install.

Resilient floor tiling is the choice of many home owners, especially those who intend to do the work themselves. But wooden strip flooring and other types of wooden floors are still popular. Many persons feel that nothing can equal hardwood for richness and warmth. For those who insist on resilient tiles yet like the grainy appearance of wood, there are tiles that simulate flooring, coming in long strips rather than the traditional squares.

No matter whether the choice is tiling, room-size floor covering or wood, hard or soft, it is wise to make a thorough survey on what is now available. New patterns and colors are constantly being created, and there are products or variations of them that were not on the retail market a few months ago.

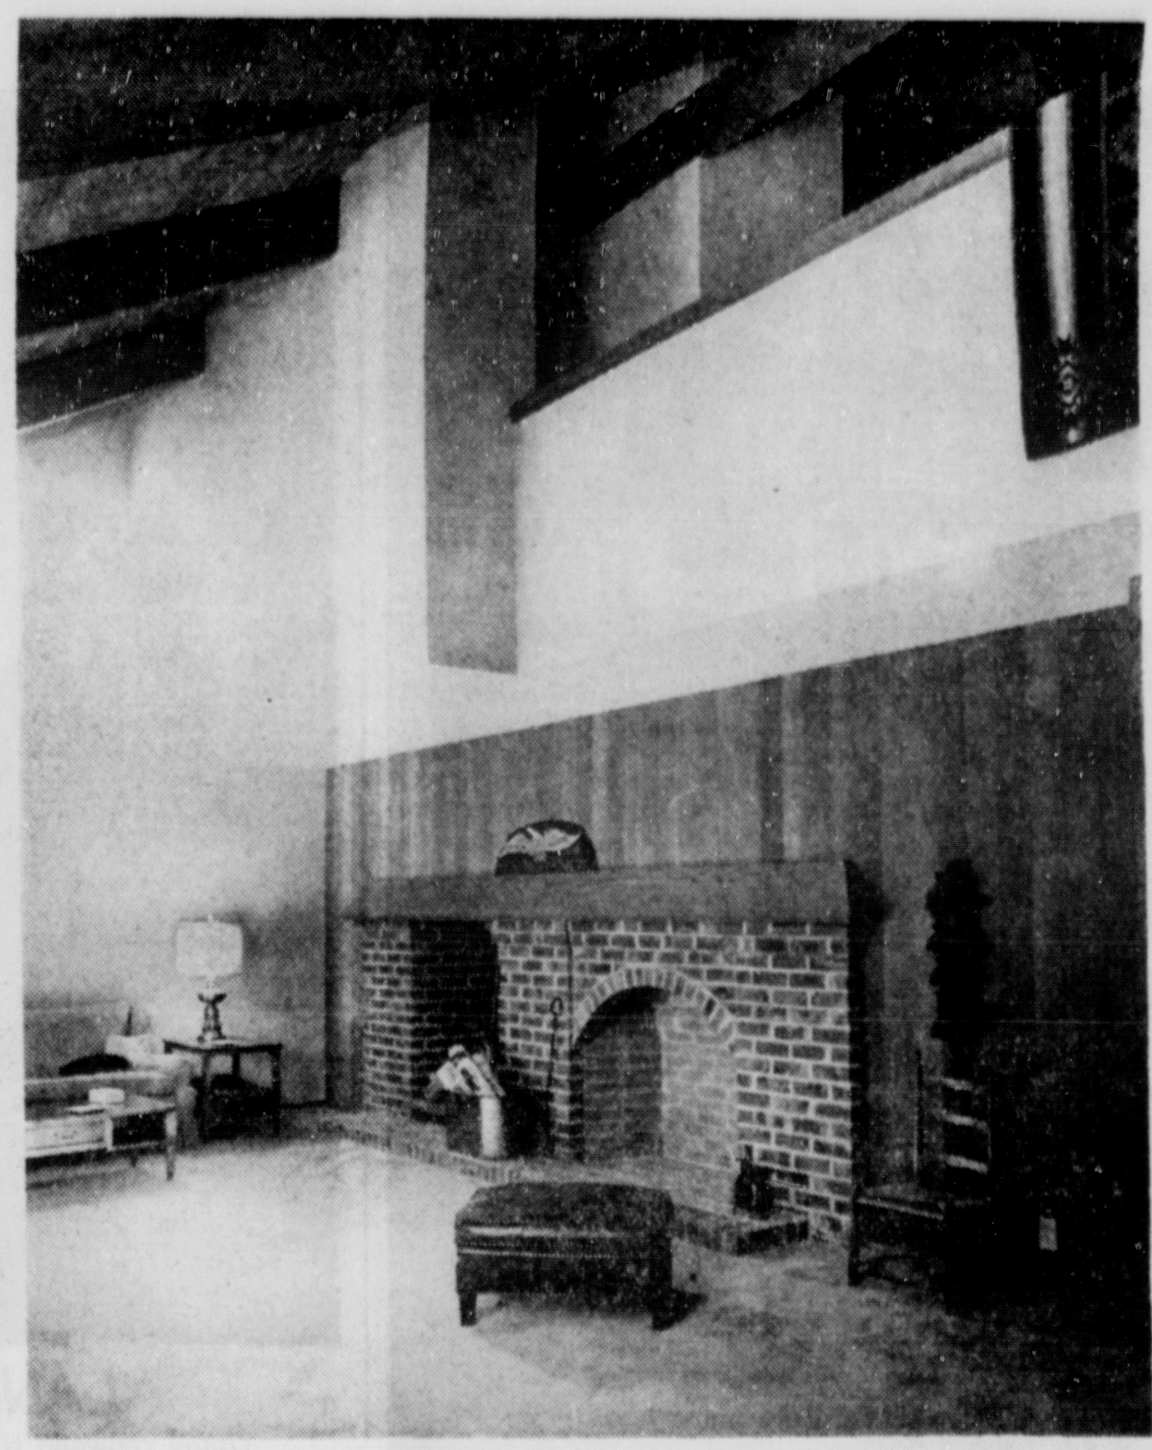
REEDLAND WOODS HOME

This new home at 80 Reed Ranch Road, Tiburon, is a product of builder Lawrence C. Olin, who received an honor award from the American Institute of Architects for his Southern Marin development. Now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crowder, it has four bedrooms, two baths and features a large family room. Sales agent at Reedland Woods is Stephen Kramer. (Independent-Journal photos)



LIVING ROOM SCENE—The Crowder home at Reedlands Woods is two stories and the living room extends upward for the full height. Both exterior and interior of the house are of exposed redwood construction. Builder Olin has several Reedlands Woods homes under construction.

Modern Kitchen Can Save The Long Steps

Grandma really got around. Upstairs, downstairs, out in the yard, down in the basement and back to the kitchen was her usual Monday routine. Even though Monday was somewhat synonymous with laundry—a job that usually kept her hoping from basement to back yard — other daily chores continually demanded that she be elsewhere.

There's no need to be a marathon hiker today. With a truly efficient kitchen, including a complete but separate home laundry center, a homemaker's two biggest jobs — cooking and laundry — can be done at the same time and place. And laundry can be done the modern way — when it's needed, perhaps daily, without letting it accumulate into a major chore.

Cooking and laundry facilities can be separated, within a single room, according to a plan which uses a counter eating area as a room divider. If the counter has an L shape, one arm can extend into the room for the eating area, and the other can go along a wall and contain cooking facilities, complete with appliances and plenty of counter space.

The sink may be located in the corner of the L, where it can be used for occasional laundry needs as well as for kitchen purposes.

The other side of the counter room divider provides the separate area for the laundry. In addition to a fully automatic washer and dryer, the plan calls for plenty of storage room in built-in cabinets.

To provide space where durable press articles may be hung immediately as they are taken from the dryer, a full-length closet may be located next to the dryer. Such a closet also will provide room for the ironing board.

Further storage space is provided by other counter-level cabinets fitted with shelves that hold sorting bins for soiled laundry. Counter space on top of the cabinet may be used for sorting and folding the clean clothing.

A Blown Fuse Is On Way Out

Blown fuses may be just a memory to homeowners and apartment dwellers in the next decade as battery-powered appliances replace plug-in styles and help eliminate overloading of electrical circuits.

Scores of devices formerly dependent upon household current now are powered by self-contained batteries, according to Bulova Watch Company market researchers. In timekeeping devices alone, they say, sales of battery-operated decorator clocks are increasing at least 20 epr cent annually.

Consumer demand for cordless electric clock-radios is exepcted to help boost clock-radio retail sales to $150 million on an industry-wide basis, the rescarchers say.

A Nail Coating

To coat ordinary nails and screws with aluminum paint to keep them from rusting, dump them into a container of the paint and then pour off the liquid into another receptacle.

Vinyl Floors Need Brushing

Smooth surface solid vinyl, asphalt and vinyl asbestos should be brushed regularly between washings and waxings to keep dirt from collecting and being ground in. When washing these floorings, use a mild detergent and then rinse thoroughly. A water soluble wax should be applied only when the floor is thoroughly dry.

Washing and waxing no oftener than twice a month is all that should be necessary.

A resilient tile floor should not be washed for at least three days after it has been laid so that the adhesive can set properly.

New Wallpaper, A Quick Method Of 'Remodeling'

One of the quickest ways to "remodel" a room is with new wallpapers.

Colorful wallpaper can help complete room remodeling projects in decorative fashion, or, where the budget does not permit a structural change-over, skillful use of color and pattern in wallpaper will "remodel" a room's appearance.

Factory pasted and trimmed papers speed up the job of hanging, and those not pre-trimmed need little work to be made ready.

Yet another innovation is removable wallpaper. Special lining goes between paper and wall. When it's time to repaper, just loosen a corner of the wallpaper and peel it off.

Delaying Of Termite Checks Can Prove A Costly Delay

The old adage that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure was never more accurate than in the control of termites.

When home owners understand that they can be saved much unnecessary trouble and expense by the treatment of soil before a house is built, they will insist that this be done. Even if this treatment were to add to the cost of the house, it would be no more than one-seventh of what it would cost the home owner to control termites at a later date.

Back in 1958, the Federal Housing Administration made recommendations for soil treatment of building sites, but these unfortunately have never been made mandatory. Some cities, such as Chicago, have employed pest control operators to pretreat public housing and have already reaped the benefits of their foresight in the avoidance of later expensive costs. The Navy Department and other government agencies also insist that pre-treatment be part and parcel of construction.

Such pre-treatment not only protects against termites, carpenter ants and dozens of other insects, but in combination with the treatment of wood that will be close to the ground, prevents fungus attack, commonly known as "dry rot."

Winged ants, mortal enemies of termites, are just as destructive. While they appear to look alike, ants have elbowed antennae and figure-eight bodies, whereas termites have straight antennae and bodies shaped like cigars.

Some careless builders help create trouble for the new home owner by not removing all stumps, roots, fallen timber, grade stakes and lumber scraps from the building site. Later, the home owner can do much to avoid problems by good housekeeping in the yard, including the removal of dead wood, leaves and paper; not having any plants or bushes touching the house; and keeping a minimum of 15" of grass-free barrier around the structure.

When a termite inspection is required, either as a precaution or because infestation is suspected, select a reputable dealer, usually a local member of a pest control association. He knows the type of termite that is prevalant in your area and how to combat it. But above all, remember the termite is usually there before the house is built, and that its purpose is to convert dead wood into humus. It cannot tell the difference between a house and a dead tree. The most effective way of controlling it is by pre-treatment measures by the builder and eternal vigiliance by the home owner.

Patio Heating Becomes Popular

Electric heating of patios and swimming pool aprons is a great way to extend the season for the millions of Americans who enjoy outdoor living.

Heating the outdoors is practical with electric radiant heaters, which warm the people and furniture, not the surrounding air. They can be installed on a canopy, a house over-hang or on their own decorative frame.

In addition to providing comfort for those around the pool, electric heaters can be used to bring comfortable temperatures and a longer swimming season to those in the pool.

Bifold Door Is Proving Popular

They're often found in bedrooms, too. Attached to walk-in closets, they swing out to take up valuable floor and wall space. Sometimes, they also swing into other doors or block doorways.

This needn't be. There's one type of door that does no swinging: a bifold door. It simply folds up and slides on its own track. For example, you can have a large walk-in closet with a six-foot opening, and the open bifold doors will take up only five inches on each end.

Bifold doors not only free the wall space around the door, but add a decorative touch to the room as well. Many styles, ranging from the traditional and formal to contemporary and Early American, are available to accent room decor.

For the traditional room paneled doors are most suitable; louvered doors enhance an Early American decor and flush doors blend with straight contemporary lines. Mirrored doors go well in most any room and are functional for dressing. When half-folded, mirrored bifold doors provide both front and back views.

TIES IN HOUSE AND GARDEN LEVELS

Landscape architect William Kapranos suggested this Port Orford cedar decking for the J. B. Neuenberg home in Greenbrae to bring house and garden together. It was worked around raised planters and house angles to accommodate existing features and new improvements.

The Summer Cottage Is Gaining Popularity

Did you ever go "home" to get away from home? More and more people have been trekking this summer to cattages tucked away on a lake or in the woods.

Even the humblest retreat gets you "away from it all" and readies you to face the daily routine again. However, you don't want to leave everything behind. Some comforts, easy-care furnishings, and decorator touches create exactly the right mood for relaxation.

Use curtains and bedspreads that require only minimal care, and stock up on throw-away products. Forgo fancy meals for the family, unless you take special pleasure in cooking, using instead a variety of convenience foods. Avoid furnishings that will be harmed by damp bathing suits or a little sand, and, for the decorator touch, hang framed pictures on the walls.

Pictures are the key to colorful, casual summer living with a personal touch. Whatever your budget, there are pictures to suit it and your cabin or cottage.

Organize a picture-finding expedition before you leave home. The attic, the basement, or a rummage sale might yield just the right old prints or photographs. When you are settled in the cottage, explore the little shops or stores in your new neighborhood. A local art fair might solve all your picture needs.

Framed reproductions and original art are available in department, gift, or variety stores almost everywhere. But, of course, the obvious place to look for pictures is on your walls at home. Why not take your favorites, in new or unusual frames, to be enjoyed through the summer?

Have you always had a yen to try living with bright colors? Why not a wildly abstract picture? Or are you fond of impressionist paintings, like Renoir's Monet's, but thought they just wouldn't fit in your home? Now is the time to try them. Let your summer home express your family's likes. Perhaps Dad is a boating enthusiast. Why not a lovely print of a sailing ship? Or if daughter takes ballet lessons and son loves dogs, framed pictures can reflect their interests.

Protect your pictures from dampness, heat, or salty air with frames and glass. They can be cleaned in a moment this way, too. When summer ends and the house won't be used for several months, take the pictures down and store in a dry, safe place until they will be used and enjoyed again.

New 'Antique' Bricks Are The Best Buy

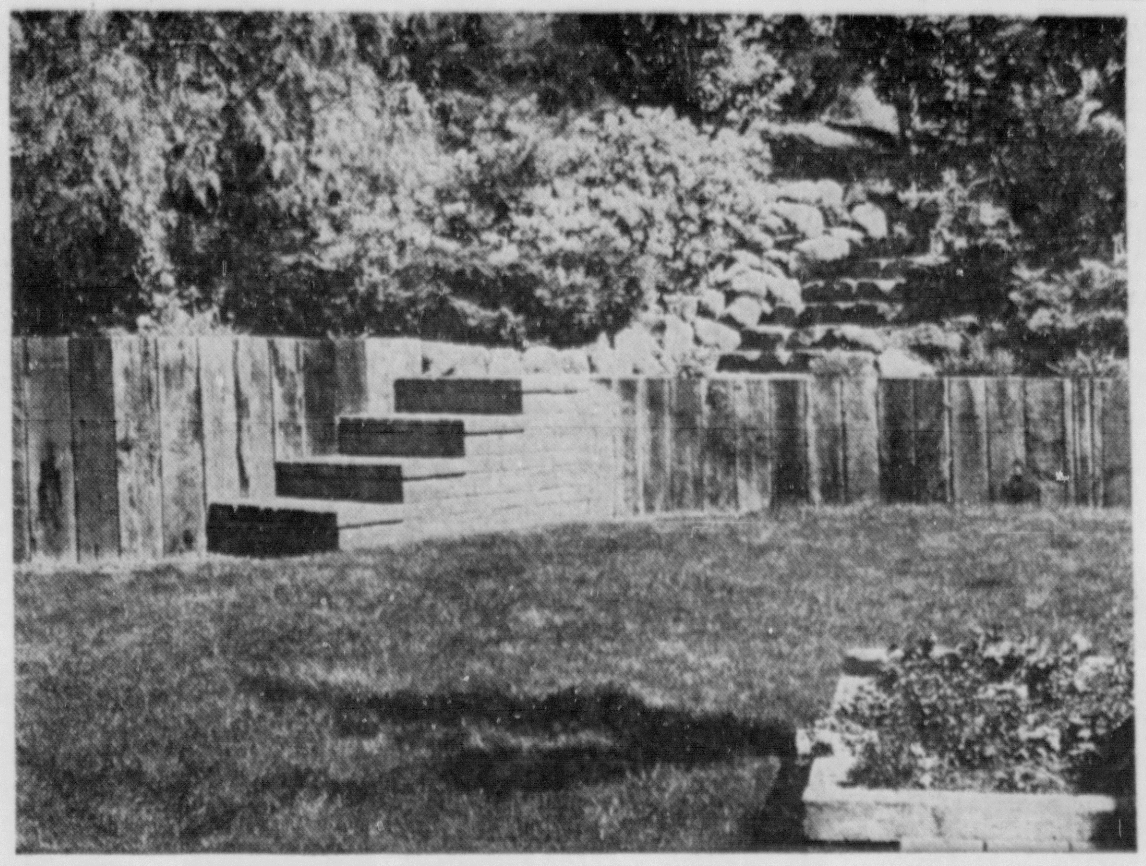
"Antique" brick that reproduces the texture, color, and beauty of old brick is manufactured by many clay products firms today. It is popular because people like the look of old brick.

But there is an important difference between old, reclaimed brick and the new "antique" brick. The latter, produced in modern brick-making plants, is of a uniform quality and will withstand weathering. Old, reclaimed brick doesn't provide the same assurance of durability.

Brickmaking procedures and construction practices of half a century ago were considerably less scientific than those of today. Many older building were constructed with two different qualities of brick — hard-burned units for facings, and a softer, underfired unit used as "back up." But in a mixed pile at a demolition site, there's no sure way of telling a soft brick from a hard one. Consequently, when reclaimed brick is reused, you may end up with soft brick exposed to the weather, and it may crumble. When this happens, the soft brick must be cut out and replaced, the mortar points must be retooled, or it may be necessary to waterproof the surface of a wall.

Salvaged brick may also pose other problems. Tests conducted at the University of New Hampshire showed that brick manufactured today adhere twice as well to mortar as old brick that have undergone cleaning and resurfacing.

Building codes in some areas assume a 50 per cent decrease in allowable wall strength when salvaged materials are used.



RETAINS CUT BANK — Railroad ties were used as a wall to give the other side of the Neuenberg's garden living space an interesting accent. Steps at the lawn level are brick to match planters. Natural stones are used on the hillside.

Glass Blocks Are Still In

People who live in glass block houses don't have to duck stones. Glass blocks are "in" these days.

They still perform their primary job of admitting light where regular window glass won't do. Now, though, glass blocks also come in a wide variety of shapes, sizes and colors that add attractive design touches.

In an entry way, for example, colored glass blocks admit light to this often dark area, and they help make the home inviting, too. If the entry is small, a strip of a few blocks will do. If it's good-sized, an entire panel, in sections as large as three by five feet, is easily made up.

Showerheads In New Look

A variety of new developments in plumbing brass can lead to a more attractive bath or kitchen, as well as more convenience.

News in "brass" includes:

1. Single-handle faucets with thumb-controlled spray attachments for rinsing dishes and vegetables.
2. Single-handle faucets with both aerated stream and spray flow, as well as full-circle and up-down swing, for directing water anywhere in the sink.
3. Push-pull faucets, including some with a color-coded dial, for dialing the desired temperature.
4. Aerated showerheads with swivel arm, adjustable to different heights.

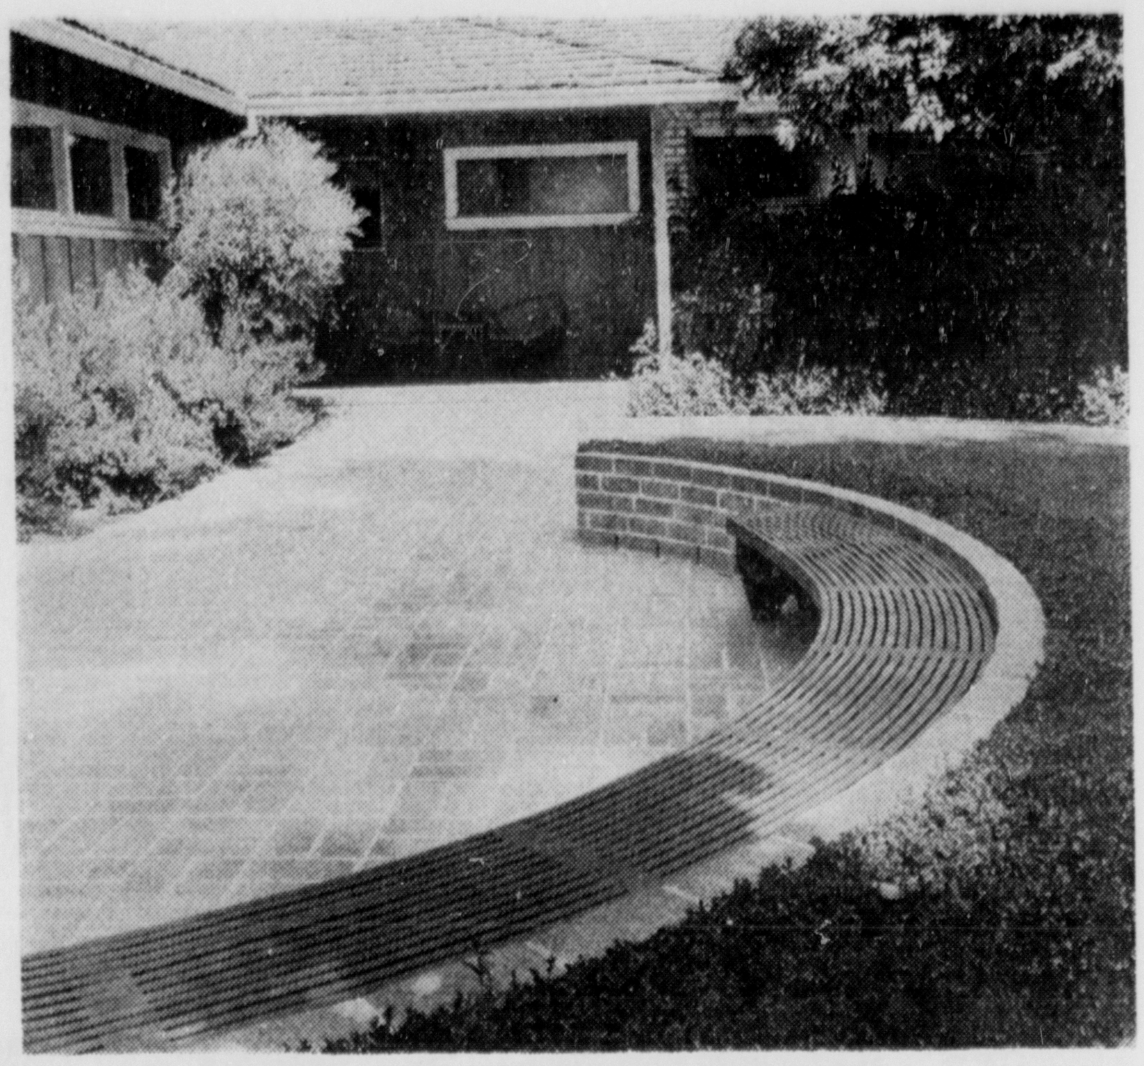
EAST PARK HOMES NOW OPEN

This three-bedroom home is known as the Woodbine model and is one of the houses now being offered by developer Wesley Bailey on East Washington Street, Petaluma. Also featured in the Woodbine are a sunken living room, family room with a fireplace and two baths. Sliding glass doors lead to a patio in all models.



PLEASING ENTRY DEVELOPED

At this Ross home a narrow, concrete walk was removed and replaced by a broad, brick walk as shown, expanded near the street to provide a curved wood seat, at the direction of landscape architect William Kapranos. Planting was reorganized to complement the house.

(Independent-Journal photo)

Brick Screen Wall Can Create Privacy

A spacious outdoor room can be achieved by screening an area with a perforated brick screen wall, according to the Structural Clay Products Institute. Light in feeling, but strong and durable, such screens create an attractive island of privacy and permit air circulation through openings between the bricks in the walls.

This Is The Age Of Water

This is the age of water. There are nearly 50 ways that water can be used in the home to make life more pleasant and convenient for the whole family.

Many young families planning a new home find that budget limitations make it necessary to defer some plumbed-in conveniences they'd like to have. In that case, it's a good idea to have the pipe stubbed-in at points of future use. Thus, provision can be made for the later addition of such features as an entertainment sink in the family room or on the patio, a shower in the basement, vanity lavatories in the bedrooms and even a complete bathroom, powder room or mudroom. The stubbed-in pipe will be capped and concealed by the walls and the home owner provided with plans indicating their exact location.

Best Pliers For All Around Use

Pliers come in dozens of sizes and shapes. For the home workshop, authorities recommend these.

For nuts or bolts, use multipurpose utility pliers, which grip and hold flat, square or hexagonal objects with powerful leverage.

HAWAIIAN POOL SETTING

WATERFALL CLOSE-UP — This hillside on the Ockey property was mostly bare rocks before landscaper Haver went to work on it. Young palms and suckling-type plants form the growth. The waterfall is a focal point at the rear of the pool area.

Ways For More Storage Areas

Wide-open spaces that can be prettied up and made functional range from neglected places such as tops of kitchen cabinets, or high-up areas in closets, to an unfinished attic.

Higher reaches of the kitchen are notorious for space waste. Often, the wall cabinets have dust-catching tops.

Put high-up areas in clothes closets to work by installing perforated panels, now available in woodgrained walnut finishes, over framing. Store boxes and other items on shelves placed on brackets that fit the perforations.

Best Policy On Judging Home Costs

How do you determine a fair price for home you are selling — or one you are thinking of purchasing?

The American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers defines market value as "the price expectable if a reasonable time is allowed to find a purchaser and if both seller and prospective buyer are fully informed."

Here lies the catch: The average family is not a frequent buyer or seller and therefore, is neither informed nor experienced. The solution is either to become informed or seek the assistance of an informed person.

Real estate agents and appraisers normally are best informed on the selling prices of houses. Because an appraiser generally covers large geographical area, he explained, his knowledge may lack depth in a particular neighborhood. It is therefore probable that a reputable and experienced real estate agent has the greatest fund of "market price" knowledge in any given area, and the buyer or seller should make maximum use of this knowledge.

Two essential ingredients for determining fair market value of a house are the knowledge of what comparable properties have sold for and the ability to make a fair comparison between houses which have sold and unsold houses.

Buyers often are better informed than sellers simply because buyers look at many houses while sellers generally have not made such comparisons. Today, the average potential buyer looks at 10 to 20 houses before purchasing one.

The asking price of an unsold house is sometimes quite different from the actual selling price. The experienced opinion of a real estate agent frequently will shed some light on the difference between the price being asked and the probable taking price.

The real estate agent and the appraiser look at a property unemotionally and base their price at the "expectable" level where the buyer and seller will get together.

No Longer Do Walls Have To Be Boring?

Almost anything from an ancient abacus to a zebra hide and including more common items like fine tapestries, original oils, handsome prints or driftwood clusters is suitable.

But many homemakers forget to provide the lighting that will best show off these objects and give them dramatic importance.

Ideally, such objects are selected before lighting has been installed. But this is rare and most of us end up adding lighting after the room has been furnished and accessorized.

The following suggestions for lighting wall-hung accessories can extract new beauty from your art objects and enliven your whole decor.

If you are lighting flat objects — oil paintings, water colors, antique or pop art signs — watch out for reflected glare that inhibits comfortable viewing. Be on guard against shadows from deep frames. experiment with different angle and types of lighting equipment such as frame-mounted reflectors, track-mounted ceiling lights, mantel reflectors or lighted picture frames.

If you want to try colored light sources, you can experiment with different types in both incandescent and fluorescent. Select those that will bring out the most desired effect in a picture from bright sunlight to hazy light through a window.

Devices used to light pictures or other art objects require normal general room lighting. Lighted pictures in dark rooms tend to lose many of the qualities intended by the artist. Sharp contrasts often are tiresome, too.

If you have a large object you really want to dominate an area — like the zebra hide example — it should be lighted for higher than the general illumination in the room. Two or three recessed or well-shielded surface-mounted spotlights can be very effective

Loose Mortar No Problem With This Easy Mixture

Water damage to inside walls and ceilings is sometimes the result of loose mortar on the outside of a brick house — even when the dampness occurs a considerable distance from the point of entry.

Generally, water moves into a damaged joint during a heavy wind and rainstorm. It may or may not show on the wall or ceiling nearest the trouble spot. If there is a weakness in the plaster or other type of material in that vicinity, the water will seep through. If not, the water will move along a wall or ceiling beam until it finds a weak spot through which it can penetrate. Thus, a leak in the ceiling in the center of a room can be the result of an opening between bricks on a wall 10 or more feet away.

The replacement of the crumbling mortar is known to professionals as "tuck pointing." Before new mortar is pushed into a damaged joint, it is important that all old, loose mortar be removed. Solid mortar which resists poking with an awl, old screwdriver or similar tool should be left as is. When the loose mortar has been cleaned out of the opening, the area should be wet down thoroughly to prevent the new material from drying out too quickly.

You can make your own mixture or buy one of the ready mixes that require only the addition of water. The proportions for your own mix are five parts of sand, one part of Portland cement and one part of hydrated lime. Add enough water to make a thick but workable mixture.

Using a pointed trowel, pack the mortar in tightly. Quickly wipe off, with a damp cloth, any excess that falls on the face of the brick. Draw the point of the trowel across the surface of the mortar, first vertically, then horizontally. Flush joints are all right in most cases, but if you what you can try to match the joints between the rest of the bricks. Usually these joints have a concave sweep to them.

As with all mortar or concrete, the repaired areas should be wet down a couple of times a day for several times.

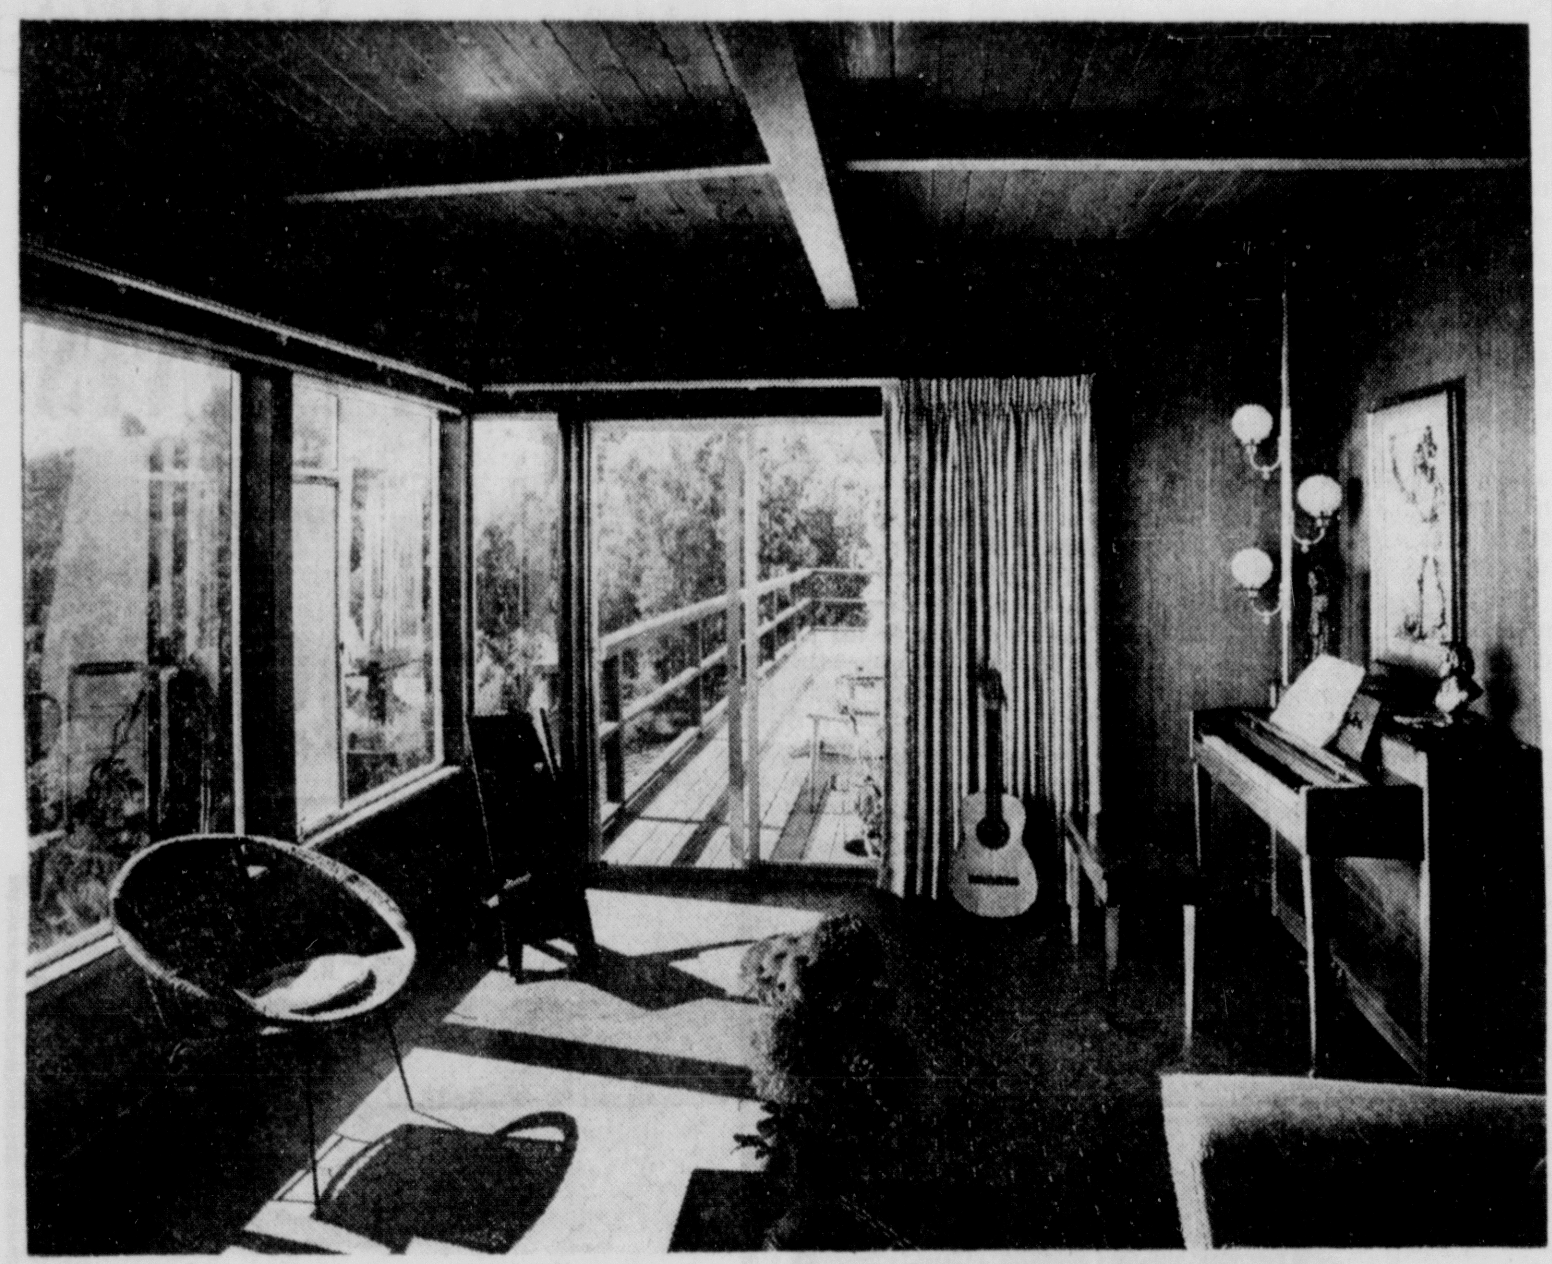
NEW ENTRY HALL — By enlarging the Flynn home it was possible to add this foyer and circular staircase descending to a new master bedroom, bath, small bedroom, wine room, laundry room and extra storage facilities. Total floor space added is approximately 1,000 square feet.

DINING ROOM ADDED—Working at the north end of the Flynn house where space for enlarging was available the designers and builder created a new and expanded dining room, blending the new construction with the existing architecture of the house.

OUTDOOR LIVING AREA — Bain Construction Co. provided the Flynns with this decorative fence treatment to screen off the private living area and bridge deck entrance. A new meandering pedestrian walk with Sonoma stone wall added an interesting landscaping feature to the garden.



REDESIGNING ADDS EXTRA ROOM

Need for more space in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Flynn in Larkspur resulted in this family room addition designed by Wagstaff and McDonald and built by Bain Construction Co. Located on Marina Vista Avenue, the Flynns enjoyed both view and privacy, making them reluctant to sell and move to a new area. (Ken Molino photo)

Insulating Glass Can Reduce Many Heating-Cooling Costs

If your heating and cooling dollars are literally flying out the window, the answer to your problem may be a relatively new item in the building products field: Insulating glass in stock wood windows.

Engineering studies show that windows can be one of the principal sources of heat loss in a home. Heat is lost both by transmission (through the glass and sash) and by infiltration (through cracks and openings). Both lead to a higher heating bills.

Heat loss by transmission can be cut by using insulating glass and wood sash. A few years ago, insulating glass was available only in sliding doors and fixed-sash windows. Today, insulating glass can be obtained in all styles of factory-made stock windows of wood. It is available in double-hung, casement, awning, hopper and slider units, as well as in stock bow and bay windows.

Insulating glass is created by the bonding together of two thicknesses of glass, with a vacuum of dead air space between them. Wood windows made with insulating glass cost about 15 per cent more than conventional types, but can pay for themselves several times over during their lifetime.

Recent tests showed that insulating glass cuts heat loss through transmission by 47 per cent, compared with single glazing. They also showed that a wood window with a single thickness of glass loses 22 per cent less heat than metal windows with the same dimensions. When insulating glass is used, heat loss through a window with a wood sash drops to 37 per cent less.

The combination of insulating glass and wood sash also eliminates condensation problems. Condensation, a common occurrence when the temperature outside is cold and the air inside is warm and humid, can cause damage to sills, wallpaper, as well as structural damage. Wood windows with insulating glass remain moisture-free.

Stock wood windows with insulating glass are weather-stripped in the factory to prevent heat loss through infiltration. Since wood sash will not contract and expand with temperature changes, the windows will stay weathertight.

A Single Lever Faucet Can Do The Job Of Two

Why use two when one can do the job as well? This statement points up the advantage of the single lever faucet found in many modern kitchens and bathrooms.

Manufactured by a number of firms, the single lever faucet allows you to control the water volume and temperature with only one handle.

Providing just the right amount of water at a temperature you want, this one-hand control is easily and safely operated by the entire family — children as well as adults.

Because the single lever faucet makes it possible to adjust the volume and temperature so quickly, it saves water as well as fuel to heat the water.

Carpet Goes Every Place Now, Even Across Ceilings

Everyone knows that carpet in its old position on the floor can expand a single room, iron out distracting jogs, minimize awkward corners and go on to weld several rooms and half-rooms into a smoothly flowing, visually satisfying whole. Since well chosen carpet integrates varying elements in interiors, many people are just now discovering that carpet has new decorating possibilities.

But then, carpet is not what it used to be. The new usefulness of modern day carpet has been brought about by new weaving and tufting techniques, new dyeing methods, and most of all by the basic new product advantages of man-made fibers.

The imperviousness of this material to soiling has been demonstrated on the floor, where after all, most carpet goes, but this characteristic has also made the use of the new carpet eligible for other surfaces where aesthetic maintenance standards are even higher.

At least one homeowner has put carpet to work where he literally meets it face-to-face several times a day. Confronted with the echoing sound of life in the hallway of a new apartment building, he mounted carpet on the inner side of the door opening into his apartment. He did not, of course, duplicate the treatment on the outside for fear of disturbing the uniformity of the public hall, but he accomplished quite enough on the inside to justify his efforts. The richly textured door resisted the most vigorous clawings of the family spaniel and repelled the finger marks of two little boys who also lived in apartment 14C.

And this is how he went about it. A thin panel of plywood was bought at the lumber yard (¼ inch), the edges sanded and painted to match the door and moldings, holes were cut to accommodate the neck of the door knob and the lock. The carpet was stretched and stapled onto the plywood, the staples becoming lost from sight in the dense pile. Besides the staples, casein glue was used around the edges to avoid gaps, and to control any stray fibers. The staple gun, borrowed from the hardware store, was of the type that opens up. The door was steel, the landlord fussy, so the panel was secured to the door with double action masking tape (his carpet dealer stocked it, so did the hardware dealer), entirely removable without a scar when the tenant decamps to a quieter building.

So you see, there is no law, decorating or otherwise, to prevent carpet from going where it will provide the most comfort and pleasure. Depends on how you look at it — not how you walk on it.

Price Tag Is The 'Factor'

Buying a new home is the biggest single investment most people ever make, so it's a good idea for anyone going out in search of his first home to sit down first and carefully consider not just immediate needs and expenses, but also what the future may hold in store.

The obvious place to start figuring is on the price tag. A good rule of thumb, recognized by many bankers and builders, is that the price of a house should be approximately two-and-a-half times the buyer's gross annual income.

After arriving at the price to pay, the first thing to be taken into account is location. That embodies the factors of: convenience of transportation in the area, the quality of the school system, the nearness of shopping facilities, and the condition and character of the neighborhood.
